9 KILLED IN FIREWORKS EXPLOSION

Today

Mexico's Great Future. Very Small Planet, But—No Mother Love, No Nation. Married at Two Years of Age.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HODGE, Cal., April 3.

RECENT visits to Mexico convince this writer that to help in building Mexico's prosperity would be one way to build United States prosperity. The Mexicans possess an empire of unsurpassed beauty, fertility, mineral and other wealth. The Mexican people are hard, patient and skillful workers, and hundreds of thousands of Mexicans could, and gladly would, learn mechanical skilled trades, well paid.

SOME of the billions that our bankers lend so cheerfully to Europe, not always to get them back, could be lent to greater advantage and more safely, to Mexico. To help in building a greater and wealthier Mexico would be to create new and rich markets for the United States.

Every new good road in Mexico would mean many American automobiles sold. Every Mexican helped by credit, to attain prosperity, would mean a new customer for American made goods, pending the building up of all industries in Mexico.

THIS is the continent that interests us. And the nations that should have our sincere and generous co-operation are our nearest neighbors, Canada on the North, Mexico on the South. To build, North and South, with the aid of our unlimited wealth, the honor and deserved friendship of these two countries, would be to make this North American continent forever invulnerable to attack.

THERE would be a triple alliance worth while—CANADA, THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO. Neighbors, friends, allies, respecting the rights and contributing to the prosperity of the other two.

FERNAND BALBET, French astronomer at Meudon, says the new planet, discovered by an American, is not important, because it is thirty times smaller than the earth. What of it? A human brain is many billion times smaller than this planet, but it gives the earth all its value. Without human intelligence and eyes to see, it would have no real existence.

SIZE is nothing. The Bible teaches that many angels could dance on the point of a needle, and science says millions of them really could dance there. The needle point would be a vast ballroom if the angels were as small as atoms. They may be smaller. The Power that rules this universe, which, of course, is not a human-shaped god with beard, hair and feet, may have no size at all. Consider the size of radium, sending out force for centuries, and don't despise the new planet.

RUSSIA, forgetting Sparta's history, plans a human society made to order. Children, taken from their mothers in babyhood, will be raised wholesale by the state. Mothers will enter factories and otherwise work the same as men do, or rather, as mares do, on the farm.

RUSSIA should remember that when a mare is valuable, and a fine horse is wanted, the mare is not put to work before the colt is born or afterward. Sparta educated its youth. Trained young men to surprise and murder the miserable Helot slaves, on their way to work at sunrise, that the young men might be fierce in war. Sparta's law used iron for money, that no man might care to have much of it.

FINE theories were worked out there as in Russia, but Sparta amounted to little. Athens, where human nature was allowed to develop according to rules NOT suggested by Draco or Karl Marx, produced Greek grandeur, art, literature and philosophy.

WE are wound up at birth, to run in a certain way, our inborn impulses are our main springs, and we cannot remake ourselves. To interfere with the family, with the mother's passionate love of her children, with man's ambition, stimulated by duty to his family, and reverence for his father and mother, is to insure a nation's downfall.

THROUGHOUT India, recently, thousands of little girls, from two to ten years of age have been hurriedly married, a majority of them to full grown men in time to escape provisions of a child-marriage law just promulgated throughout all British-India. The law does not apply to territories of native princes, gentlemen that submit to British overlordships, draw their great revenues, and may do with little girls and others as they please.

NO girl under fourteen, no boy under eighteen may be legally married in British-India, and there is deep resentment on religious grounds. The Hindu believes that a horrible destiny awaits the female child being unmarried, even through the fault of her own. In a reason, a "marriage," the Hindu Called was two years old, the stricken an adult. We are shocked notified but very recently, good patient all ians here and the police rush ught that an infant out baptism, through its own, was d ned What's the differ-

GIRL WINS MELLON SUIT

$102,247 Verdict Awarded For Injuries Suffered In Hotel Construction

The largest personal injury verdict in history here, according to court attaches, was returned in Common Pleas Court today by a jury against Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, and his brother, R. B. Mellon, president of the Mellon National Bank.

The jury, after four hours' deliberation, awarded Miss Mary G. Hahn, 23, of 325 Concord street, $102,427 in her suit against the Mellons, whom she sued as the owners of the Pittsburgher Hotel.

Miss Hahn was injured when a workman, employed on the construction of the Pittsburgher Hotel, dropped a hammer which shattered a window across the street in the Frick Annex. Flying glass struck Miss Hahn, employed as a cigar stand clerk in the building.

She was rushel to Mercy Hospital. During the trial, it was brought out that Dr. J. W. Fredette, Mercy Hospital staff surgeon, had contributed his own blood in a transfusion to save Miss Hahn's life.

Pirates' Pitching Ace Hurls 'Fast Ones' From Stand In Divorce Court Hearing

International News Service.

CANTON, O., April 3.—Burleigh Grimes, Pittsburgh Pirate pitching ace, took the mound in court here today to hurl a verbal volley against his wife, Florence Ruth Grimes, from whom he is seeking a divorce on the grounds of incompatability and gross neglect of duty.

Grimes charged that his wife "panned" him whenever he lost games and she belittled the wives of his fellow baseball players, making it extremely embarrassing for him.

On one occasion, Grimes said, his wife accompanied him on a western training trip, against the rules of the Pittsburgh club and against his own wishes. He said that he permitted her to go along at the suggestion of Sam Dreyfuss, vice president and treasurer of the Pirates, in order to avoid notoriety and keep harmony.

The court room was jammed today and officials had difficulty in handling the crowd.

TAXIS RESUME NIGHT SERVICE

Night operation of taxicabs will be started tonight, the Parmelee Transportation Company announced today. The operation will be confined to the downtown district and will be suspended at 11 o'clock.

Another development in the strike today was the operation of cabs without guards. Thirty-two taxis, without guards, took the streets in the downtown area at seven o'clock this morning.

Announcement of the night service was made following a conference between officials of the Parmelee Transportation Company and Sheriff Robert S. Cain.

The unguarded cabs were permitted to start this morning by Mayor Charles H. Kline and Sheriff Cain at the request of the Parmelee officials, it was said at the sheriff's office.

Cabs have been operating two weeks—30 of them—under an edict of Mayor Kline's which per-

Dirigibles Given Air Rights Over Planes

MEXICO CITY, April 3.—(AP.)—Under air traffic regulations issued today by the aeronautics section of the Department of Communications dirigibles will have the right of way in Mexican air lanes and planes must swerve aside to let them pass.

Philadelphia District Rocked By Series of Explosions; Suburban Plant in Ruins

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—(AP.)—Nine persons were killed and scores injured, some critically, in a series of explosions today that wrecked a fireworks plant at Devon, 15 miles from Philadelphia, and shook most of the fashionable suburbs along the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad west of this city.

The explosions occurred at the plant of the Pennsylvania Fireworks Display Company, inc., composed of 10 small buildings on a seven-acre tract.

There were three tremendously heavy blasts followed at intervals for about 20 minutes by lighter explosions, which at times sounded like the rattle of machine guns.

RUINS SEARCHED

Eight of the dead were killed outright. Firemen and other rescuers searched the debris of the wrecked buildings after the explosions for other possible victims.

INQUIRY BEGINS

Fire followed the blasts. Some of the bodies were so badly burned that it will be difficult to identify them. All were taken to a morgue at Malvern. The coroner of Montgomery county immediately started an investigation. Nearly all of the dead were employes, and several of them were women.

Most of the injured were taken to the Bryn Mawr Hospital at Bryn Mawr. More than a score were treated at the hospital. Several are in a critical condition.

The explosion caused an enormous amount of minor damage for miles around. The heavier blasts were felt in Philadelphia and across the Delaware River in New Jersey.

Most of the houses and other buildings in the immediate vicinity of the explosions were badly

The wreckage on the railroad tracks was cleared away a few minutes before the Fairmont Express was due.

RIVER DRAGGED

The missing man is John B. Martin, 65, of Atlantic avenue, McKeesport, engineer of the pump boat. His hat and gloves were found in the river, but no other trace of him. Nine skiffs are dragging for the body.

The injured are Homer Comstock, 50, of Point Pleasant, W.

NAVAL ARMS PACT BY U. S., BRITAIN AND JAPAN ASSURED

AGREEMENT CREDITED TO REED

Three Powers in Complete Accord on Disarmament; Scrapping Starts in 1931

By HARRY R. FLORY.
International News Service.

LONDON, April 3.—Complete agreement on disarmament programs was reached by the delegates of Great Britain, the United States and Japan today.

It was officially announced that the American and British representatives had accepted the reservations embodied in the Japanese sanction of the Reed-Matsudaira compromise agreement.

Acceptance of the Japanese reservations makes a tri-partite treaty between the three major naval powers of the world a certainty. If the security demands of France can now be satisfied, it is highly probable that a five-power disarmament treaty, the chief aim of the London naval conference, will materialize.

REED PLAN CARRIES

The reservations set forth in the Japanese acceptance were technical, and regarded by British and American experts as not affecting the efficacy of the compromise agreement obtained here by Senator David A. Reed, one of the leading members of the American delegation, and Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador to England.

Reed, credited by his colleagues with having been instrumental in solving the American, British and Japanese problem, made the following statement to newspapermen after the meeting:

HONORABLE SETTLEMENT

"I cannot too strongly impress on you the fine spirit in which the Japanese and British have met us. There was no disposition to quibble on the part of any one of the three delegations.

"All three delegations have been frank and fair. I cannot imagine more pleasant negotiations than these have been, the result was not a victory for any one, but an honorable and reasonable settlement between the three."

One of the most notable features of the agreement is the decision to commence scrapping of battleships before the end of 1931. Britain will scrap five, the United States three and Japan one. Previously Japan had held out for battleship scrapping in 1934 instead of earlier.

All agreed that the three powers were free to make any claims they desire in 1935, which will be taken up in due course at the next disarmament conference.

JAPAN RESERVATIONS

The reservations made by the Tokio government to the agreement, which gives Japan a virtual 70 per cent ratio in all classes of auxiliary warships, were as follows:

1—Japan reserves the right to maintain her demand for a 70 per cent heavy cruiser ratio at the next conference.

2—Japan reserves the right to lay down a certain number of new submarines in order to keep her dockyards busy, although the agreed total of 52,700 tons will not be exceeded.

3—Agreement on battleships must be considered an integral part of the compromise.

4—Japan will not be bound by the agreement to any point beyond 1936.

FIRST ACHIEVEMENT

The tri-partite agreement represents the first real achievement of the London conference since its convocation on January 21 of this year. Skirting complete collapse on several occasions, the agreement between Britain, America and Japan is held to represent a step of prime importance in the interest of naval limitation and disarmament.

WICKERSHAM'S DRY CHANGES NEAR ROCKS

Chief Features of Plan Dead, Congressmen Say; Mitchell for Project

By WILLIAM S. NEAL.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Prospects for enactment of the Wickersham Federal Court reform to better prohibition enforcement faded today when the House Judiicary Committee failed to approve the measures in a three-hour session behind closed doors.

Chairman Graham said that the program would be considered again next week.

Other committee members asserted the main features of the plan, including the so-called "juryless trial" suggestion, are "dead by common consent."

MITCHELL FOR PLAN

Modification of the Wickersham Commission's Federal Court reform was recommended today by Attorney General Mitchell to the committee.

Mitchell approved the commission's plan to define minor offenses under the Jones "5 and 10" law but emphatically opposed the bill of Representative Stobbs (Rep.), of Massachusetts, which would amend the law to provide a maximum penalty of six months' imprisonment and $500 for many offenses.

BACKS JURYLESS TRIALS

The commission's most radical court reform plan, providing for trial of minor prohibition cases by United States commissioners without jury trial, was approved by Mitchell with changes.

Mitchell said the Stobbs bill would reduce penalties to such an extent that any big bootlegger might escape the severe term of the Jones law.

damaged, and other buildings further away suffered damage from broken window glass.

SHOCK HEAVY

So heavy was the shock from the first explosions that piles of lumber in a yard a half mile away were toppled over.

The suburbs on the western side of Philadelphia, locally known as the "Main Line Section," are crowded one against another along the Lincoln highway. Some of the handsomest estates about Philadelphia are in that area, and the main roads usually are congested with traffic.

After the explosions occurred today the highway on which Devon stands, became a tangled jam, and it was with difficulty that ambulances and fire apparatus could break through.

As soon as the explosion was reported J. W. Morgan, state fire marshal, left Harrisburg for Devon. Officials of the State Department of Labor and Industry sent several attaches of the upper Darby district to Devon to inquire into the deaths caused by the blast.

Many windows in a Pennsylvania Railroad local train at Devon station were broken, and some passengers were cut by glass.

After the explosion hundreds of persons crowded the four tracks of the railroad. Railroad men summoned help from Valley Forge Military Academy, and 250 cadets went on duty patrolling the railroad.

CHILDREN KILLED AT PLAY

Two small girls, sisters, firemen said, were killed at play outside the plant. Other bodies were found in the debris.

Mrs. Anna McCone, an invalid, was believed seriously hurt by falling debris which crashed through the roof of her home.

Mrs. Stephen Roberts, a mile away, was hurled from a chair by the force of the explosions.

OWNER'S DAUGHTER UNHURT

Miss Antoinette Evardo, 20-year-old daughter of the owner of the plant, said:

"I was sitting in the office when there was a terrible explosion. It seemed to lift me right off my feet. I screamed and started to run when another explosion knocked me over."

She was uninjured.

PITTSBURGH ANTI-DRY BY 4-1

Literary Digest's Poll Shows 11,139 for Repeal, 5,244 To Modify; 4,368 Approve

NEW YORK, April 3.—Pittsburgh strongly favors repeal of the prohibition amendment, incomplete returns of ballots cast in the nation-wide prohibition poll being conducted by the Literary Digest indicate. Of the 20,751 ballots cast here, 11,139 were for repeal of the amendment; 5,244 for modification and 4,368 for enforcement.

Pittsburgh and Springfield, Mass., which had the largest total among the 13 cities, cast more than half of their votes for repeal.

Franklin, Pa., and Whittier, Cal., were the two "bone dry" cities, casting respectively 57.9 and 66 per cent of their votes for enforcement of the present law. Pluralities for enforcement were cast in Oil City, New Castle and Dallas, Tex., with Houston, Tex., giving more votes for modification of the Volstead law than for either enforcement or repeal.

More votes for repeal than for either modification or enforcement were polled in Dearborn, Mich.; Jamestown, N. Y.; Olean, N. Y.; Tallahassee, Fla., and Richmond, Cal.

Following is an incomplete analysis on the vote in several widely separated cities:

	Enf.	Mod.	Rep.	Total

BOAT BLOWS UP; ONE MISSING

Va., and George Harvell, Negro, both removed to McKeesport Hospital, and William Richards, 18, of Dravosburg.

The pump boat was moored alongside the A. B. Sheets, a towboat of the Hillman fleet. Steam was being generated in an old steamboat boiler on the pump boat and pumped into the boilers of the A. B. Sheets to clean them.

When the pump boat boiler let go, the boat was blown to pieces, and part of the cabin of the A. B. Sheets was wrecked and its boilers damaged.

Martin was the only person on the pump boat at the time. On the A. B. Sheets there was a crew of 17. Comstock was the engineer, the injured Negro a fireman and Richards a deckhand.

The explosion rocked Dravosburg and caused great excitement.

The pump boat, valued at $2,000, was a total loss. Damage to the A. B. Sheets is estimated at $1,500 by Capt. John Howder, superintendent of the Hillman fleet.

Mrs. Detty Ward, stewardess of the Sheets, described her experience as terrifying.

WOMAN DESCRIBES BLAST

"I was in the kitchen on the boiler deck at the time, cooking dinner," she said. "It was about half-past nine. The explosion seemed to me to blow the whole side of the boat in."

M. J. Ivan, of 312 West Fifth street, McKeesport, foreman of a gang of workers on the P. and L. E. tracks across the river from the explosion, described the boiler hurtling across the Monongahela. He said:

"I saw the boiler coming across the river, end over end. It looked small, like a five-gallon can. It must have been at least 300 feet in the air. The boiler landed about 200 feet from us. It struck on the ties and sent a lot of splinters flying around. Then with bars we pushed it off the track into the river. The Fairmont Express was due in about 15 minutes."

Scolded by Parents, Bride Takes Poison

North and South America Joined by Telephone

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(INS.)—Direct telephonic communication between North and South America was established today with an elaborate ceremony centering in the cabinet room of the White House, the presidential palaces at Santiago, Chile, Montevideo, Uruguay and the American embassy at Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Speaking over a 5,300-mile circuit—the longest telephone setup in existence—President Hoover exchanged greetings with President Ibanez, of Chile, and President Campisteguey, of Uruguay. Acting Secretary of State Cotton talked to John Campbell White, American charge d'affairs at Buenos Aires.

President Yrigoyen, of Argentina, was prevented by illness from participation. It was said he has a sore throat. Senor Don Julian Enciso, counsellor of the Argentina embassy here, denied vigorously reports that American enactment of a high tariff on wheat, rather than illness, prevented Yrigoyen's talking to Hoover. Yrigoyen has persisted in refusal to name an ambassador to the United States.

President Hoover, recalled his good will tour of South America just before taking office.

"I did not anticipate, when I took leave of the happy hospitality which your excellency extended to me slightly over a year ago, that the rapid strides of science, in partnership with commerce, would so soon afford me the opportunity again to converse in person with you," Mr. Hoover said to the Chilean and Uruguayan presidents.

They replied in Spanish, assuring President Hoover of good will. The connection was letter-perfe... the voices as clear as in a ... versation within the city of ... ington.

The entire ceremony wa... cast over a nation wide ... Immediately after the pr... exchanges, service be... four countries was ope... public.

Loses Battle With Wife, Ex-Officer Arrests Self

Ed Parfitt, who was fired as a policeman by the Police Trial Board a few days ago, showed up at his home at 71 Haberman avenue a bit under the weather last night and today he found himself in Morals Court, arrested.

But it was his own fault and this is how he explained it to Magistrate Jones:

"Your Honor, I made the mistake of arguing back with my wife. So, just to get away from a tongue lashing, I called the wagon and had myself arrested."

Ed was discharged.

GAS BLASTS RIP UP BROADWAY, CAUSE PANIC

Five Injured, Three Horses Killed, Thousands Flee When Manholes Blow Up

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Seven gas mains exploded with great violence at Broadway and Thirtieth street today, injuring five persons and killing three horses. Thousands of panic-stricken workers fled from their offices in populous business section.

A policeman was hurt seriously. Besides the more seriously injured, many were believed to have been bruised and shocked. Telephone and fire alarm service in the immediate vicinity was ruined. Emergency police set up a guard around the area fearing further explosions because of the escaping gas.

The blast shattered hundreds of windows for blocks around, tore great holes in the street and rocked nearby buildings. All traffic was stopped on Broadway for three blocks.

CAUSE MYSTIFIES

Three fire companies stood by while engineers of the Consolidated Gas Company prepared to seek the cause of the explosions and prevent further blasts. No theory as to the cause had been advanced. Other explosions in city mains have been caused by spontaneous combustion and short circuits on electric power lines which parallel gas mains.

A wagon drawn by four horses was directly over the manhole where the first blast occurred. Three of the horses were killed. Other explosions followed in rapid succession, flames shooting up from the uncovered holed.

5,000 CROWD AROUND

Police circulated through the business buildings in the vicinity warning occupants to leave and ordering all gas be shut off. A crowd of more than 5,000 quickly collected. Police reserves cleared the streets for blocks around.

HOTEL GUEST HURT

Patrolman Angelo Savatta, of the emergency squad, was badly injured when a series of explosions ripped up the sidewalk.

William Huston, 49, of Dayton, O., a guest at Hotel Breslin, was knocked unconscious by a fragment of pavement while standing in front of the hotel. He was cut on the side of his head. Two firemen and a traffic patrolman also were injured.

PROHIBITION AND LABOR ISSUES UP

State Federation Backing For Davis, Brown Seen; Fisher Indorses Senator

Developments today in Pennsylvania's political maelstrom included these:

1—Grundy and Pinchot candidacies were definitely linked for the first time by Philadelphia's "Committee of 70," whose objective is purity of the ballot.

2—Dry question was brought to the fore by the Association Against Prohibition which declared it would be the dominant issue in the primary.

3—Gov. Fisher definitely aligned himself behind Senator Grundy.

4—Condemnation of Grundy was voiced at a gathering of labor organizations in Harrisburg, with predictions of united labor support for Secretary Davis and Francis Shunk Brown.

Urging support of a Grundy-Pinchot ticket, Thomas Raeburn White, chairman of the "Committee of 70" in Philadelphia, today flayed the Philadelphia Republican organization, charging that it is seeking to extend its power throughout the state.

Before the White statement was issued, however, former Gov. Gifford Pinchot trained his guns on Francis Shunk Brown, organization candidate, charging him with failure to make known his position on various issues, particularly that of prohibition.

BROWN ANSWERS PINCHOT

In a statement in reply, Brown said that the voters would be advised in plenty of time before the primaries of his position "on all matters vitally affecting the welfare of the people."

The Association Against Prohibition, with three headquarters already functioning in Philadelphia, announced that branches would be set up in all wards and in all counties of the state.

"This is no time for ducking," said its secretary, William Morse. "The public has no interest in the things Francis Shunk Brown talks about. The real issue will be fought between our candidate for governor, Thomas W. Phillips, of Butler, and Gifford Pinchot. The candidate who ducks will be defeated."

News came from the capital that Gov. Fisher would support the candidacy of Senator Grundy. "My appointment of Mr. Grundy to the Senate and my speech at the testimonial dinner tendered him in Philadelphia after his appointment should be evidence of my position toward him," the executive said.

LABOR CONDEMNS GRUNDY

Announcement also came from Harrisburg that representatives of labor in conference there had declined for the present to indorse a state ticket and that they were opposed to the nomination of Senator Grundy.

Two of the men attending the conference afterward declared for Brown and Secretary of Labor Davis. They were Thomas G. Robertson, a vice president of the state federation, living at Versailles, Pa., and P. T. Fagan, of Pittsburgh, president of District No. 5 of the United Mine Workers of America.

Robertson went so far as to say "the gathering of the federation shows that organized labor will stand staunchly behind James J. Davis and Francis Shunk Brown," venturing an opinion that "95 per cent or more" of the representatives favored Brown over Pinchot.

Pinchot's local campaign marked time yesterday with an announcement by County Commissioner McGovern that Pinchot would come to Pittsburgh next Wednesday for a speech in McKeesport and would remain four days.

ABBOT NAMING CALL ISSUED

Every Capitular of St. Vincent Archabbey community has been notified to be present for the election of an archabbot to succeed the late Rt. Rev. Aurelius Stehle, O. S. B., on April 23.

Rules require that all Capitulars attend such an election unless for some grave reason they be excused.

Those eligible to the office of Abbot include not merely the members of the community choosing an Abbot any member of the American Cassinese congregation who has made solemn vows and been ordained a priest. The whole American Cassinese congregation today numbers about 1,200 members. St. Vincent Archabbey, near Latrobe, Pa., is the largest with 224 religious.

Rt. Rev. Stehle, fourth Archabbot of St. Vincent, died in St. Francis hospital, Pittsburgh, on February 12.

DARROW FIGHTS KILLER'S DOOM

ST. JOHNS, N. B., April 3.—(INS.)—Clarence Darrow, internationally known criminal lawyer, has been retained by sports lovers in the maritime provinces and New England to aid in the appeal of Ingvald Andrew (Bing) Anderson, champion ski jumper, who is under sentence of death for murder at Sydney, N. S.

Darrow offered his services to D. A. Cameron, K. C., of Sydney, defense counsel, who at once accepted. Prominent sportsmen in New England are raising a fund to defray all expenses in connection with an appeal, the grounds of which will be Anderson's alleged insanity.

Anderson, who was a citizen of Berlin, N. H., was convicted of the murder of Debloise Rehberg, hotel clerk, of Sydney. Execution was set for May 20.

SQUAW PLEADS MURDER GUILT

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 3.—(AP.)—Lila Jimerson, the "Red Lilac" of the Cayuga Indians, this afternoon pleaded guilty in a hospital room, which temporarily became a county court, to a reduced charge of murder, second degree, in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, wife of Henri Marchand, widely-known artist.

Sentence was not pronounced, the woman being remanded to the custody of the Erie County sheriff who will be responsible for her guard while she is undergoing treatments for tuberculosis in Buffalo City Hospital.

Charged with murder, first degree, her case was nearing conclusion Tuesday when it was abruptly brought to a halt by her collapse in the court room.

Yesterday Judge F. Bret Thorn dismissed the jury and declared the case a mistrial.

JAIL DUCHESS IN GAS EPISODE

LONDON, April 3.—(INS.)—The latest chapter in the amazing career of the Duchess of Leinster, former show girl, wife of the Premier Duke and Earl of Ireland, was enacted today when she was arraigned in Lambeth Police Court on a charge of attempted suicide and remanded for trial.

The duchess was found unconscious in a gas-filled lodging house room in Brixton. She was alleged to have turned on the gas after an argument with Stanley Williams, young cook, who had rented the place with her, as to whether they should listen to London or Paris on the radio.

The duke came to London today to visit his attorneys. He sent a representative to the hospital where the duchess had been recuperating, learned she was out of danger, and then returned to his country estate.

Meanwhile Williams rejoined his wife. Mrs. Williams prevented attempts to interview him, saying, "He's so upset about it all."

Weather Conditions.

Low barometric pressure is dominating the weather over the states east of the Mississippi, and, as a result, the weather is mostly cloudy, with rain in some localities, mostly over the Appalachian Mountains. Another low pressure area appears over the far Northwest, and over the Southwest, with relatively high pressure over the Plains states. The weather, however, is mostly clear west of the Mississippi River. The rainfall for the last 24 hours was light, except for moderately heavy amounts over the southern states. The temperature changes were slight, but towards warmer generally. There is no cold weather indicated for the next several days.

River Conditions.

The rivers are rising slowly. Crest stages have been reached at the head waters. Stage at Franklin is 6.3; Lock No. 7, 14.3; Pittsburgh, 14.3; Dam No. 4, 12.2; Dam No. 6, 12.6; Dam No. 9, 11.8, and Dam No. 12, 10.0. The dams are down. The Ohio will continue to rise about one-half foot more at Pittsburgh.

MILES PROBERS TO QUIZ WIDOW

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(INS.)—Department of Justice agents investigating for the district attorney's office the death nearly two years ago of Basil Miles, former diplomat, after an operation, were said today to be desirous of getting the widow's story of the deathbed scene. She is now Mrs. Henry H. Rogers, wife of the Standard Oil magnate.

She was present when Miles died suddenly from what the doctors certified as pulmonary embolism. Two different stories as to how Miles died were being told in diplomatic circles today. One is, he had been given a highball and expired soon after drinking it. The other is, according to the tale, that he had asked his wife to telephone his man and ask him to bring mint juleps to the hospital for Mrs. Miles, a friend who was present, and himself. It was while Mrs. Miles was at the telephone, according to the story, that Miles was stricken and died soon after her return to the room.

Edgar Hoover, chief investigator of the Justice Department, was reported to be en route to Philadelphia and New York today, but Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw, who opened the investigation, would not say Hoover's trip is connected with the inquiry. Miles is buried in Philadelphia.

SUSPECT HELD IN GEM THEFT

Maurice Finegold, 24, of 2527 Center avenue, was held for court today on a charge of larceny and entering a building in connection with the $5,000 robbery of the Krason Jewelry Company, 733 East Ohio street, Monday night.

Detectives testified Finegold last night went to the home of Joseph Krason, owner of the jewelry shop, and asked Krason not to prosecute him. They said that they had been notified by Krason of Finegold's intended visit, and were hidden in Krason's home and heard Finegold's request.

Finegold's arrest came about through the alertness of a policeman, who noticed a car being driven from an alley in the rear of the jewelry store the night of the robbery. The auto grazed a telephone pole and the policeman took the license number. Finegold was later arrested at his home.

WASHBURN, DUE FOR TOKIO, DIES

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP.)—Had Albert H. Washburn, who died at 64 in Vienna, Austria, yesterday, lived he would have been named to one of the highest posts in the diplomatic service—ambassador to Japan.

Mr. Washburn, former minister to Austria, had gone to Vienna to take care of matters left pending by his resignation. He had intended to return shortly to the United States. Instead, word came from the White House today that the President had decided upon his appointment—as ambassador to Tokio—an appointment that newer will be made.

The former minister to Austria entered the foreign service in 1890 as American consul at Madgeburg, Germany, and in 1922 he was named minister to Austria.

William R. Castle, long an assistant secretary of state, is now in Tokio as special ambassador to Japan, and the name of the man who will take the post as ambassador is again a subject for speculation.

They arrived too late. The boy was dead.

Meanwhile police headquarters sent out a call to notify the father of the crisis. Sullivan was patroling Banksville road. He, too, sped to the home where his son was dying. He, too, arrived too late.

Wall Street Junk Man, Stock Expert, Dies

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP.)—Wall street's junk man, Roland M. Smythe, 75, dealer in extinct securities, is dead.

Engraved paper, representing billions in forlorn hopes, burst bubbles and defunct wild cats, passed through his hands during the half century he conducted his unique business from a little office at 2 Broadway.

He embarked on his unusual business career when in the early 80's, while employed by a stock brokerage firm, he was handed some repudiated South Carolina bonds with instructions to destroy them. He sold one through another broker to the state of South Carolina for $1,200, and not caring for the rush and bustle of the street he thereafter turned his attention to a trade in obsolete and extinct securities.

He became an expert authority on the value—if any—of old securities and was frequently consulted by bankers and brokers concerning the worth of stock and bond certificates which came into their hands.

He was born in Dublin, Ireland, where his grandfather was lord mayor.

EPPLEY INVITES OAKLAND HALL SITE DEFENSE

Denies Questioning Good Faith of Planners Who Picked Remote Farms

E. C. Eppley, president of the Eppley Hotels, had no intention of questioning the good faith of the Chamber of Commerce committee or of members of the County Planning Commission when he criticized the proposed Schenley Farms site for the Town Hall, he stated in an open letter today to George S. Davison, chairman of the Chamber's Town Hall committee.

Recently Eppley issued a statement warning against building the Town Hall in the Oakland district after the Oakland site had been approved by Davison's committee and the planning commission. Davison then wrote to Eppley taking exception to the latter's reference to Lincoln Dickey's recommendation of the Schenley Farms site. Dickey is an authority on Town Halls and made a survey here before recommending the site.

CIVIC SERVICE PRAISED

In answering Eppley wrote:

"Permit me to say there has been no intention of questioning, as you suggest I have done by inference, the good faith of the Chamber of Commerce committee or of those members of the County Planning Commission who were guided or misguided by Mr. Dickey's recommendation and concurred in his choice of the Oakland site.

"I feel that the community owes them a debt of gratitude for the civic service they have conscientiously performed in giving their time and thought to this question without personal remuneration.

"The facts concerning Mr. Dickey's part in building up a case for this particular site speak for themselves. I know nothing of his motives, nor do I impugn them. If they are impugned, it is by the facts.

"On the other hand, the idea of a person of Mr. Dickey's experience and intelligence suggesting that a civic coliseum—particularly a convention and exhibit hall—be built three and one-half miles from the business, transportation, theater and hotel center of town struck me as being so preposterous that wonderment is naturally the result."

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—(AP.)—Tuesday night's bombing of three street cars, blamed by Superintendent of Police Ray on jitney operators, was followed by the imposition of jail sentences by Federal Judge Wayne G. Borah on 15 men guilty of running jitneys.

FLAMING TANK BOMBARDED

ELDORADO, Ark., April 3.—(AP.)—A three-inch cannon was used by firemen last night in efforts to extinguish a blazing 55,000-barrel oil tank in the "tank farm" of the Magnolia Petroleum Company near here, ignited by lightning. The fire threatened 25 other oil-filled tanks on the farm.

Five holes were blown in the metal tank by the cannon to drain the oil into earthen pits. Thus it was hoped to prevent the oil boiling over the tank and setting fire to adjacent oil storage basins.

Company officials estimated the loss at $80,000.

APPLY SCIENCE IN KILLER HUNT

CHICAGO, April 3.—(INS.)—The killer who strangled Mrs. Mildred Helsing to death in her apartment with a strip of ribbon was known to the young wife, police announced today as science applied all of its resources in an effort to identify the assailant.

Recognized by Mrs. Helsing, perhaps while looting her home, the killer was forced to end her life to prevent exposure, authorities concluded after a 36-hour investigation of the mysterious slaying. A stranger, it was decided, would have faced no such necessity, as Mrs. Helsing was a frail woman who might have been easily overpowered.

This theory was substantiated by the disclosure that the black satin ribbon with which Mrs. Helsing was strangled was her own. Familiar with the apartment, it is presumed, the slayer sought something with which to choke his victim and found the ribbon in a shopping bag.

BUILD HUGE CAP FOR WILD WELL

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 3.—(AP.)—Oil workers, groping amid tons of falling petroleum, today were intent on fitting a 3,000 pound "spring bonnet" on the rebellious head of the No. 1 Mary Sudik, wild gusher of the Oklahoma City oil field.

Hurling oil over the countryside for miles around, the well, for more than a week, has virtually saturated the South Oklahoma City field with oil. Because of the menace of possible fire, C. R. O'Neal, state fire marshal, late yesterday created a fire hazard zone for two miles about the big well.

The mammoth steel "bonnet" was constructed by engineers especially for the well which ripped out casings and connections by the force of its gas flow of 200,000,000 cubic feet a day.

PITTSBURG, Kan., April 3.—(AP.)—Seventy delegates, claiming to represent 95 per cent of the coal miners working in the Kansas field, met here to reorganize District 14 of the United Mine Workers of America as a unit of the insurgent union organization headed by Alexander Howat.

August Dorchy, who succeeded Howat as district president when the latter was named chief of the forces opposed to John L. Lewis, international president, at a rump convention at Springfield, Ill., recently, presided at today's sessions.

Henry Allai, district provisional president named by Lewis when the District 14 charter was revoked, did not attend the convention. Other Lewis representatives also remained away.

A committee was appointed to draft a new constitution. The convention is expected to remain in session several days.

SANTO DOMINGO UNREST GROWS

SANTO DOMINGO, April 3.—(AP.)—The Dominican political pot is again threatening to boil over, their being prospects of a popular uprising against both Houses of Congress. The crisis arose from a campaign of obstruction in Congress, which is composed of partisans of the deposed President Vasquez, to prevent approval of a new electoral law submitted by the provisional administration. The Congressmen have tried instead to re-enact the Vasquez electoral law.

This old statute disfranchised all parties except the administration organization. It especially operated against the Labor Party which was foremost in promoting the movement that resulted in the overthrow of Vasquez.

These tactics have produced much popular unrest and there have been several mob manifestations against Congress in a number of communities.

The provisional administration under Estrella Urgena is making efforts to calm public opinion. It has appointed a commission of four prominent citizens to investigate graft in the old government and to file charges against any officials who may seem culpable. Some of the senators and members of the House are among the men whose acts will be examined.

James Cruze, the director, was an official of James Cruze, Inc.

Every car needs regular care...

TRUST CONTROL REVEALED AT POWER MEET

Records Show $50,000 Guaranteed by Light For U. S. Delegation

By M. L. RAMSAY,
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Highly organized and well financed machinery to spread American Power Trust propaganda on a colossal scale through an international meeting of the World Power Conference has been revealed.

Forty-nine countries are scheduled to be represented at this meeting, to be held in Berlin June 16 to 25. President Paul Von Hindenberg of Germany is listed as its sponsor.

A reception for the 4,000 to 5,000 Americans and foreigners is to be held in the Reichstag building, with ensuing sessions in the state opera house.

BUDGET CREATED

A $50,000 a year budget for the American committee of the conference has been guaranteed by the National Electric Light Association, chief propaganda agency of the Power Trust. This fund is to be made up by the American power corporations, with some help from allied electrical equipment corporations and financial houses and from $10 membership dues.

The government will send official delegates to the conference, Universal Service was told at the State Department. Government departments are to nominate them, submitting their names to President Hoover, it was stated.

It is revealed also as having sprung from, and adopted the objects of a 1924 world conference at London which American power leaders made a forum for attacks on the Boulder Dam project and on retention by the public of any of its power resources and equipment.

QUESTION OF RATES

The critical question of rates the public must pay for electricity and gas is shown by the program as in the hands of nine men. All these are with the Consolidated Gas Company of New York, Stone & Webster, the United Light & Power Company, the Public Service Electric & Gas Company, the Syracuse Lighting Company and the American Gas Association.

The latter is the national organization of gas companies, corresponding to the light association in the power field.

Germany's great national, state and municipal plants will be represented, it was stated at the German embassy. They are in fact so numerous and dominant, embassy officials added, that it would be virtually impossible to frame a program without them.

Records submitted to the committee show that of the more than $25,000 which has supported the American conference group for the last six years, $19,500 was contributed by power companies. Electric Bond and Share and General Electric subsidiaries put up most.

Insull's Commonwealth Edison Company, of Chicago; the New York Edison Company, the North American Company, Pacific Gas and Electric, the Niagara Falls Power Company and the Alabama Power Company were other substantial contributors.

The money was raised, Senate records show, by Henry J. Pierce, president of the Washington Irrigation and Development, which is part of the Electric Bond and Share group; the late John W. Lieb, vice president of New York Edison; H. I. Harriman, and H. M. Addinsell.

HUSBAND KILLS NEGRO SLAYER

SEBRING, Fla., April 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. William E. Carver, member of a prominent Philadelphia family, and her 2-year-old son were dead today, victims of an ax attack by a Negro yard boy.

The Negro, Ben Whitehead, was shot to death by Mrs. Carver's husband immediately after the attack yesterday.

The Carvers were taking an afternoon nap.

Mrs. Carver was awakened and cried out as she saw the man in her bedroom. He struck her and she fell dead on the bed. Another blow killed the child. A baby in another room was not harmed.

Carver, asleep in an adjoining bedroom, rushed to his wife's bedroom just after the attack and shot the Negro to death.

The coroner's jury, considering the killing of the Negro, returned a verdict of "justifiable homicide."

TAXATION HERE HELD UNFAIR

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—(AP.)—Dr. Austin F. MacDonald, assistant professor of political science at the University of Pennsylvania, told delegates to the annual schoolmen's week at the opening session that Pennsylvania's tax system was inequitable.

"It places unreasonably heavy burdens upon some, and permits others to escape with less than their share," he declared. "The system should be revised."

Reforms in taxation proposed by the speakers included suggestions for a net profits tax applicable at the same rate to all business, repeal of the capital stock tax and the mercantile license taxes, and readjustment of motor vehicle fees.

BRUENING WINS IN REICH VOTE

BERLIN, April 3.—(AP.)—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening whose new cabinet scored its first victory in the Reichstag today defeating a non-confidence motion, called a cabinet meeting immediately after adjournment to decide on his government's position.

He was reported to be concerned over the problem of obtaining a majority for the government's complete program and to have consulted his cabinet as to whether it would not be better after all to dissolve the Reichstag and have new elections.

The Nationalists, who did not support today's non-confidence motion, which was defeated, 252 to 187, made so many reservations that Chancellor Bruening was fearful the Nationalist support might prove illusory when it came to practical work.

The victory was looked upon really as one for President von Hindenburg over Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the Nationalists. Had the government fallen, Chancellor Bruening had the authorization of President von Hindenburg to dissolve the Reichstag.

COSGRAVE BACK IN PRESIDENCY

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 3.—(AP.)—William T. Cosgrave was restored today to the presidency of the Irish Free State, an office he held from 1922 until last week, when he resigned after defeat in the Dail on an opposition measure.

He was re-elected by the Dail Eireann last night by a vote of 80 to 65. In two preceding ballots his two opponents, Eamonn De Valera, of the Fianna Fail, and Thomas J. O'Connell, labor leader, were eliminated. De Valera by a vote of 93 to 54, and O'Connell by a poll of 78 to 13.

When President Cosgrave's ministry fell last week it had survived since 1922, passing a general election unscathed, and had attained a record for longevity among European cabinets. It fell by a vote of 66 to 64 on an opposition bill extending old age pensions.

THEFT SUSPECT REARRESTED

Held under bond as a suspect in a North Side jewelry robbery, Maurice Finegold, 24, of 2527 Center avenue, was arrested again, police say, when he appeared at the home of the North Side jeweler who had been robbed and tried to induce him to remain away from the hearing in police court. Finegold is being held at the North Side station on a charge of being a suspicious person.

Finegold was arrested Monday after the jewelry store of Joseph Krasen, at 723 East Ohio street had been entered and robbed. He was held over at a hearing Tuesday morning and released that afternoon under $1,000 bond. Yesterday afternoon he is alleged to have gone to Kresen's store and tried to induce the proprietor to remain away from a hearing scheduled this morning.

Finegold will be arraigned today on the two charges.

Policeman Cleared In Fatal Shooting

Patrolman John C. Hooper was exonerated by a coroner's jury today in the fatal wounding of James Gilmore, 24, of 1317 Forbes street, who died March 10 in Mercy Hospital. Hooper testified that on February 26 he saw several men changing auto license plates. They shot at him and he returned the fire, a bullet striking Gilmore.

Disorderly House Keeper Fined $50

Rudolph Larnci, 42, of 550 Seventh avenue, was fined $50 in Central Police Court today on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. The fine followed a raid last night when police reported seizing a small quantity of liquor in his place. Six visitors were arrested. They told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg this morning they were employes of the University Club. They were discharged.

Wrecked Mine Gives Up Fifteenth Body

KETTLE ISLAND, Ky., April 3.—(AP.)—Eight more bodies were recovered today from the Pioneer Coal Company mine, wrecked Saturday by an explosion which entombed 16 men. Seven bodies had already been recovered, leaving only J. E. Hill, mine foreman, still to be located.

Cashier Clipping Pictures From Money Warned

Clipping the pictures of presidents from paper money may be a nice pastime for people who have lots of bills, but it is liable to bring unexpected trouble from the federal authorities.

A warning against mutilating the bills has been issued by William A. Landvoight, chief of the secret service here, who has just completed an investigation which involved a bank cashier who clipped the presidents' pictures. No arrest was made, and the identity of the cashier is being kept secret.

The cashier said he was saving the pictures for a scrapbook and that they were clipped from old bills being returned to the national treasury for redemption.

FILIPINO ENDS LEAGUE STUDY

GENEVA, April 3.—(AP.)—Marcelo T. Boncan, of Manila, member of the Philippine House of Representatives, yesterday completed a three-day study of the League of Nations headquarters and activities, then left for London.

Boncan said he believed the prospects for Philippine independence were very bright now, and that his political party, the Nacionalistas, had begun to think of the possibility of membership in the League. Such membership, he believes, would offer a strong guarantee for Philippine territorial integrity and the continuance of freedom if independence were attained.

The legislator is gathering data in Europe on the question of appointing a trade commissioner there. He said if the United States granted independence to the Philippines and the islands thereafter found themselves up against a tariff wall, they would be interested in new markets for their products.

Boncan expects to visit the United States after his trip to London.

Raise Muenchen, Sunk by Blaze

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP.)—The North German Lloyd liner Muenchen, which sank in the North River after a fire on February 11, was floated yesterday. Enough water was pumped from the hold of the 15,000-ton ship to raise her 10 feet above the water line. Capt. Wilhelm Drechsel, marine superintendent for the North German Lloyd, said the pumping would continue so that the ship would be completely afloat by Friday or Saturday. She will be taken to dry dock in Brooklyn for reconditioning.

KELLY SCORES MONOPOLIES

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP.)—Congress has the power to "take out of the hands of chain stores their mightiest weapon for the destruction of competition and the building of monopolies," Representative Clyde Kelly, of Pittsburgh, declared last night in a radio address delivered here over station WJSV. Kelly was the second Pennsylvania representative to speak in behalf of independent merchants, being preceded last week by Rep. Louis T. McFadden, of Canton, Pa.

Emphasis was placed by Kelly on standardizing the sales price of merchandise. By fixing the retail price at the factory, he said, chain stores dealing in drugs, food and the necessities of life would be prevented from placing "leaders" and "specials" on sale below the manufacturing and distributing costs, as a means of encouraging customers to purchase other articles not so liberally priced.

"I maintain," said Kelly, "that when goods are sold at less than cost on this price cutting juggle on trade-marked goods the community loses. There may be a selfish gain for a few individuals but the resulting losses must be paid by all."

Elimination of the independent merchant, Kelly asserted, would result in depreciation of property values, increased taxes and less deposits in local banks.

Smallpox Stampedes Mexicans to Clinics

MEXICO CITY, April 3.—(AP.)—Wide spread of virulent "black" smallpox in Mexico City and vicinity has thrown such a "care into residents that wholesale vaccinations are being made, many at free clinics. Thousands of school children are being innoculated daily.

When the sanitary brigade went to the nearby town of Cuajimalpa to vaccinate the population it was necessary to carry a police escort and vaccinate many inhabitants by force. The brigade was stoned as it left. There have been only a few deaths.

Germany Hears Bloch Symphony

LEIPZIG, Germany, April 3.—(AP.)—The symphony "America," which won a $3,000 prize in 1927 for Ernest Bloch, was given its first production in this country last night from a local broadcasting studio. Mr. Bloch, whose home now is in San Francisco, was formerly director of the Cleveland Institute of Music. The prize which he won was offered by the magazine Musical America.

FAMOUS SCIENTISTS STUDY HEALTH OF MINE WORKERS

"ALL NEWCOMERS TO AMERICA," HE SAYS, "PARTICULARLY THE EUROPEANS, SUFFER WHILE GETTING USED TO NEW WAYS OF LIVING AND NEW JOBS."

Some of the world's famous scientists have just given out an announcement of amazing importance. They say, "We have given years of labor and spent untold sums of money in the study of the sicknesses of newcomers to America. These men and women often begin their lives here 'in our country' with splendid health only to fall sick after a few years."

Catarrh, stomach troubles, backache and consumption are some of the worst enemies our new citizens have to fight, here in our country. Ordinary American medicines are of little use in battling with these diseases once they have taken root in the bodies of the good people who have come to us from foreign lands. Each race of people is different from every other race. Thinking over this plain fact led us to our new discovery. The remedy must fit the man! World's Tonic is compounded of several different medicines brought from many different parts of the world. That is why it has its amazing power to help the sick of different races as well as Americans.

Mine workers are particularly urged to use World's Tonic in fighting catarrh.

Mr. H. Ilateff, of Washington, Pa., says: "I had catarrh so bad I feared I was running into consumption. My buddy recommended World's Tonic and after two bottles the hawking and spitting left me."

World's Tonic is on sale at Dow's, Boyd's & Liggett's, Mayflower, and all other modern drug stores. (A-5)

DR. F. B. MILLER, SURGEON, DIES

Ill less than a week, Dr. Franklin B. Miller, 703 Arch street, North Side, noted skin specialist and staff surgeon of the Presbyterian Hospital, died early today in that institution. From the time he was admitted his condition was deemed grave and little hope had been held out for his recovery.

Born in Millersville, Dr. Miller came to Pittsburgh when a youth and matriculated to Western University, taking a pre-medical course. Later he was graduated from Harvard Medical School and the school of medicine of the University of Pennsylvania. He became a staff member of the Presbyterian Hospital here and for many years specialized in skin disease treatments.

Dr. Miller was a member of Allegheny Chapter, Free and Accepted Masons, Allegheny County Medical Association, the American Medical Association, Tri-State Medical Society, and was a senior elder of the First Presbyterian Church.

He leaves three brothers, the Rev. J. Walker Miller, Pittsburgh; Dr. Milo G. Miller, Philadelphia, and the Rev. F. S. Miller, a missionary to Korea, and a sister, Miss Ida Miller, of Pittsburgh. His wife died several years ago.

Broker Becomes Perpetual Sea Voyager

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP)—J. T. Jefferies, retired broker of Philadelphia, has become a perpetual ocean voyager. Last December 4 Jefferies started out for Glasgow, Scotland, but, figuratively speaking, he hasn't set foot on land since.

Jefferies sailed for Scotland on the Caledonia but when the ship returned he still was on board. He explained to ship's officers that he liked nothing better than sea travel and that the ship suited him perfectly.

Since that trip the Caledonia has made two 29-day cruises and one shorter cruise to the West Indies. So has Mr. Jefferies, retaining the same cabin.

The Caledonia sets out for Scotland again Saturday—with Jefferies still on board.

SKY HIGH TARIFF IN AUSTRALIA

LONDON, April 3.—(INS.)—A 50-per cent tax on luxury imports, representing creation of a phenomenally-high tariff wall, was announced by Prime Minister J. M. Scullin, of Australia, today, according to a Central News dispatch from Canberra.

The super-tax will apply to virtually all imports of the luxury class, including alcohol, textiles, machinery, jewelry, musical instruments, wood, glass and drugs.

Importation of certain luxuries will be prohibited entirely, the dispatch added, while others will be rationed. Premier Scullin announced a complete list of the affected products would be made public tomorrow.

FORCES IN HAITI EAGER TO QUIT

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, April 3.—(AP.)—America's $23,000,000 occupation of Haiti has been thrown into unusual activity as a result of the acceptance by President Hoover of his Haitian investigation commission's report as a basis for his new policy in dealing with the republic.

The military is in an actual state of turmoil, and the civilian employes are wondering when the lightning will strike and the occupation will be ordered ended. However, few of the Americans, both military and civilian, appear to want to stay, and it is chiefly a matter to them of how soon they are to leave.

Occupation officials estimate roughly that the occupation has cost at least $23,000,000 since the United States intervened in Haiti in 1915. The same statistics show that the figure easily could be placed at $25,000,000 if all factors concerned were taken into account, and these two general figures were given to the Hoover commission when it was here. A minimum estimate given was $21,000,000 "or more."

Salaries alone today are costing the United States $95,000 a month in the occupation. At one time salaries and Marine pay were much higher because a large military force was stationed here.

The number of Marines has dropped from several thousand to between 600 and 700, with the latter the usual maximum at all times.

Almost to a man, the Marine officers on duty here have expressed their desire to get out of Haiti as fast as possible. Their families agree, and those who haven't already left are making plans to do so, expressing the hope that husbands and fathers will be relieved of duty here in a short time.

FREE KIDNAPED CANDIDATE

CHICAGO, April 3.—(AP.)—William J. Healy, candidate for the Republican nomination for state senator from the Fifth district, who was reported to have been kidnaped by three men Tuesday night, appeared at an outlying police station last night and told police he had been liberated from his abductors.

Healy said the men blindfolded him, drove him to a house near Antiack, Ill., near the Wisconsin border, where he was held captive, then freed.

Steubenville Police Block Jail Break

STEUBENVILLE, O., April 3.—An unsuccessful attempt to break jail was made here by Melvin Arnold, 29, charged with passing worthless checks, officials announced. A jail attendant discovered Arnold as he was about to flee, having pried open the lock of the cell block.

Arnold, held on charges of obtaining money under false pretense, was captured by police after a chase through the business section.

New Castle School Budget Cut $50,000

NEW CASTLE, Pa., April 3.—New Castle School Board has approved a budget of $1,157,902 for the next term and fixed the tax levy at 16 mills, the same as last year. The board found it necessary to cut the budget $50,000. This necessitated doing away with the kindergarden and summer schools.

Cannes Honors Memory of Herrick

CANNES, France, April 3.—(AP.)—The memory of Myron T. Herrick, late American ambassador to France, was honored by this city when the City Council voted that a fine avenue leading to the suburb of Le Cannet be named after him.

The decree of the City Council reads:

"The Boulevard De La Tousque will henceforth be called 'Boulevard Myron T. Herrick,' as a testimonial of the deep gratitude of France toward the late American ambassador, who, during the great war, manifested his most fervent attachment to France."

The late ambassador spent several short vacations at Cannes and was a well known figure around the golf course.

Bluefield Named Convention City

ROANOKE, Va., April 3.—(AP.)—Bluefield, W. Va., was selected as next year's convention city by the ladies' societies of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen in convention here. The 1931 meeting will also be held April 2. Miss Agnes Strong, of Iowa, grand president, was the principal speaker.

HARDWARE LINE IMPROVES

NEW YORK, April 3 — Unseasonable weather in many sections of the country continues to be one of the principal retarding factors in hardware sales activity, Hardware Age says in its weekly market summary. Blizzards in the Middle West and cold or rainy weather in other territories affected the demand for seasonal goods. While business so far this year has not been on a par with that of last the difference in most instances, is nominal and improvement is indicated.

Most wholesalers remain optimistic over the outlook as prospects are brightening considerably. Some jobbers express confidence that this year's volume will equal if not exceed that of last year, basing their opinion on the prediction that business will show steady improvement for the balance of the year.

Prices in the main are fairly steady. While numerous minor revisions are being made few are consequential in nature. Practically the only general revision of importance relates to some seasonal wire products which are showing weakness due to a highly competitive situation.

NEW PIPE LINE UNDER WAY

The Sinclair Pipe Line Company has completed plans for a new 10-inch pipe line to the Oklahoma City pool, augmenting its present 8-inch line and giving it 55,000 barrels daily line capacity out of the pool. The new line will be 37 miles long, will join the main north and south line at the Payson pump station and should be completed May 15.

The order for pipe for the new line, involving 4,000 tons, has been placed with the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company.

Tugs Rush to Aid Dutch Freighter

The Binnendijk was reported in distress in Mid-Atlantic Monday. She had lost her rudder-post and was drifting in a northerly gale. The ship, a vessel of 4,240 tons, owned by the Holland-America line, left Rotterdam March 22 for Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Norfolk.

Credit Men Find Improvement in Collections

Cheap money and slightly better collection conditions are the most favorable factors noted in the monthly bulletin of the National Association of Credit Men. This is the first time in four months that the credit association has had anything cheerful to say on the subject of collections.

"Last month we reported the disappearance of the word 'good' from collection reports," the bulletin says. "It has not come back, but there is encouragement in the fact that the designation 'fair' has replaced 'slow' in several markets. The percentage is not high, but it is at least moving in the right direction. The better collection reports come chiefly from cities in the Middle West. Unemployment is still the chief reported cause for slow collections."

Bank Closed After Cashier Shoots Self

OAKDALE, Tenn., April 3.—(AP.)—Officials of the State Auditing Department announced today that a shortage of more than $16,000 had been found in the accounts of the Oakdale Bank and Trust Company after an attempt of the bank's president and cashier, S. N. Oakley, to commit suicide.

The bank was closed soon after Oakley fired a bullet through his head in a hotel room at Chattanooga Saturday. He is in a hospital in a serious condition. He left a note to Mrs. Edith Francis, assistant cashier, instructing her to close the bank and call state auditors.

'COW PASTURE' IN RICH DEAL

CHICAGO, April 3.—(AP.)—A 10-acre tract of land, known here as "the world's most valuable cow pasture because it has been used for that purpose until just recently, is about to be sold to a New York syndicate for a $10,000,000 housing project, it was announced by David Snyder, an attorney representing a brokerage firm handling the deal.

The tract, bounded by Forty-ninth and Fiftieth streets and Dorchester and Kimbark avenues, in the fashionable Hyde Park district, was once owned by John H. Dunham, pioneer Chicago banker and merchant, whose will provided it could not be sold so long as any of his direct heirs were alive. The last direct heir, Miss Mary Virginia Dunham, died about a year ago.

Neither the name of the syndicate nor the amount involved was announced.

General Motors Makes Good Showing

NEW YORK, April 3.—With results of the first quarter operations being compiled, indications are General Motors Corporation came through this period of readjustment in the motor industry in a somewhat stronger position than the average.

A survey of the corporation's business indicates total sales will be not far from 370,000 units for the three months, against 523,119 in the first quarter of 1929, a decline of about 30 per cent.

If the corporation were dependent only upon production and sale of automobiles, such a reduction would probably bring earnings down sharply. Several other factors are operative in the General Motors situation which indicate profits for the first quarter will be maintained at a satisfactory level.

AIR RACE WITH DEATH LOST

DAYTON, O., April 3.—(AP.)—A plane-train race with death ended in failure early today when Mrs. Rufus J. King, wife of a Dayton manufacturer, died 45 minutes before the scheduled arrival from Camden, N. J., of Dr. Len Collins, University of Pennsylvania hospital oxygen expert, summoned in a last attempt to save her from pneumonia.

Dr. Collins started from Camden yesterday morning by airplane, but was forced to discontinue his flight at Pittsburgh.

95 Drowned When Ferryboat Capsizes

TOKIO, April 3.—(AP.)—Dispatches to the vernacular newspapers from Wakamatsu said that when search was given up today at the scene where the ferryboat Wakato Maru capsized yesterday, 53 bodies had been recovered, 40 persons were missing. Two of those rescued died later in a hospital, making the probable death toll 95.

CAUGHT IN PLOT TO MAR BEAUTY

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP.)—A spurned lover who on four occasions hired gangsters to mar the beauty of the girl he loved, today was in the toils of the law.

Wallace Downer, 29-year-old former bank clerk, in a confession to police, said he determined on revenge after Miss Martha Kranquist, had spurned his attentions.

He said he hired gangsters to rob the Brooklyn apartment of Miss Marion Weil, where Miss Kranquist was employed, with the understanding that they slash his one-time sweetheart. The gangsters robbed the apartment, but left Martha unscathed.

Undiscouraged, Downer tried once more. Tipped off, police trapped the gangsters yesterday and they told the story of the spurned lover in search of revenge.

Downer was quoted by police as admitting the charges. The three men, Jack Lee, 24, and John Gray, 24, both of New York, and Louis Duval, 24, of Louisville, Ky., were held on charges of robbery. Downer was charged with acting in concert.

GIRL KIDNAPING STILL MYSTERY

DETROIT, April 3.—(AP.)—The apparently motiveless kidnaping of the six-year-old daughter of an automobile factory worker occupied attention of the police departments of Detroit and of the suburb of Dearborn where the child lived.

As more than 30 hours passed without word from the girl, Mary Subock, whose 9-year-old brother, Joseph, said she was taken away in the automobile of a strange man, police worked on the theory that she may be in the hands of a moron.

Joseph said the man took him and his sister in the automobile in Dearborn and drove to a point near the Detroit city hall. There he sent the boy for a dime's worth of candy. When he returned, the boy said, the car was gone. He went home late in the evening after being given carfare by a workman.

More Greek Towns Damaged By Quakes

ATHENS, Greece, April 3.—(AP.)—Earthquakes continued yesterday in the Volo, Thessaly area. The village of Saingeonges was altered beyond recognition, with most of the houses made uninhabitable. Twenty-five houses at Pouri collapsed. Schools were closed in several places.

5-MILLION AERO REVIEW OPENS

MATHER FIELD, Sacramento, Cal., April 3.—(AP.)—Five million dollars' worth of airplanes were tuned up and polished and more than 200 Army pilots donned their best uniforms today for a formal review by the commanding officer of the annual air corps maneuvers here, Brig. Gen. W. E. Gillmore.

The review, however, was not permitted to interfere with the mock "war" activities for which 159 planes have been gathered here from all parts of the nation. The operations office ordered the morning spent in maneuvers designed to promote airdrome discipline.

Perhaps Baby Hasn't Got a Temper At All?

Perhaps you are unjustly accusing the little fellow of being a "cry baby," a "peevish baby"—a baby with a "terrible temper."

You know it is not always baby's fault if he cries—if he wakes up in the middle of the night—if he frets just at the time when you want him to act his best.

Lots of little babies are suffering untold pain because of improperly cared for bodies. Their flesh is often red-raw from chafing, from scalding "ammonia diaper" and from the irritating consequences of no oiling and powdering.

The tender skin gets coarse and dry; the clothes chafe and burn the skin; the diaper region is a constant source of trouble and suffering in most babies.

And irritable, peevish babies are never very lovable. If you want your baby to be free from pain and bodily irritation just follow these simple directions.

Oil his entire body daily with Mennen Baby Oil, a sweet-smelling, sterilized blend of oils. Massage the oil gently into the folds of his skin, and apply it liberally over his buttocks after every diaper change. Then wipe the excess oil off, and softly dust Mennen Borated Baby Talcum over the entire body.

The oil will prevent cracked, dry skin, will keep baby's body soft and smooth, and will prevent chafing. It will act as a waterproof coating in the diaper region. The powder will keep baby sweet, will absorb excess moisture and will inhibit bacterial growth because it is scientifically medicated.

Special Offer! This week your druggist is offering a can of Mennen Borated Baby Talcum FREE with a purchase of a bottle of Mennen Baby Oil for 50c. Mennen Baby Oil is a sterilized blend of oils, properly medicated, pleasantly scented, and will not become rancid.

The Mennen Company, Newark, N.J.

ICE PERILS USE OF BIPLANES

CLEVELAND, O., April 3.—(AP.)—The monoplane type of aircraft may displace the biplane as the result of the solution of the ice menace which was announced at Ithaca, N. Y., Wesley L. Smith, Eastern superintendent of the National Air Transport, said here.

Smith flew the plane used in the tests of the ice preventive developed by Dr. William C. Geer. The biplane type now is almost universally used in the air mail service, Smith pointed out.

The biplane, he said, would require a very complicated compressed air system for the removal of ice from its wings, while the monoplane, with its lack of wires and its few struts, would be very easy to equip.

New Mexico Town's Mayor Weighs 356

CLAYTON, N. M., April 3.—(AP.)—Clayton believes it has elected the biggest mayor in the United States. Ira L. Pennington was the overwhelming victor in the municipal election Tuesday. He weighs 356 pounds, measures five feet around the waist, is 5 feet 10 inches tall. A Republican, Pennington, defeated the Taxpayers' ticket candidate.

'PEACHES' SUES FOR LAND

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP.)—Frances "Peaches" Browning, through her mother, has filed suit against her husband, Edward W. Browning, and the Edoro Realty Company to have her dower right established in 24 parcels of property held by the realty company.

Mrs. Browning says her husband, from whom she has been separated since 1926, is real owner of the property, and that as his lawful wife she is entitled to dower rights. This is one of several suits of similar nature she has brought against Browning.

Browning married Frances Heenan on April 26, 1926. She was 15, he 51. They separated a few months later.

Don't fool yourself!

Since halitosis never announces itself to the victim, you simply cannot know when you have it.

Halitosis makes you unpopular with children

Some parents blame everything but halitosis (unpleasant breath) when children are not affectionate. As a matter of fact, halitosis is often the cause.

Don't fool yourself that you are free of it, because it is simply impossible to tell when you have it. It doesn't announce itself to the victim.

Eliminate the risk entirely by using full strength Listerine every day, morning and night. And between times, before meeting others.

Being an active germicide capable of killing 200,000,000 germs in 15 seconds, full strength Listerine checks mouth fermentation and infection—both a cause of odors. Then it gets rid of the odors themselves; it is an instant deodorant.

Keep a bottle handy in home and office. Use it every day. It puts you on the polite, popular and profitable side. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

REPORTER DIES IN GLIDER FALL

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 3.—(AP.) — George Gambrien, 26, newspaper reporter, was killed late yesterday in a glider crash on a farm north of here. Gambrien, an aviator, took his first ride in the glider last Friday. Since then he had made four flights in the craft.

J. J. Mitchener, Jr., a pilot, who was watching the flight, said the crash was caused when an automobile which was towing the craft with a 500 foot rope, ... ved to avoid a haystack.

This caused the rope to slacken. Gambrien, instead of pressing the trigger that would have released the glider, Mitchener said, nosed the motorless plane upward. At a height of 100 feet, the rope jerked taut, Mitchener said, and a portion of the glider wing crumpled. The craft nos...ived to the ground.

FOREIGN LEGION BONUS URGED

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP.)—American members of the Lafayette Escadrille, or the French Foreign Legion, wounded between the date of American entry in the World War and signing of the armistice, would receive compensation and hospitalization privileges under a bill introduced by Representative Kvale, Farmer-Labor, of Minnesota.

The privilege would be limited to those who did not surrender American citizenship and who signified their desire to transfer to the American Expeditionary Force but were prevented by their wounds. Frerch pensions would have to be surrendered by applicants for the American compensation.

"Don't ask me why!"

Excuses a man seems never to understand: explanations that are embarrassing. Women who have learned of Midol avoid these unpleasant experiences!

Midol is not a narcotic, but it does banish the suffering which too often attends the monthly period. It acts quite harmlessly, but effectively, on the organs affected. Safe, but swift; complete comfort comes in five to seven minutes. You will get this relief regardless of how hard a time you've always had. These wonderful tablets do nothing to hinder the normal, natural periodic process, so it's only common sense to use them.

$146,000 WORTH Factory Sale DINING ROOM BEDROOM

BERKEY & GAY FURNITURE

25% 33⅓% 50% Reductions

THE year's biggest furniture news! Simmons Company, makers of beds and mattresses, bought Berkey & Gay, pioneer furniture makers!—The Berkey & Gay factories were working full tilt. Then came the news of the great merger—and before new selling schedules could be worked out, the directors found themselves with tremendous accumulations of stocks.

The only thing to do was to sell—quick! And to Kaufmann's, for years Berkey & Gay's largest distributors in Western Pennsylvania, car after car has been in transit (more are on the way)—and tomorrow—at 9 o'clock—in our Auditorium (Eleventh Floor) the public of Pittsburgh is invited to come for its share of the world-famous Berkey & Gay Bedroom and Dining Room Furniture at reductions of 25%, 33⅓% and 50%!

Berkey & Gay Furniture has long been Kaufmann's "Best-Seller". It is that today. In view of our long association, Simmons authorizes us to include in this sale all Berkey & Gay Furniture received within the past few weeks. Please remember—regardless of the fact that most of this furniture has not yet been uncrated—the reductions apply to all Berkey & Gay furniture consigned to this store—in transit or in our warehouses.

HUNDREDS . . . . Of Odd Pieces and Suites . . . 35 patterns in bedroom furniture; 24 in dining room; and odd tables, chairs, servers, buffets, toilet tables, dressers, wardrobes, beds, night tables, benches,—everything—25% to 50% less.

And now, for one final word—this sale will bring people from all sections of this region, for it is a virtually "unprecedented" chance to equip your home with furniture of national renown—at 25% to 50% below regular! In view of the reputation of the makers, and the generosity of the reductions, there are bound to be crowds. $146,000 worth of Berkey & Gay Furniture won't linger long—at reductions AVERAGING 40%! And so—be prompt!

Curley's dashing amuses everyone present but Anne, who takes for Curley and feels sorry for him. But while he may be a poor hand at dancing, he is quick at the trigger, which proves a valuable asset when "Slug" McCloud tries to carry off Anne.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

BENIAMINO GIGLI, leading tenor of the Metropolitan and a favorite with concert audiences throughout the world, will include several operatic arias in his Victor program through WCAE at 10:30 tonight. These arias include the beautiful "O Paradiso" from Meyerbeer's "L'Africana," and "Una Furtiva Lagrima," from Donizetti's "Elisir D'Amore."

Beniamino Gigli

Phil Cook, singing comedian, will aid Rudy Vallee in the 8 o'clock Sunshine Hour over WCAE. Rudy's orchestra will play the spirited "Washington and Lee Swing."

Frontier Days returns to KDKA at 8:30. The pioneer will introduce several new programs, including the Colonial Tellers at 7:15 and Los Argentines at 9. Pittsburgh's Cine Symphony will be heard at 8.

Jeffries and Corbett will be recreated in their famous fistic encounter of years ago when Frank and Seder's Men's Hour is broadcast by WJAS at 8 o'clock.

John Charles Thomas, baritone on the Sunday night Atwater Kent concert, was a college chum of Harry McWhinney, downtown attorney.

Former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, is to speak on "Nationalism versus Internationalism" on the D. A. R. program from WEAF, WRC and WSAI at 7:30 tonight.

Names beginning with "M" and carrying two "l's" in succession are common at WCAE. To wit: Lora McClelland, Alice Mullen, Ford Miller, Frank Mulloy.

Anna S. DeLuca, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. DeLuca, won recognition from G. Giurato, Italian Consul, in her KQV organ recital the other night.

Her concert—really beautiful—moved Mr. Guirato to schedule Anne for a prominent part in a big program at the Enright Theater this Sunday which will feature one or two stars of the Chicago Opera and an all-color movie.

* * *

"Carmen," the opera that many critics believe will live forever, is the WCAE attraction at 11 o'night.

* * *

The signals of KDKA travel to VK2ME at Sydney, Australia—a distance of 10,000 miles—in one sixteenth of a second.

Gets the 3 Best Things in Life

When all a girl needs is a clear smooth skin, plenty of energy and a stomach whoch does not deprive her of the cake, candy and good food she wants, just keep down the excessive stomach acids, like pretty Evelyn Wheeler, 101 West 52nd St., New York City.

"I got the surprise of my life when I started taking Acidine," says Miss Wheeler. "Whenever I ate anything rich my stomach got so acid I'd have headaches and get sick. That's all over now. Acidine sweetens my stomach so easily, I never have to worry. The best part about it is its taste. I like it."

Sick, sour stomach, burning sensation in the throat, excessive thirst, skin rash, come from too much acid when the stomach doesn't digest the starchy foods and sweets you eat. Get a package of Acidine at any drug store and see how quick, pleasant and inexpensive it is.

New Kind of Salts Taking Country By Storm

They Revitalize the System — Induce Youthful Activity—Keep Body in Splendid Condition—Free From Fat.

It doesn't take long for Americans to wake up to a good thing—only a few months ago Kruschen Salts were introduced into this country and the welcome news of their superior goodness and swift rejuvenating power traveled so fast that at one time the supply was many carloads behind the demand.

All of which goes to prove that Americans know good salts when they take them and want their friends to benefit also.

Kruschen Salts are taken for their health-building value all over the world—they are the largest selling medicinal salts in Great Britain today.

Kruschen Salts are different from other salts—Kruschen is six salts in one—the very same six salts that nature put into the human body at the beginning of creation and demands you keep them there or your health won't be as good as it should be.

Unlike most salts Kruschen isn't simply a laxative—if that's all you want any old kind of salts with any kind of a label will do—but is that all you want?

When you take Kruschen Salts you not only stimulate your bowels, liver and kidneys to function naturally and perfectly, but you supply every internal organ, gland, nerve and fibre in the body with nature's own revitalizing and rejuvenating minerals.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 55c at all May's & Liggett's Drug Stores, or any drug store in America—take one-half a teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—in just a few days indolence changes to activity and life grows brighter.

Before the bottle is empty you will feel years younger—eyes will brighten—step grow sprightlier—nerves steadier—you'll sleep sound, enjoy your meals and after a hard day's work you'll be ready for wholesome recreation—one million Americans know all this—ask your druggist.

1900 RING BOUT RADIO FEATURE

The first heavyweight championship fight in America in which both participants had held the title will be re-enacted and broadcast over Station WJAS tonight at 8 o'clock—when the Frank & Seder men's hour presents a blow-by-blow account of the Jim Jeffries-James Corbett battle.

The fight took place in 1900 at the Seaside Athletic Club, in New York City. Jeffries was then the world's heavyweight champion and was called upon to defend his title against Corbett, the ex-champion. A complete word-picture of the circumstances surrounding the battle will be given, as well as a description of the crowd and the arena—and the actual fight report, announced, blow by blow, from the ringside.

This is the fifth in a series of re-created heavyweight championship fights, sponsored by Frank & Seder, over WJAS each Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

BUTLER IN N. C. SENATE RACE

CLINTON, N. C., April 3.—(AP.)—George E. Butler of Clinton, for many years active in Republican ranks of the state, announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination to the United States Senate and declared that the party this year should hold a state-wide primary election.

He is an attorney and is 61 years old.

The Rev. H. Grady Dorsett, Wake Forest minister, already has announced for the Republican senatorial nomination and Butler's entrance may require the first Republican state primary in North Carolina in many years.

Senator F. M. Simmons, J. W. Bailey and T. L. Estep have announced that they will seek the Democratic state nomination.

New Masontown Principal Named

MASONTOWN, Pa., April 3.—L. C. Evans, principal of the Dunbar Borough High School, has been elected supervising principal of the Masontown School, succeeding William Koenig.

AIR SMUGGLING LAID TO FLIER

MEXICALI, Lower California, April 3.—(AP.)—Instead of enjoying "easy money" promised for participation in an alien smuggling scheme, Loren Meindell, 236-hour endurance flier, today was a prisoner in the Mexicali jail awaiting the slow action of Mexican legal machinery, which will turn him over to United States authorities for prosecution. His luxurious cabin plane, a flight prize, was confiscated.

Meindell was arrested by Mexican customs officials and United States border patrolmen when he landed his plane near Black Butte. With the officials were two Japanese who had admitted they were awaiting an airplane to take them to the United States.

The flier admitted his mission and said he was driven to "take a chance" because of the need of money to support his family in Los Angeles. It was his first trip, he said.

New Ocean Flight Planned by Costes

PARIS, April 3.—(INS.)—The Breguet biplane in which Capt. Dieudonne Costes and Maurice Bellonte made their nonstop distance flight to Eastern Siberia is being repowered in preparation for an east-west flight across the Atlantic by the same crew "as soon after May 15 as the weather permits."

A new Hispano-Suiza motor of 650 horsepower, 25 more than the old motor they used on the distance flight, is being installed. This will enable the Frenchmen to carry a larger load of gasoline.

Dr. Charles Russell Cox, Pittsburgh's Philosopher of Health, Endorses Flaxolyn

DR. CHARLES RUSSELL COX, of Pittsburgh,
Founder of the American Health Foundation, 706 Clark Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tells His Thousands of Radio Listeners Why Flaxolyn Is the Only Health Formula He Has Ever Advised.

Dr. Charles Russell Cox, Pittsburgh's eminent radio health lecturer, receives thousands of letters from health seekers all over Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, and other neighboring states.

Dr. Cox is shown before the microphone of KQV. He has also spoken over other local radio stations and on the lecture platform here. Dr. Cox has attained popularity through his magnetic personality—his talks are alive with interest—never dull or dry. His health hints given out daily have been the means of bringing a happier existence to vast numbers of people right here.

Twenty Years Ago Dr. Cox Was Totally Blind. Through a Celebrated German Method of Removing Blood Toxins, He Won Perfect Sight.

Because Flaxolyn Helps Drive Out Toxic Poisons Which Cause Innumerable Sicknesses, Dr. Cox Considers Its Use Vitally Necessary to Health.

In the Pittsburgh Press of October 29, 1929, the following article appeared concerning Dr. Cox:

"The interest manifested in the health talks being given daily by KQV by Dr. Charles Russell Cox has led this department to inquire into his active and fictionlike career. This health educator, who is a man about 37, is devoting his life to the study of therapeutics and to an attempt to pass on to mankind the results of his gleanings. While this, and coupled with the fact that he has a message for everybody who uses radio, alone makes him of interest to this column, it is the manner in which he was embarked upon his life endeavor that we wish to dwell on.

"Twenty years ago Dr. Cox was totally blind from inflammatory rheumatism and pronounced incurable by several specialists. Preparations were being made to place him in a school for the blind in New York state when a celebrated German doctor with a method of relieving the blood of toxins by means of an external application was consulted. Within 30 days of the first use of this method, according to Dr. Cox, he recovered the sight of one eye and within three months his sight was completely restored.

"The gift of vision proved a lasting influence, a turning point in his life. His profound experience made him pause and think long and deeply. He resolved to make a life's work of the study of health and its maintenance."

"I Believe in Flaxolyn"

"All my life," says Dr. Cox, "I have seen the treacherous results arising from the neglect of toxic intestinal poisons.

"You know that disease germs need four conditions in order to multiply—they must have filth, heat, dampness and darkness. A lazy intestinal tract supplies these four ideal conditions for dangerous diseases to develop.

"When constipation clogs the intestines and putrefaction sets in—that's when the disease toxins start to play havoc.

"Because Flaxolyn is the finest formula I know to sweep out these toxic poisons from the intestinal canal, I give it my heartiest praise.

Headaches, Nervousness, Rheumatic Troubles, Neuritis and Other Dangerous Conditions Caused by Neglect of Toxins.

"I do not believe that we physicians yet know all the sicknesses and diseases which follow from toxic intestinal poisons. Even now we certainly know that they are mighty numerous. We know that when these toxic poisons enter the blood stream and filling that vital system with their impurities, the whole body is being affected. The nerves are getting little shocks all the time, calculus or acid deposits are often made in the joints—thus causing rheumatic pains. The skin becomes sallow and pimply and blemished. The brain is very noticeably affected—these toxic poisons cause a peculiar dullness, as well as a heavy headachy feeling.

"Of course, my own case is most unusual—but it only goes to show that if blindness can be traced to toxic poisons, other conditions, though not as serious as blindness, are almost as bad when you consider that you have to go through days and years of physical distress and unhappiness. Life is a struggle as it is, without making it any harder through lack of energy and vitality.

Uses Powder Flaxolyn Himself

"My experience with Flaxolyn extends over a period of a great many years. I have used it myself in the powder form. I have found that its results far surpassed anything I had ever used for this purpose."

Dr. Lunts has perfected this powder formula into a pleasant tasting liquid and I understand that thousands upon thousands of people all through the country are taking this new, more palatable formula with wonderful results.

"It isn't the custom for a physician to come out publicly and endorse any product, but my friends have been kind enough to refer to me as a 'fearless physician,' and I certainly am not afraid to break the usual rules, by coming out strongly in favor of this fine formula.

"I say to you, take care of your eating—take care of your living, and you will find the world a better place to live in—you will enjoy your life to a fuller extent. And if Flaxolyn Powder can help you to enjoy your food better, to get more out of your food, to help you sleep better and work better—certainly it is accomplishing a great mission which many might well benefit by."

HOLLYWOOD, April 3.

THIS one is roped from Variety. Al Boasberg confides that last week Lon Chaney made himself up like Irving Thalberg, walked up to the office, and doubled his salary!

LOUISE DRESSER brought this one back from New York. Miss Dresser went East to vacation. This particular noon hour, she boarded a taxi from her hotel and settled back to ride cross-town to her appointment. As luck would have it, the light signals halted the cab and there she waited.

Louise Dresser

Between her cab and another car there was an inch or so of space. A woman driver (woman being descriptive) managed to creep her car into this space, doing it in such a way that they were blocked unless she moved forward. The signal changed to green—go. But the woman driver was stalled. In a brief second, the street was crazed by cluttered cars, tooting horns and yelling drivers. A traffic officer stormed over and untangled the confusion. Still the woman couldn't go. The signal changed to red—stop. By then, she had her motor running.

"Say lady," the traffic officer inquired politely, "why didn't you signal what you were doing?"

The warm-faced fem driver clung limply to the wheel, with: "Mr. Officer, for what I was doing there weren't any signals!"

WASTED EFFORT

AND then there's the story of the new writer recruit who was given a yarn to adapt and dialogue. It was his first assignment and was tough. He stuck to his typewriter until he had matters on the up and up. Then came a memorandum requesting him to stop work. The studio had thought the story belonged to them. The exek in charge had since learned that it didn't.

WORTH A TOAST

YON & HITHER NOTES: Mary Pickford and Douglass Fairbanks celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary last Saturday eve by attending the Mayfair dance at the Biltmore. Leon Errol, master of ceremony of the entertainment, proposed a toast to the couple and the guests (some four hundred of 'em) rose to their feet with the proper spirit. Ten years is worth a toast.

Mary Pickford

. . . Jimmy Hall is back in town from a cinematic flyer to New York. He attended the Mayfair dance with Merna Kennedy. Jimmy has signed a flick contract and will appear in "Precious Little Thing" as his initial venture. Title subject to change without comment. . . . Bessie Love and her broker husband, William Hawks, dancing together. Bill is six foot. Bessie can't argue with the boy. . . . Constance Bennett and Kenneth McKenna, with the Benjamin Glazers, forming a foursome. . . . Buddy Rogers proving his bravery by signing a program with Morton Downey. Lillian Roth, and a splendid vocalizer recently put under contract by Jesse Lasky. Forget his name . . . Leon Errol sending everyone into shrieks of laughter by his hilarious pantomime sketch depicting an inebriated gentleman trying to mail a letter.

BON VOYAGE

THE James Gleasons giving a bon voyage tea for Anthony Bushell. Tony is now en route to London, via New York. He sails on the fifth. He misses the Manhattan premier of "Journey's End," in which he appears with an all-star cast, by three days. James Whale, the director of the film, will arrive in time to attend the opening. Then he, too, sails for London, to return shortly. . . .

Mrs. Bushell (Zelma O'Neil) had to be in Palm Springs the next morn for "Follow Through" location. Ergo, she and Tony departed around six, he to drive her down and then motor on to San Bernardino, where he took the eastbound Chief. Zelma will join him in London upon completing her initial celluloid musical comedy . . . . Lenore Ulric and Sidney Blackmer also at the Gleasons. Miss Ulric may return to New York soon to do a play. . . . The Tay Garnetts (Patsy Ruth Miller) arrive and Pat innocently denying she knows how she keeps so thin. Most women do stow the answer in a brain vault. . . . Lew Cody, by his lonesome, and looking swell. Lew is enjoying playing opposite Gloria Swanson in "What a Widow." . . .

Study Use of Roofs For Landing Fields

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—(AP.)—A committee of flying experts today was under instruction by the City of Los Angeles to study the practicability of establishing airplane landing fields on roofs of downtown buildings.

Among points to be investigated are the effects of irregular building heights on air currents and the possibility of limiting erection of towers.

St. Vincent College To Present 'Calvary'

"Calvary," a seven-act play depicting the passion of Christ, will be presented by St. Vincent College Dramatic Association, Latrobe, in the college auditorium Monday and Tuesday nights. Seventy-five students of the college are in the cast. The Rev. Bonaventure Reithmier, O. S. B., is directing the production and Brother Odilo, O. S. B., has charge of the costuming, stage settings and lighting effects. The play was written by the Rev. F. L. Kenzel, C. S. S. R., and it includes eight scenes and several tableaux.

Sketch by Caruso, Missing, Returned

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—(AP.)—Enrico Caruso, the tenor, before death a few years ago, exercised his hobby by making a crayon sketch of Harry Cornell Greening, pioneer comic strip artist.

Caruso autographed the picture, sent it to Greening, and a few days later it disappeared. Yesterday, from New York, Greening received the sketch in a letter, which did not disclose the name or address of the sender.

Ponselle, Soprano, Will Sing Monday

Rosa Ponselle, dramatic soprano, will give the closing May Beegle concert in Syria Mosque Monday evening. Stuart Ross, pianist, will contribute two groups of solo numbers.

FOUR NEW PICTURES TO OPEN HERE TOMORROW

New bills open in four theaters tomorrow. These are the Penn, Stanley, Aldine and Enright.

The Penn will present Nancy Carroll in "Honey" on its screen and "Venetian Carnival," with Ted Claire as guest M. C., on the stage.

The Stanley is to offer Ted Lewis and his band in a stage presentation and "Rich People" as its film. The picture cast is headed by Constance Bennett and Regis Toomey.

The Aldine's new attraction will be "The Sky Hawk," an all-talk drama of the air.

The new show in the Enright will include Corinne Griffith's picture, "Lilies of the Field," and a Jay Mills' revue.

"VIDOR'S HALLELUJAH"

King Vidor's all-talkie, "Hallelujah," featuring an all-Negro cast, opens Saturday in the Harris. There will be a Dick Ware show, featuring vaudeville, acts, on the stage.

The Van Dine movie mystery to reach the screen is "The Benson Murder Case," which comes to the Warner Friday. It has William Powell again in the role of Philo Vance, famous detective of fiction.

"NEW MOON" COMING

"Strange Interlude," the O'Neill nine-act drama which is playing its first week in the Nixon, is to be held over for two more weeks.

The seat sale for the "New Moon," next week's attraction in the Alvin, opens today. There is indication that this musical romance will repeat its triumphant engagement of September, 1928, when it was shown in Pittsburgh to capacity audiences just prior to its Broadway premiere.

Berton Churchill, who is being brought to Pittsburgh next week to appear as guest star with the George Sharp Players in the Pitt, will appear in the title role of "Alias the Deacon," a part which he originated, and which he has been playing almost continuously since the play was presented in the Hudson Theater, New York, two years ago.

Washing machines, baby carriages, gas ranges, all kinds of household equipment can be bought at bargain prices through the Classified Ads.

Our Jimmy Light Brings "The Emperor Jones" Unter den Linden

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

ANOTHER Pittsburgh boy has invaded Berlin and Berlin has surrendered. This time it is James Light, an emeritus of Carnegie Tech Drama School, who for years has been one of the presiding geniuses of the Provincetown Players. He has staged "The Emperor Jones," Eugene O'Neill's drama, in the Deutsches Kuenstler-Theater. Paul Robeson, the Negro actor, plays the Emperor, talking American Negro dialect. The entire company plays in English, so that it is not likely the audience understands much except the tom-toms off stage. Which matters but little, as this play of O'Neill's could almost be understood without any words—it is a single idea pursued through the jungle till it is brought to bay and killed off.

George Seibel.

James Light in his production appears to have followed the modernistic school, and seems to have found approval in the very capital of modernism, where all sorts of bold experiments have been tried. But Paul Robeson isn't an experiment.

The Negro actor is not a novelty in Berlin, where one of Michael Gold's Harlem hurlyburlies is being acted at this time by a dozen black-and-tan players—in German. That should surprise no one—there are many thousands of Negroes in Africa who speak German—and there are even some in Pittsburgh.

Nor would the Negro speaking another language surprise Berlin at all. Ira Aldridge, famous Negro actor, who played "Othello" over half a century ago, made quite a hit in Berlin.

THE COLOR LINE

Over there, in Germany and in France, and also in England, the colored artist is treated far more humanly than in America. When a Negro company comes to Pittsburgh, as was the case with "Porgy" last year, and the "Hot Chocolates" this year, we do not compel them to ride in Jim Crow cars, as they would down south, but there is humiliating difficulty about hotel accommodations.

Even a great artist like Roland Hayes, who is as famous in Europe as Fritz Kreisler in America, would cause a stampede in some of our ritzy caravansaries.

Hindus, who are the oldest of the Aryan people known to history—we say Aryan now instead of Caucasian—have frequent difficulties with lily-white greeters.

Yet we prate of our democracy and our Christianity — we talk about equality and fraternity—and we wag our heads disapprovingly when we hear about the Hindu caste system.

WE'RE BEING EDUCATED

With Mei Lan-Fang, the famous Chinese actor, and Tokujiro Tsutsui, the famous Japanese actor, both in New York City as guest stars, it looks as if we might soon be educated to be more internationally minded.

And now a Spanish company, under Ernesto Vilches, is about to open on Broadway. They will play several plays familiar to Americans, like "The Cradle Song" and "The Devil," but most of their repertoire is strange.

One drama is announced as "An American in Madrid." Have they dramatized our late Pittsburgh ambassador, Alexander P. Moore?

Perhaps the new Broadway hit, "Green Pastures," in which Marc Connelly has translated Bible history into Negro folklore, with another colored cast, will help still more to wipe out the Mason and Dixon line on the stage.

When you need money in a hurry consult the "Money to Loan" Ads in the Classified Section.

Dog Show Dates Set in Washington

An American Kennel Club License Dog Show will be staged by the Washington County Kennel Club in Washington, April 18 and 19, it was announced by club officials. Entries will be received until next Wednesday. A large entry list is expected from Pittsburgh, according to Robert F. Maloney, of Pittsburgh, who is helping to stage the show.

Everybody says:

"You'll have Good Luck with "STANDARD"

"I'm always lucky with 'Standard'," says the truck-driver who drives a big five-tonner all day, every day, rain or shine.
"Wouldn't use anything else," says the banker. "I'm lucky with it."
"It brings me good luck every time," declares the housewife.
And the service station man who makes it his business to know what people like, admits: "Everybody says the same thing. It's a lucky gas."

WHAT does a car owner mean by "good luck"? Simply that his motor starts in the chill of the morning without argument, that all day long the car runs as smoothly and steadily as Niagara—and that trouble, with its inevitable repair bills, passes him by.

"Good Luck" with "Standard" is a certainty and the direct result of good management

(1) The Ice Room Test—The famous "ice room" test. In this "South Pole" temperature, "Standard" Gasoline, Motor Oil and Esso are tested for starting qualities and for performance under most extreme conditions.

(2) The Revolving Road Test—This revolving road and wind tunnel reproduces an actual highway. In this room—"Standard" products must show outstanding ability to cope with any and all driving conditions.

First—"Standard" Gasoline, Esso and "Standard" Motor Oil are made by the most modern methods from the finest crudes, by refiners of over 60 years' experience.

Second—these products are known qualities when they come to Pennsylvania drivers. There's no doubt as to whether either Esso or "Standard" Gasoline will start quicker, pick up swifter, knock less, give smoother, more even power and maximum mileage! No doubt as to whether "Standard" Motor Oil is an oil of superior lubricating quality.

For tests prove it . . . tests conducted in the most complete laboratory in the world—the "Standard" laboratory, where facilities and equipment are equalled by no other.

Read about the tests shown on this page. They take you behind the scenes—show you why "Standard" runs your motor more efficiently—why "good luck" in terms of better motor operation awaits any person who drives up to a "Standard" station.

(3) The Knock Test—Here is an apparatus that tests "Standard" Gasoline and Esso for knocking. "Standard" has a knock rating far lower than the average non-premium fuel; Esso the lowest on the market.

3 GET 10 YEARS FOR HOLDUPS

Declaring the theft of automobiles and the use of cars in banditry to be so prevalent as to be cause for the extreme penalty, Judge Harry H. Rowand in Criminal Court today imposed sentences of from 10 to 20 years each upon three men in the West End who pleaded guilty to a series of holdups.

James Harshman, 25, of 30 Woodville avenue, and Robert Diamond, 22, and his brother-in-law, John Shaffer, 25, of 4 Woodville avenue, were arrested by the police March 15 following the holdup of a gasoline station at 640 Noblestown road, where $10 was taken and a store at 1875 Noblestown road robbed of $150. When arrested the men were found in a stolen car. All confessed the robberies.

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

SCIENTISTS pay pretty compliments by naming this or that for their friends. For instance, Dr. W. J. Holland, director emeritus of Carnegie Museum, named a new butterfly from Alaska for Andry Avinoff, the museum director. Mr. Avinoff returned the compliment by naming a new species for Dr. Holland. Then Dr. Holland, just before leaving for Mexico the other day, seemed to gain the edge by naming still another new species for Mr. Avinoff.

But wait! B. Preston Clark, of Boston, a special on hawkmoths, appears to have killed two birds with one stone by naming a new species for both Dr. Holland and Mr. Avinoff. This is called Avinoffia Hollandi.

These names are registered with a society which takes care of such things. Dr. Holland's name appears often. Named for him have been an extinct American mammal of the Tertiary period related to the hippopotamus; several families of fish, an extinct turtle, a fossil plant, a living plant of the mint family, a humming bird and many species of moths and butterflies, including a whole family of moths called Hollandidae.

We had occasion to call a number in the new Wellington exchange a few days ago and we wish to report to the Bell Telephone Company that results were excellent. The Wellington exchange is a babe, as telephone exchanges go, but it is a healthy baby. This was once the Westview exchange, so that it does have background and tradition. It does not have, of course, the rich history of Montrose, or Federal, or Brandywine, but too much cannot be expected overnight. Let us not be impatient. Give Wellington a chance to grow and in the years to come we shall be rewarded for our patience. Twenty years from today this country will be Wellington-conscious. Then will the Duke of Wellington be rewarded for his victory over Napoleon at Waterloo. After all, to the victor belong the spoils.

IF AL Oliver needed any identification other than that he is one of the town's best known lawyers, we might report that he was the 144-pound fullback of Mercersburg Academy's football team more than a dozen years ago. Counsellor Oliver had as his guest the other day Jimmy Curran, the track coach at Mercersburg, who has more friends in Pittsburgh than—well, than the Public Service Commission, for one.

"You remember that fella Jones the sprinter?" Jimmy asked Attorney Oliver. "He'd 'a' been the fastest human ever if he hadn't got married and settled down. I remember that year we took him to the Penn Relays at Philadelphia. He was a country boy. We were riding the dining car from Harrisburg to Philadelphia and he had to run that afternoon, so I told the waiter all my man wanted was some consomme. And, you know, that waiter brought the soup and that runner of mine put four lumps o' sugar in it and drank the stuff. And later he said he used to get better coffee than that back on the farm."

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 3.

WE hold the record, unchallenged, for forming clubs and organizations for earthly reason at all, for every kind of "goofy" project, both national and international, but occasionally somebody does come through with a great idea, and having the gold star mothers visit their sons' graves at government expense is a masterpiece and makes up for all the "cuckoo" other things we do.

That will be by far the most representative American pilgrimage that ever left our shores. There goes your real "Good Will" delegation. No diplomacy, no schemes to put over, just mothers, the same the whole world over. We can't wish them happiness but we do wish them contentment.

Yours,
WILL.

PUPILS LEARN CLEANUP AIMS

Plans for the annual "Clean Up, Paint Up, Plant Up" campaign, to be conducted by the Chamber of Commerce April 27 to May 10, were outlined to representatives of the 200,000 city school pupils who will take part, by President James Rae, of the Chamber, yesterday. Other speakers were Charles Donley, chairman of the life and property committee of the Chamber, who introduced the speakers; Fire Chief Richard L. Smith, Superintendent William M. Davidson, of the Board of Education, and Donald J. Howard.

The meeting was the second of a series being held before the campaign opens, and was attended by about 200 leaders in affairs of the city.

Deceived, He Says, Sues for Divorce

Married bliss lasted but two days with Walter Daniel Wilhelm, Dewey way, Munhall, when he found his wife, Harriet Wilhelm, formerly a nurse at Homestead Hospital, had fooled him, he testified. He told Judge John A. Evans that he had been tricked into the wedding, a child having been born two days after their marriage. He asked the court to give him a divorce on the grounds specified.

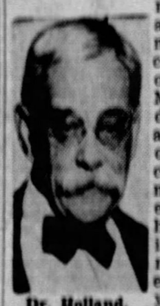
Mrs. Wilhelm did not defend the action.

Says Wife Bigamist, Annulment Sought

Rose Maidhof is accused of having had another husband when she was wed to Albert A. Maidhof, 203 Vassar street, in a petition in Common Pleas Court asking for an annulment filed by the latter. He alleges his wife, also known as "Rose Helm," Atwood street, at the time of the marriage, November 17, 1923, was the wife of Carl A. Helm. Maidhof says that Helm is still living.

Dr. Holland, 81, Biologist, Leaves for Mexico

Unbowed by the weight of his 81 years, Dr. William Jacob Holland, director emeritus of Carnegie Museum and "grand old man" of American biologists, is on his way to Mexico City today to set up another replica of the diplodocus, 85-foot monster unearthed in the hills of Wyoming by a Carnegie Museum expedition 30 years ago.



Dr. Holland.

This will be the ninth copy of the diplodocus, the others being in museums in London, Paris, Berlin, Leningrad, Madrid, Bologna, Vienna and Buenos Aires. Mrs. Andrew Carnegie is paying for the Mexican specimen, which will be erected in the National Museum of that country.

The bones of the diplodocus, a vegetable-eating dinosaur previously unknown to science, were discovered in Sheep Creek, Albany County, Wyoming, in July, 1899, and completely excavated the following year. A sensation was created by the size of the creature, which was so long that with five feet of its tail in the Monongahela National Bank Building it could have reached across Liberty avenue at Wood street and touched the Clark Building with its head.

Dr. Andrey Avinoff, director of Carnegie Museum, said recent discoveries of geologists indicated the diplodocus lived 15,000,000 years ago.

WHITE HOUSE GANG

Quentin Throws Icicle and Injures Policeman

Theodore Roosevelt, when President of the United States, started the adventurous, rollicking, joyous career of the White House Gang by sending his youngest son, Quentin, to the Force Public School in Washington. Here the gang was recruited. The accredited members are Charles (Taffy) Taft, "Brom" Seeley, Dick (Sailor) Chew, Edward (Slats) Stead, also called "Bedstead," Walker White, "T. R." the most active member of the gang; Quentin, the leader, and Earle Looker, the author of this story.

Each day, after school, the gang went into a huddle to confound all rules of deportment in high places, mingle in the lives of presidents and policemen, win victories, taste honor, suffer punishments and engage in escapades which were swept along the wires to national publicity. Many exploits of the gang, however, either remain unknown or were known only to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Some there were securely hidden even from them.

CHAPTER XXVI.

"THIS policeman, as I happen to know, has a long and honorable record. His post is a place of honor and responsibility. Don't you see? He has a well-earned right to be proud of the trust reposed in his loyalty and judgment. At this moment, he is not so proud of it; he cannot help but watch, out of the corner of his eye, for another avalanche from the roof. Therefore, until he is assured that nothing of this kind will occur again, he is not as good a presidential guard as he should be, or desires to be.

"Each of you—beginning with Quentin—will apologize separately, and as well as you are able, to this officer. But not however, immediately—just to carry out my orders. We don't want that kind of an apology. You are now to go into session, and talk out the things I have just said to you, among yourselves. If you do not agree, you will come to me and explain, clearly and distinctly, just where, and why you do not. We will then proceed to a reconsideration of the whole matter. If, however, you decide it to be a matter for no further argument—that my suggestion is equitable—you will go to this policeman in just that spirit—knowing you should do it—and tender him an apology, not perfunctorily offered, but handsomely, and in real sincerity—"

"Thank you, Mr. President," little Walker White boomed in his resonant voice.

"You're quite welcome, sir," TR responded, walking away slowly, and with unaffected dignity, to his carriage.

There was hardly any discussion among the Gang regarding the justice and equity of our orders. Within a quarter of an hour we had apologized, individually and collectively to the policeman, who before it was over, became quite embarrassed by its sincerity, and the difficulty he found in adequately meeting our flood of apology.

Policeman Hurt

Icicle Thrown by Quentin Causes Injury

Shortly afterwards, Q involved himself with another policeman—Sergeant Shillon. One morning, Eddie Norris came up out of the boiler-room for a breath of fresh air. Great icicles had fallen from the cornice, down into the west areaway. Q picked up one of these jagged fragments, and seizing a favorable opportunity hurled it at Eddie. But Eddie, alert and watchful, ducked, and Sergeant Shillon, standing directly in the line of fire, was struck on the forehead by the missile. The splintery ice opened a sharp wound and the blood ran, immediately, into Shillon's eyes. Everyone, most of all Q, looked at the Sergeant's shocking condition in startled amazement. Shillon appeared to be badly hurt.

TR had not witnessed the incident but looking in our direction just afterwards, immediately understood that it was Q again.

He came forward at once, while Shillon was staunching the blood with his handkerchief, and peremptorily demanded an explanation from Quentin.

"Father! Father!" Q cried, as his habit was, when in real trouble.

Promoted

Victim Advances Through President's Aid

Shillon explained to the President that it was entirely accidental and that the ice had been meant—in pure fun—for Norris, who had dodged . . . Moreover Quentin had amply apologized.

"Sergeant Shillon!" said TR, "may I add my apology to Quentin's?"

"Mr. President! That makes it worth while happening, sir," Shillon said. "The boy didn't mean it——"

"Yes, yes," TR said, "I understand—and you understand, exactly. Thank you, Sergeant. How long have you been on the force?"

Shillon told him.

"Why haven't you been promoted?" TR asked abruptly.

Shillon gave the President some reasons which he supposed had influenced the run of affairs.

"I must see your record," said TR, briefly.

The next morning, Sergt. Shillon had gone forever. In his place, stood Lieut. Shillon.

"Think of that!" said Eddie, later. "Shillon certainly owed his promotion to Quentin . . . That was a lieutenancy that hit Shillon—not an icicle, at all!"

The Gang was rather more surprised by Shillon's sudden promotion than any other official Presidential act. The whole transaction had about it a gesture of majesty. TR, apparently, could do anything which seemed good for him to do. Wonderful thing, that!

Power

TR Explains Boundary Of His Job

This poignant realization led us to an actual story of power and importance of the Presidency. Q led us into one of the rooms of the Executive offices, and we fingered a geographical globe. "Father's job," said Q, instructively, "embraces a lot more than just the United States. Really, all of North and South America, too . . . and so, the whole world ——"

TR's laugh, behind us, startled us all. "You flatter me, Quentin," he said, "when imagining I hold the world, like an orb! Look that word up, in the dictionary—o-r-b. My job, exactly, is here, and here, and here," he went on, indicating the United States and her territorial possessions, "and the sea, just a few miles out from the coasts of these places. Do you know, that instead of its being bitter-cold salt water, it would really be hot water—for me—if I jumped into it, thoughtlessly, beyond those limits ——"

Yes; the Gang understood that thoroughly, for getting into hot water was about the easiest thing it did, and without going out of the south garden, at that. This was made the more easy of accomplishment by reason of the hundreds of windows, on the east side of the State-War-Navy Building, which were like so many monocles, ceaselessly, pitiessly observing, ready to check up the slightest tendency towards delinquency on the part of seven small boys in the White House Garden.

MISS BEPPIE DE VRIES

COUNTESS HERE VISITS STAR

A friendship born eight years ago at an embassy party in The Hague today brought Comtesse Cleo L. Ch. Van Limburg Stirum from Holland to visit a stage star here.

Miss Beppie de Vries, star of "The Merry Widow" production at the Alvin Theater, was the friend. While this visit is the first of Comtesse Van Limburg Stirum to the United States, she has journeyed many miles over Europe at various times to chat with Miss de Vries.

Paris and The Hague are the homes of the titled visitor. Her family is one of the oldest in Holland, dating back to about 670. Throughout the generations, members have served in that country's diplomatic corps. Miss de Vries likewise calls The Hague home. The visitor, stopping at the William Penn Hotel, will remain here throughout her friend's local engagement.

Overbrook District Plan Supported

Attorney John J. McGrath of former Overbrook Borough, has presented a plan to the redistricting commission of Allegheny County, which calls for reducing the Thirty-second Ward, the Overbrook district, from nine to six districts. His plan was the only one presented at the hearing conducted by Commissioners Howard Neely, Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., and John T. Small.

McGrath's plan is said to have the approval of all district leaders as it is laid out with the idea of keeping residents from crossing the many valleys in the ward to vote.

Plane Fails, Flier Saves Self in Leap

When the rudder control of his plane failed to function while he was practicing stunts north of the Pittsburgh-Butler Airport late yesterday, James M. Shutt, of Steubenville, a student flier at Penn School of Aviation, was forced to leap from the plane at an altitude of 500 feet. He landed without injury by means of a parachute. The plane fell in a field nearby.

Turtle Race Sure For May 30-31, Says Milt

Milton D. Crandall, promoter of freak contests, today announced that his much talked of turtle race would be staged in Duquesne Garden May 30 and 31. Crandall said there would be no age limit placed on the racers and that the winner would bring $200 to his owner.

Crandall said he is having turtles brought here from all parts of the country. He plans to sell them to local people who will then enter them in the contest. One consolation for the loser is that he will keep the turtle, with which he can make soup.

1930 Dog License Tags Now Ready

Louis Weil, city dog license collector, announced today that 1930 dog licenses are ready for distribution. A canvass of the city, he said, revealed that last year there were thousands of dogs without licenses. He reminded owners that failure to purchase licenses makes them subject to fines.

U. S. Court Admits Avalon Attorney

Attorney John W. Cost, of Avalon, was admitted to practice in the Federal District Court, on motion of Attorney George J. Campbell. The oath was administered before Judge R. M. Gibson. Mr. Cost is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh law school and was manager of the football team.

FOUR ARRESTED IN LOTTERY

John P. Hoerr, Jr., a realty dealer and amusement park operator of McKeesport, and Dominico Schettino, of 514 White street, McKeesport, were at liberty today on $100 forfeits pending hearings Saturday before Alderman C. L. Patterson, of Clairton, on charges of operating a lottery.

Hoerr was arrested by Police Chief Michael Cobak, of Glassport, when he appeared with forfeit money for Schettino, an alleged employe.

Schettino was arrested while driving Hoerr's automobile, according to Cobak, a quantity of "tip-off" cards for clearing house numbers having been found in the car, police said.

Robert Stephens and Lena Watts, Clairton Negroes, were held in $500 bail for court by Patterson when it was testified they had failed to pay on winning numbers.

Roselia Fund Drive Workers to Meet

First reports in the drive of the Roselia Foundling Asylum and Maternity Home for $100,000 to carry on the work of the institution, were to be made at a luncheon of campaign workers in the William Penn Hotel at noon today.

Workers late yesterday, in unofficial reports to Taylor Allderdice, fund chairman, indicated that the drive was meeting with satisfactory results. When the drive was started more than $10,000 had been subscribed to the fund, Allderdice said.

PENNINGTON SAYS STILLS IN HOUSES

Real Problem Rests in Distilleries, He Declares; 15,000 Raids Made Here

Hundreds of speakeasies exist in the Greater Pittsburgh district, but the problem of ridding them out is one for local authorities rather than the dry enforcement bureau, Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington said in an address before the Kiwanis Club today at the Fort Pitt Hotel.

The real problem, Pennington charges, is eradication of large distilleries and illicit liquor plants, a problem the local dry unit is accomplishing.

LAW HERE TO STAY

"The surest way to repeal an unpopular law is to enforce it to the limit," he stated, "but it can't be done as long as gangsters and racketeers control municipal governments and remain in office. But we are doing all in our power and think we are getting along nicely."

"When our children and grandchildren are gone, prohibition will still be a statute on our lawbooks," Pennington predicted.

Although many deaths have been caused by enforcement of the dry laws, but one has occurred in Pennington's district, he told his audience.

"New York agents are schooled against use of firearms, except in cases of emergency. Two years ago," he said, "a West Virginia bootlegger was shot and killed by a dry agent. Subsequently he was acquitted. Despite this, I asked for his resignation, because he was not being attacked when the shot was fired.

Many obstacles have been thrown in Pennington's path, he contends.

"When I came here I found the head of my brewery squad the son of an ex-brewer. I couldn't get co-operation. I discharged him."

"Another thing," Pennington said, "is the lack of publicity given shootings of dry agents by law breakers. When a bootlegger is shot and killed the public prints editorialize and spread the story all over the front page. This treatment is lacking when a dry officer is murdered."

Pittsburgh is singularly free from liquor, the administrator assured his listeners. Breaking up of large alcohol plants and stills has effected this. Many are now located in private homes, he alleged.

Among accomplishments of the local enforcement squad cited by Pennington were quashing of alcohol diversion, 15,000 raids in less than four years, more than 18,000 arrests.

Views Apartment, Takes $200 Ring

A man who called at the home of Mrs. W. S. Brotzman, of 1641 Suburban avenue, wife of the weather forecaster, was being sought by police today in connection with the theft of a diamond ring valued at $200.

The stranger inquired about a vacant apartment and when he left, the ring, which had been placed on a table, was missing, Mrs. Brotzman told police.

Loses Control of Car, Arrested in Theft

Charles Perry, 28, Negro, of McKees Rocks, was arrested last night when his machine grazed a street car at Sixth avenue and Smithfield street, and then struck two other automobiles parked in Sixth avenue. At a hearing before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today the car was claimed by G. R. Acheson, of 5744 Kentucky avenue. Perry was held for court.

Purse Snatchers Attack Lone Women at Night

Two women were victimized by purse snatchers early today. Several boys and a man are sought for the thefts which netted them less than $13.

Miss Anna Shelehiga, of 5507 Bartlett street, told police she was walking in Bartlett street near Wightman street when a boy leaped from an automobile and snatched her purse containing $12. He ran back to the machine which contained several companions, she said.

Mrs. C. O. Henry, of Gilmore avenue, Penn Township, was standing at Baum boulevard and Beatty street when a man tore her purse from her arm, she informed police. The bag contained less than a dollar in change, the police report states.

Defeat of Metro Plan Makes Poll Important to Hold Our Place in Population

"Root out everybody."

More than 1,000 census enumerators engaged in making the canvass in Allegheny County today received special instructions to be diligent in closely combing their districts when they started on their second day's rounds.

Since the Metropolitan Plan defeat, it is pointed out that every man, woman and child in Pittsburgh must be counted if this municipal division is to hold its own as tenth American city.

CLOSELY PRESSED

San Francisco and New Orleans are runners up on Pittsburgh in population and the census enumerators were impressed with the necessity of "rooting out everybody."

In the "rooting out" process some of the enumerators struck a snag when they encountered persons who refused to answer the questions. Particularly was this true when unemployed persons were questioned about their status, how long they had been without a job and if they were looking for work.

"The government will not get me a job and why should I answer," was the reply in many instances.

REFUSE ANSWERS

The enumerators did not press the objectors for answers. Within a few days they will call again, and if the people are still obstinate, the district supervisor will visit them and explain the law and the penalty for refusing to answer. Further refusals will result in the case being turned over to a deputy United States marshal with instructions to arrest the objector.

The census of the unemployed will be returned from each block in the city. In this manner the jobless will be located according to communities and districts as well as by streets and wards.

AID ASKED FOR VETS' BILL

An appeal to residents of Western Pennsylvania to urge their representatives in Congress to support the Rankin bill was asked in a statement today by Aspinwall Chapter No. 20, The Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

The Rankin bill provides for the extension of time for service connection for tuberculosis, heart disease and other chronic invaliding disabilities.

In an attempt to bring the bill back on the floor of Congress, Representative Rankin needs the support of other congressmen, the statement says. People interested in veteran disability are urged to send letters to their congressmen asking their support.

Plumbers to Hold Dinner at Schenley

Speakers will be C. B. Nash, director of publicity; J. D. Tschopik, vice president; A. G. Getty, manager of the Pittsburgh unit of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, and several leaders of the local plumbing and heating trades.

WOMEN REFUSE ANSWERS

SEATTLE, Wash., April 3.—(AP.)—Census enumerators encountered their first obstacles here in the reluctance of three women to give their exact ages.

The enumerators reported to Supervisor L. A. Williams that the women insisted that, since "legal age" was all that was required when obtaining a marriage license, the same privilege should be extended to them when being enrolled by the census taker.

Supervisor Williams said the women would be "given a chance to reconsider."

CLEVELAND, April 3.—(AP.)—One house wife, who, according to enumerator Estelle Smith, didn't think much of Uncle Sam's census questions, was under summons to explain her conduct at the United States District Attorney's office today.

Miss Smith declared that Mrs. Mary Hartwell could see no reason for answering so many questions and added that she had "committed no crime." District Census Supervisor William R. Pringle got the same answer when he telephoned Mrs. Hartwell, he said, and decided to make her an example for several other housewives, who held the same opinion.

It is provided by law that any person who "shall refuse or willfully neglect to answer any of these questions shall be guilty of a misdemeanor." The penalty provided is not more than $100 or 60 days in prison, or both.

The punishment for false answers is greater. Violators may be fined $500 and imprisoned for one year.

Homestead Man Bitten By Dog

Homestead police today were searching for a dog which attacked Joseph Swatko, 25, of 215 Fifth avenue, Homestead, last night. Swatko was bitten in the leg, according to a police report. He was taken to the Homestead Hospital for treatment, later going to his home.

NEW DETECTIVE SPOTS SLAYER

He has only been a city detective for one day, but Edward Pritchard, 20 Bly street, has already solved a deep, dark mystery, known to readers of S. S. Van Dyne as "The Benson Murder Case."

Pritchard didn't have to move from his chair or draw his pistol to reach the solution, either. Then, too, he got $25 for his mental efforts. Several other members of Pittsburgh's homicide squad "worked" the case also. But they soon became lost in the maze of contradicting clues.

News of the case first reached the new sleuth's notice yesterday morning when the Warner Theater invited city detectives to see the preview of "The Benson Murder Case" and write their solution of the mystery, naming the murderer. After some persuasion on the part of his fellow detectives, Pritchard consented to go to the Clark Building where the preview was to be shown.

When Pritchard heard that the theater would give $25 to the detective naming the murderer he picked up interest and copped the reward.

"Ah, I had that guy spotted from the first," is the way he explained his victory.

HOLMES SHOWS NEW GERMANY

Germany at play, Germany at home, Germany in all its picturesqueness was shown last night by Burton Holmes in the third of his season's traveltalks at the Carnegie Music Hall. Yet the pictures had lively news interest, with recent views of Berlin's activities and the new Germany producing its vast machines and its striking new buildings. Colorful to the point of stage-settings were the pictures of Dinkelsbuehl, a little community about which has raged modernism and all the phases of progress, but which has maintained its quaintness and peace much as it had centuries ago.

Catapulting mailplanes from the deck of the steamship "Bremen" was a thrilling finale to the interesting lecture. Next Wednesday Mr. Holmes will take his audience on a Mediterranean cruise.

Mysterious Trunk No Mystery When Opened

A trunk lying in the middle of Twelfth avenue, Homestead, at Amity street, brought visions of a "trunk murder mystery" to nearby residents today. They notified police. Motorcycle Patrolman L. J. Albiez took the trunk to the police station. Opened, it was found to contain newspapers and old clothing. It was carted to the dump.

STORM DELAYS BYRD'S SHIP

DUNEDIN, N. Z., April 3.—(AP.)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition bark, The City of New York, radioed today that for 30 hours she had been hove to in a storm. The wind velocity was estimated at 80 to 90 miles an hour.

The bark gave her position as latitude 35 South, longitude 159 West, or slightly better than half way from Dunedin to Papeete, her first stop on the trip home to New York City. The ship, with only a top sail and storm try-sail up, was riding well in the heavy seas, she reported.

Admiral Byrd announced he will leave New Zealand from Wellington on the steamer Rangitiki, which is due at Panama about May 20.

2 SAFES RIFLED DOWNTOWN

Robbers battered open the safes in two downtown furniture stores, employes discovered when they reported for work today.

At the Stanley store, 927 Penn avenue, $800 was taken by safe-crackers who gained entrance by dropping through a transom window. They took also 20 diamonds and four watches of undetermined value.

The Globe store, Tenth street and Penn avenue, was robbed of $500 in cash and money orders, police reported.

25 EWES GUARD 26 LAMBS

Ten sets of twins and two sets of triplets were produced in a flock of 25 ewes on the J. B. and J. R. Henderson farm, Hickory, Pa., since last November.

With Easter prices prevailing, these small bundles of wool today are worth top price. And the chief profit of the farm is produced from raising the Dorset sheep, one of the finest grown.

Sheep raising in the Henderson family dates back to the eighteen hundreds, when J. L. Henderson, father of J. B. and grandfather of J. R., brought the first of the breed into this section of the country. Henderson street in Washington, Pa., was named for the pioneer. Since that start, J. B. Henderson has made three trips to England to bring sheep of this breed here.

J. R. operates the farm with his father. The Younger Henderson was a State College student when war was declared. He didn't finish his course. He is secretary of the national association of Continental Dorset Club.

BUILDING CLAIM PARLEY HELD

An effort to adjust differences between the city and the Buhl Foundation, arising out of damages to the Martin building when West Robinson street was widened, was made at a hearing in Council yesterday.

Samuel McClay, of Reed, Smith, Shaw and McClay; Arthur E. Braun, and W. S. Linderman, trustees, represented the foundation at the hearing. A strip 127 feet long and 20 feet wide was cut from the building, a four-story structure, when the street was widened.

It developed that the Foundation reduced its claim to $236,570, and that the city offered $190,000 during the preliminary discussions of the case. Later a compromise of $212,000 was reached. This was unsatisfactory to Council, and City Solicitor C. A. Waldschmidt was instructed to file suit.

A further effort to adjust the case is to be made as a result of yesterday's hearing.

Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: Do you coincide with the opinion of an eminent psychologist that women have less intelligence than men?

LUCILLE WHITESIDE, Downtown: "Women are just as intelligent as men at any time. They have for several years occupied the same positions as men in business, several professions and the arts. When it comes to certain technical knowledge, however, they might not be quite as intelligent."

Miss Whiteside

AGNES TEA, artist, Sixth street: "Don't let anyone kid you that women are less smart than men. Such ideas might have been all right when women wore hoop skirts and men flowing beards, but not in this day and age. Woman is man's equal in every respect. This goes for the arts, professions and sciences."

Agnes Tea

D. J. FRANCIS, Downtown: "Well, in many lines of thought women are often more intelligent than men. But on the average, the brain cells are about equal. Probably in the past women were not as smart as men, but that was because they hadn't an opportunity to develop themselves. Equality between the sexes has eliminated that."

D. J. Francis

EVA FRANCIS, assistant, Sixth street: "Of course, if one takes individual cases, one will probably find that the average male intelligence exceeds that of women, but when taken as a class or whole, the percentage remains about equal. And even if it were found that the male mind is greater than woman's one must remember that woman has had a chance to educate herself only in the past 50 years or so."

Eva Francis

CHARLES HORRELL, South side: "Possibly the psychologist who developed this idea was taking only individual cases, rather than the mass of femininity as a whole. I don't think his conclusions were right. Woman is every bit as intelligent as man, even though she doesn't get an opportunity to show it often."

Charles Horrell

GLADYS BURKEY, vocalist, downtown: "Exceptions prove the rule, so it is said. If this is so, then exceptions of unintelligent women prove the rule that as a whole the sex is smart. Probably the doctor who made that statement about lack of intelligence, didn't know what he was talking about."

Gladys Burkey

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Debut Dance To Be Held On Dec. 22

FROM now until the fall debutantes and plans for the buds of the coming fall and winter season will be in the back of society's mind, no matter how many events occur in the interlude.

Already we know of a goodly number of girls who'll probably make their bows next year, and we also have heard of a few definite dates for the buds-to-be.

Word has reached me that one of the most important of the debs will be Madelaine Alexander, daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander, and niece of the William Christopher Robinsons. Her cousin, Mary Franklin Robinson, was one of the popular buds of the season just past.

Probably in the fall Mrs. Alexander will give a tea to present Madelaine, and on December 22 her father and mother will give a ball for her in the exclusive old Pittsburgh Club.

Madelaine is studying abroad this year and her mother visited her before going to Palm Beach for the late winter. Speaking of Palm Beach reminds me that the Alexanders are expected home from Florida by the first of the week.

Bridal Party

that of Helen Rebecca West, daughter of the Charles Howard Wests, and Alexander Logan Wilson, son of Mrs. John Logan, of the King Edward Apartments, which will take place Monday, April 21 at 5:30 o'clock, in the West home.

Helen's sister, Mrs. William J. Powell, will be matron of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Frances Eddy, of Newtonville, Mass., who's a student at Mt. Holyoke; Bettie Dunlap, Louise Evans, Kittie Schley, and Alice Paige Cleveland, of Cleveland.

John Watts Wilson will be his brother's best man, and S. Brainard West, Helen's brother; Donald Straub, Addison Wilson, of Princeton, and James Allen Machesney will be ushers.

Of course, there'll be ever so many parties for the April bride, and this Saturday there'll be several informal events.

Mrs. William Cecil Hogg will give a tea Saturday afternoon for Helen in her Shady avenue home, and Virginia Kuhn will entertain that evening in her home for Helen and Kittie Schley, who's betrothed to H. Allen Machesney, Jr.

EVERY production the Stage and Play Society has given this winter has been attended very well indeed, and is always welcomed by the social set as an evening's diversion, not only because of their interest in things dramatic, but because there is always something especially entertaining about an amateur production that is well done. The fourth event the society will sponsor this season, completing its schedule for this year, will be given late this spring, May 6, in Carnegie Music Hall, of course.

Play Group

Stage and Play Society performances attract everyone, from debs and girls and boys home from school to grandmothers. And the audiences are always strikingly gowned.

AND again I have news of travelers, with some returning home, and others still on the continent or in other parts of the states. The William Bacon Schillers and Mrs. Frederick Schiller, of "Red Gate Farm," Sewickley Heights, are in India, and have been traveling now for several months.

Travel News

Mollie Cullum and her mother and father, the James Barlow Cullums, of Centennial avenue and East drive, have returned from the South.

The Christian Ihmsen Shannons, of Boundary street, who have been in St. Simons Islands, Ga., all winter, are to return home late this month, meanwhile they are to be the guests of Mrs. Jennings Thomas in Camden, S. C.

Mrs. James G. Pontefract, of Shields, who has been in California this winter, returned home the end of the week.

Leonard Woods Bughman, who is home from the Fessenden School, West Newton, Mass., was entertained with a bridge-dance last Saturday evening, given by his mother, Mrs. Henry Clay Bughman, of Bank street. Leonard is returning to school Sunday.

Old-Fashioned 'Thriller' To Be Given April 14 By Sewickley Club

SOMETHING decidedly out of the ordinary is promised Sewickley Valley Woman's Club members for their annual dramatic presentation. It is to be a production of "Out in the Streets," one of the old-fashioned melodramas that were revived by Christopher Morely in his Hoboken experiment, a temperance play with bloodhounds, snow scenes, sounds of galloping horses and all the other offstage effects which one associates with old-time "thrillers."

April 14 is the date and the Sewickley Academy the place.

Mrs. William Booth is directing and the cast includes Mrs. Charles R. Arrott, Mrs. Hanson Thomas, Mrs. Charles Jennings, Mrs. Frank R. Stoner, Jr., Mary Applegate, Mrs. Reuben Rose and Mrs. William Dickinson Shields.

AS a part of the background for the Girl Scout flag pageant to be given Saturday afternoon in Moose Temple, a window exhibit is being shown by the travel department of the First National Bank, Wood street. On view in this window is an interesting group of objects from many corners of the world—scarves and silver trinkets from Sweden and a knife and fork set plowed up on Swedish ground recently and discovered to be over 1,000 years old—the type of dining implements carried about from place to place by individuals in that by-gone age when guests had to provide their own means of eating their food.

NEW officers of the Wednesday Current Events Class, elected yesterday, are: President, Mrs William Penn Baum; vice president, Mrs. J. E. Roth; recording secretary, Mrs. Edwin M. Davis; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. F. Spinning; treasurer, Mrs. Harry A. Koch.

Miss Martha Steckel, of Greensburg, gave the members a delightful hour after the business session yesterday, telling them of a leisurely European trip which she had made. Her acquaintance with R. C. Sherriff, author of "Journey's End," was of especial interest, although to everything of which she spoke Miss Steckel brought a charm of personality and diction as well as a lively enthusiasm.

In England she learned to distinguish between an abbey and a cathedral, although she found many people abroad who did not know the difference. A cathedral is purely a place of worship, whereas an abbey was once a monastery and has the remains of living and cooking quarters. Modes of travel, places, people, scenery, opera, art galleries, museums were all included in the delightful talk.

The class will have its spring luncheon April 16 in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association Annex.

APRIL SHOWERS BRING MANY NEW WATERPROOF FABRICS

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph,

PARIS, April 3.—Elasticity of fabric selection and sartorial styles for raincoats is achieved by rubberizing a wide variety of materials and developing them into models that belie their unattractive name. In fact, after seeing some of the new waterproof coats offered in the recent collections it is safe to predict that April showers will bring a reign of unprecedented smartness to this important costume group. It seems that practically every fabric, wool, cotton and silk has been cleverly adapted for the fashioning of snug raincoats. Cotton prints, rayon shantung, jersey and crepe de chine all present themselves in waterproof versions. That there will be colorful splashes adds further to the bright outlook for cloudy days as purple, crimson, green and even white are among the chosen colors.

ONE model that has met with thunderous approval here is that from Redfern sketched today. It is of bright Chinese red crepe de chine, rubberized on the reverse side. It is lined with a light-weight woolen fabric checked in small squares of red, black and beige. The scarf and cuffs are of the same fabric and beneath the coat is worn a smartly tailored frock of checked material. The shallow cape is ever so slightly circular in cut.

THE fashion suitability of blues is expressed in the flattering, youthful model shown by Thomas and Leon. Such semi-tailored suits are among the favorite afternoon costumes being worn here now. They are slightly dressy, especially when worn with a pastel tinted frock, yet carry the subtle distinction of the tailleur. The Eton jacket and skirt of this suit are of dark blue crepe moracain and the blouse is of pastel blue georgette. Directoire inspiration is suggested in the wide, flaring revers on the jacket with their buttons and wide buttonhole. The skirt fits snugly, and is shaped over the hips in a series of pointed piecings. Two inverted box-pleats are found at the front, lending width to the narrow silhouette. Exhibit—Oriental Picture Rugs

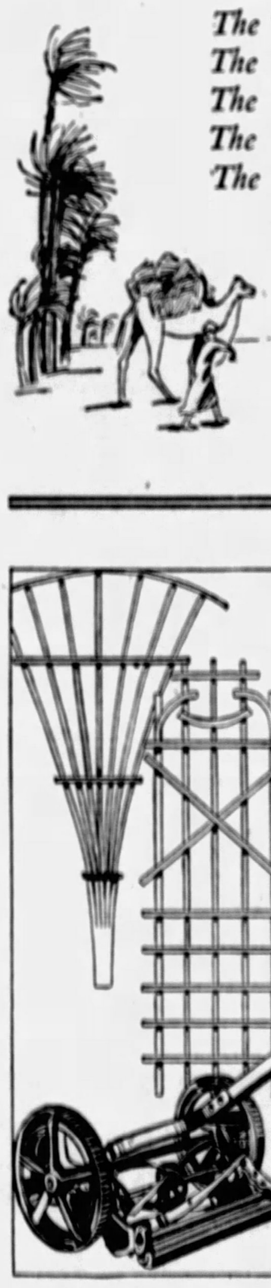
These rugs were loaned to us from large exhibitors in New York. They comprise a collection of rugs so unique that everyone, who possibly can, should see them.

More than seventy-five fine rugs are hung in the Oriental Rug Galleries, each rug picturing a story of romantic or historical interest, woven with precision into a gorgeous show piece.

Among the collection are these famous show rugs, which are familiar to Oriental Rug lovers.



The "Columbus Genealogical Tree" Rug
The "Wilhelm of Germany" Rug
The "War Eclipse" Rug
The "Napoleon of Asia" Rug
The "Shirin and Fehrad" Rug

We have the collection for a limited period of time, and considering that such a display has never been shown before this in Pittsburgh, or to our best knowledge in any single exhibit, the occasion has much more than average interest. The rugs may be purchased at the prices the exhibitors marked them—prices that are moderate.

Nancy Carroll Reaches Pinnacle as Star in 'Honey'

Plot Fascinates, Comedy Is Riotous and Song Sequences Are Pleasing

Nancy Carroll, the darling of America's movie fandom, is the star of "Honey," the musical romance opening tomorrow at Loew's and United Artists' Penn Theater. It is a Paramount picture with Harry Green, Lillian Roth, Skeets Gallagher and Stanley Smith.

In "Honey," Miss Carroll is even sweeter than she was in "Sweetie," if that can be imagined. The reason is that "Sweetie" showed her to have moments of obstinacy, whereas "Honey" shows her as a completely delectable character, who is at all times lovable.

It affords fascinating entertainment every moment. The comedy tempo is fast and riotous. The song sequences are exceptionally pleasing to the eye and ear.

"Honey" is based on the famous stage hit, "Come Out of the Kitchen." Miss Carroll is the daughter of a poverty-stricken Virginia family who is forced to lease her parental mansion to Johyna Ralston, a wealthy widow from the West, in order to gain money to pay off the mortgage.

When the widow moves into the mansion with her daughter Lillian Roth, her chosen prospective son-in-law, Stanley Smith, and her detective guardian, Harry Green, there is a shortage of servants, and Nancy Carroll and her brother, Skeets Gallagher, are forced to assume the roles of cook and butler, respectively.

A series of hilarious comedy episodes results from this situation. Of course Stanley Smith falls in love with Nancy, even though he is unaware that she is a high-born Virginian and not really a kitchen menial.

"In My Little Hope Chest" is the leading song of the show. Miss Carroll and Smith sing it charmingly. Another smashing success is "Sing, You Sinners," a Negro jubilee song, which thrills with its tropical rhythm and clever staging.

'SWEETIE' NOW 'HONEY' STAR

Nancy Carroll, the flaming-haired sweetie of "Sweetie" fame, is to be seen and heard in her second musical romance, and her second starring picture when "Honey" comes to the Penn Theater tomorrow for the Loew Carnival program.

"Honey" is based on the famous comedy success "Come Out of the Kitchen," by Alice Duer Miller and A. E. Thomas.

"Honey" was directed by Wesley Ruggles, the brother of Charles Ruggles, film comedian, and the director of nearly a score of box office film hits.

'Honey' Star

NANCY CARROLL

Stanley Smith Is 'Honey' Leading Man

Stanley Smith again plays the leading man to Miss Carroll in "Honey," the feature production at Loew's Penn Theater during Carnival week. Smith supported Nancy Carroll in her first picture, "Sweetie." "Sweeter Than Sweet," the musical hit from the screen show, "Sweetie," was the vehicle in which Smith first gained fame.

Announcing New Shows FRIDAY
OF EACH WEEK
Beginning
TOMORROW
APRIL 4

Loew's SPRING Carnival

IN ADDITION to opening the spring season nationally in Loew's Theatres, "Loew's Spring Carnival" inaugurates the new opening policy of Loew's and United Artists Penn Theatre, Pittsburgh, whereby the new stage and screen shows at the Penn will open on Friday each week, beginning with Friday of this week (tomorrow), April 4.

Extra special care has been given to the selection of the unusual in stage and screen entertainment to be offered at Loew's Penn during the four weeks of the "Loew's Spring Carnival" and in the weeks following the carnival season.

Some of the celebrated artists to be seen in person with the Loew's Stage Shows at Loew's Penn represent the finest talent from the stage and screen, including Ted Healy, Belle Baker, Joe Frisco, Texas Guinan, Herman Timberg, Phil Baker, Anita Stewart, Dave Apollon, Georgie Price, Shaw & Lee, Chester Conklin, Ritz Brothers, Ted Claire, Roy d'Arcy, Don Alphonzo Zelaya, Dave Schooler, Eddie Leonard, Bobby Gillette, and those two Pittsburgh favorites, Teddy Joyce and Wesley Eddy, together with the marvelous shows direct from the Capitol Theatre, New York, that bring you a new traveling group of Chester Hale Girls each week.

The talking pictures, too, are of the best that the industry has to offer, including Nancy Carroll in "Honey;" Rod LaRocque in "The Locked Door;" Joan Crawford in "Montana Moon;" Harry Richman in "Puttin' On the Ritz," and a host of other worthwhile pictures.

Friday Openings To Benefit Patrons

In keeping with the policy of constantly improving the presentation of their stage and screen attractions, and to devote more time to working out more artistic lighting and mechanical effects with the stage shows, Loew's and United Artists' Penn Theater will change to a Friday opening policy tomorrow, whereby all the new shows will open at the Penn on Friday of each week.

This will also enable the popular playhouse to offer the movie fans the big pictures three days earlier than was possible on the former policy.

BATES PROUD OF PEG-LEG

"Peg-Leg" Bates, the ebony-hued dance dervish at Loew's Penn Theater starting tomorrow in "Venetian Carnival" is proud of his ability to triumph over a disability that would have spelled disaster to the average man.

But how he incurred his handicap Bates will not say. He would rather talk about the amazing way in which he has overcome the difficulty. Bates accomplishes on a wooden stump or a single leg what most dancers would find difficult to perform on both legs.

FASCINATING PLOTS, PLEASING COMEDIES IN PENN'S SPRING OPENING

Venetian Carnival Opens Spring Season at Penn

Gayety of Color, Beauty And Melody to Feature Program During 4 Weeks

Flowers that bloom in the Spring tra la . . .

And this Spring they bring with them Loew's Spring Carnival, four weeks of special shows, at Loew's and United Artist Penn theater starting tomorrow with a stage show that promises all the gayety of spring in color, beauty, melody and romance.

It is "Venetian Carnival" in which is featured Ted Claire as guest master of ceremonies along with Don Alphonza Zelaya that very entertaining pianist and a host of other Broadway stars including Tommy Atkins Sextette with Nell O'Day; Peg-Leg Bates, the one leg wonder; Katherine Lewis, operatic soprano; Nina Oginski, Russian balatina, and another group of the ever popular Chester Hale girls.

No personally conducted world tour could be more thoroughly enjoyable and colorful than "Venetian Carnival" promises to be. Teddy Claire, takes his musical troubadours to the banks of the Grand Canal of Venice and makes a grand night of it according to advance reports.

Don Alphonso Zelaya co-featured with Claire, is the son of a former Central American president and one of the foremost pianists of the Latin speaking race. Don is a noted wit, and intersperses his musical offerings with a constant flow of laughable comment. He is said to be the most unique concert pianist on he American stage.

Katherine Lewis, New York musical comedy singer, and Nina Oginska, formerly of the Russian ballet, share honors with the Tommy Atkins sextette of dancers. Their various numbers are given added splendor by the spectacular chorus numbers of the Chester Hale girls.

Harlem contributes to this melange of Old World gaity in the person of Peg-Leg Bates, one of the most sensational dancers to burst across the theatrical horizon this season. Bates performs prodigies of tap and acrobatic dancing with an ease and agility that brings him riotous applause.

Guest

TEDDY CLAIRE

Claire, guest master of ceremonies starting tomorrow at Penn Theater.

TRIES DANCING, TURNS SINGER

Having been born with a golden spoon in her mouth it is no wonder that Kathryn Lewis has a golden singing voice.

Few singers have had the advantages surrounding the songstress of "Venetian Carnival," stage presentation at Loew's Penn Theater beginning tomorow.

Most artists tell a tale of struggle against poverty, but Kathryn Lewis' greatest obstacle was the temptations of luxury and popularity. Her parents brought her from Rock Island, Ill., to New York to give her the advantages of finishing school in the Park Avenue style.

Her first artistic effort was toward dancing, and she was well on her way along the road that Pavlowa and Isadora Duncan were advancing when she made her great discovery. That discovery, of course, was her voice.

Concert Pianists Rear Heads In Clouds

With Paderewski as President of Poland, concert pianists need no longer be classed as dreamers, with their feet on earth and their heads in the clouds. The era of the musician-statesman has arrived.

And now comes Don Alfonso Zelaya, guest star of the "Venetian Carnival" stage presentation at Loew's Penn Theater starting tomorrow to carry along the new tradition.

EDDIE LEONARD HERE APRIL 11

Eddie Leonard, one of the most famous of all minstrel showmen, is coming to Pittsburgh soon and will be seen with the stage production "Southern Melodies," which comes to Loew's Penn Theater for the week starting Friday, April 11.

"Southern Melodies" is really more than a stage presentation. It is a genuine Broadway musical comedy revue, replete with plot, special lyrics, dazzling dance ensembles and gorgeous settings. It is a condensed edition of the Ziegfeld style of show.

Holding the romantic interest in the show is Bobby Gillette, who also doubles in his usual role of master of ceremonies. Berta Donn, of Broadway musical comedy fame, is the girl whom Bobby woos with song and wins by the skill of his irresistible banjo.

Chester Hale has laid the scene of this glamorous revue on a Southern plantation, and among his illustrious guests, he presents Cooper and Rodello, a pair of acrobatic clowns.

In addition to the splendid voice of Berta Donn, the program introduces the three Dennis Sisters. The Four Flash Devils add variety and speed to the program by their clever dancing.

With the Chester Hale Girls impersonating his accustomed minstrels, Eddie Leonard offers a revue of his celebrated songs and dances.

'LOCKED DOOR' HERE APRIL 11

The screen attraction at the Loew's and United Artists Penn Theater for the week beginning Friday, April 11, will be "The Locked Door" United Artists all-talking picture with Rod La Rocque, Barbara Stanwyck, William Boyd and Betty Bronson.

Under the direction of George Fitzmaurice, one of United Artists directors, the picture tells in an interesting and entertaining manner the heartaches and tragedies resulting from witholding even the most innocent item from the past, by a wife.

The stage attraction for the same week will be "Southern Melodies" starring Eddie Leonard, the famous minstrel, in person.

'HONEY' OPENS NEW REGIME

The first of the talking pictures and stage shows to be seen at Loew's Penn Theater on the Friday opening policy starting tomorrow, will be Nancy Carroll in Paramount talking-singing musical romance, "Honey," with Harry Green, Lillian Roth, Skeets Gallagher and Stanley Smith.

The stage attraction will be "Venetian Carnival," featuring Ted Claire as guest master of ceremonies; and Don Alphonza Zelaya, pianist, with a cast of musical comedy "names," including Kathryn Lewis, Nina Oginska, Tommy Atkins Sextette, with Nell O'Day, Peg-Leg Bates and the Chester Hale Girls.

Zelaya Revives Memories of Herbert

Had not the curtain descended so abruptly on Victor Herbert's own life drama he might have found the inspiration for another "Chocolate Soldier" in Don Alphonso Zelaya, knight-errant of the piano.

The Don is appearing as featured artist, starting tomorrow, at Loew's Penn Theater, in the "Venetian Carnival" stage presentation.

It would be a worthy reciprocation, for this colorful son of a deposed President of Nicaragua is attempting to sell Victor Herbert's music to the American public as an antidote for jazz.

NOTED DANCER IN CAST

Skeets Gallagher, the "fair-haired" boy of film comedy roles, is a member of the cast of "Honey," Nancy Carroll's second starring picture which comes to Loew's Penn tomorrow of this week.

Gallagher, a singing and dancing player from the musical comedy stage, has gained fame through his work in "Fast Company" and "Pointed Heels."

Brownsville Man Admitted to Bar

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., April 3.—Eugene Charles Sloan, Brownsville, was admitted to the Fayette County bar.

SIDNEY DIRECTS STAGE SHOWS

A section devoted to the "Loew's Spring Carnival" would not be complete without a word or two about the one most responsible for the beautiful stage shows that comes to Loew's and United Artists Penn Theater each week direct from the Capitol Theater, New York.

These gorgeous stage shows are produced under the personal supervision of Louis K. Sidney, who will be remembered for his pioneering in this style of entertainment when he was manager of Loew's Aldine in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Sidney is now at the head of the Loew's production department at the Capitol Theater, New York.

PATRONS KNOW GEOGRAPHY

Know your geopraphy, is Ted Clair's advice to his fellow masters of ceremonies. Ted is presiding over "Venetian Carnival," the gay stage presentation opening at Loew's Penn Theater tomorrow.

"Popularity on the stage is entirely sectional," says Teddy. "Reputation means nothing unless you can give each audience in each different city just what it wants.

"For instance, when I opened in "Venetian Carnival" at the Capitol Theater, New York, it was remembered that I had been featured as a dancer in the Winter Garden musical shows. So my part of the program ran chiefly to dancing.

"I have played in theaters all around the country, and everywhere I go they want something else."

Abandon Search For Melvin Horst

WOOSTER, O., April 3.—(AP.)—Search for the body of Melvin Horst, 4, Orville, in the Orville Country Club pond was abandoned yesterday. The latest hunt for the body of the boy, missing more than a year, had been based on information by Charles Hannah that the body was thrown in the pond.

Hannah and Earl Conold are held on charges of stealing and murdering the boy.

Zelaya Musician Also Monologist

Don Alphonso Zelaya, co-star of the stage show, "Venetian Nights," which has its premiere at the Penn Theatre tomorro, is a monologist in addition to his ability to produce music from the keyboards. Zelaya is reported to have lectured at many colleges and universities in the United States previous to his pre- con- cert tour.

Mark Hanna Tinge In Illinois Contest

CHICAGO, April 3.—(AP.)—Mark Hanna's Republicanism has returned to overshadow the fight for Senator Charles S. Deneen's toga.

The Senator's opponent in the Republican primary next Tuesday, Ruth Hanna McCormick, now congressman-at-large, said yesterday "Senator Deneen is quibbling over my party allegiance. It is amusing and rather far-fetched to question the Republicanism of Mark Hanna's daughter."

NANCY CARROLL 'HONEY' STAR

The second of the "Loew's Spring Carnival" attractions at Loew's Penn Theater for the week starting tomorrow will be Nancy Carroll in the musical romance "Honey" with Harry Green, Lillian Roth, Skeets Gallagher and Stanley Smith.

Ted Claire and Don Alphonzo Zelaya are featured in the stage attraction "Venetian Carnival."

HERO ASSUMES VILLAIN'S ROLE

Rod LaRocque, Barbara Stanwyck, William Boyd and Betty Bronson have the four featured roles in "The Locked Door," the all-talking United Artists picture booked to open at Loew's and United Artists Penn Theater for the week beginning Friday, April 11.

An interesting sidelight on the two principal male characters in "The Locked Dood" is that LaRocque deserts the ranks of screen heroes to play a "gentleman villian," while Boyd leaves stage villainy to assume the "hero" role.

The picture was directed by George Fitzmaurice and concerns the exciting adventure of a young wife found locked in the room with a former sweetheart dying from a pistol wound.

2 Brothers, Sister Die as Home Burns

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 3.—(INS.)—The charred remains of two brothers, John Gill, 60, and William Gill, 52, both of New York, today were in a Dover Plains undertaking parlor alongside of those of their maiden sister, Maria Gill, 55, for whom they gave their lives. Flames destroyed their home on Chestnut Ridge, and when the brothers sought to rescue their sister who was trapped in her room, all three were burned to death.

A PITTSBURGH INSTITUTION SINCE 1905

FOUR WEEKS OF CARNIVAL AT PENN THEATER

PENN PRESTIGE DUE TO BEAUTY

The prestige of Loew's and United Artists Penn Theater with Pittsburgh theatergoers is due to a great extent to its architectural beauty together with the high quality of entertainment offered on both stage and screen at the Penn.

The distinction of this theater is due to the skillful blending of qualities appealing to opposite tastes in such a manner that, paradoxical as it may seem, there is attained an effect of lavish sumptuousness in line, color and texture and at the same time a restfulness of atmosphere that makes for perfect relaxation and enjoyment.

DESIGN IS ITALIAN

The design of the auditorium space is in Italian spirit and the ornamentation has been minutely studied for space and harmonious proportion to the sides of the auditorium.

Special attention has been paid to the design and construction of the ventilation and air conditioning refrigeration system. By a complete system of ducts, fresh air is delivered to all parts of the auditorium and to each room and space. All the air is brought into the house through a washer.

The stage is equipped with every modern appliance. The stage lighting effects are of the most modern type, and there is a private elevator to the dressing rooms, which have showers for each floor.

VALUABLE ART

Art objects of great value and interest are placed at vantage points and hand-woven rugs adorn the public rooms. The drapes are red and gold, done in an imported damask, and hung in archways and at the organ screens.

The seats have been especially designed and are upholstered with a high grade imported material.

PRODUCTION'S HIGHLIGHTS

A musical romance with lots of comedy. It has the youth and pep and speed that made "Sweetie" such a smashing success—and of course it has the same romantic lovers of "sweetie," Miss Carroll and Stanley Smith.

It is based on the stage farce-comedy "Come Out of the Kitchen," which has been played by stock, high school and other dramatic groups all over the country. The fact that hundreds of thousands are familiar with the original stage success is a fact that helps to sell the musical film version.

Herman J. Mankiewicz, veteran Hollywood scenarist, adapted the play for the all-talking screen.

Wesley Ruggles is the director. He has made a number of comedies for the various Hollywood producers, and was also the director of RKO's "Street Girl" and of Samuel Goldwyn's "Condemned."

Nancy Carroll is one of the most popular feminine stars in filmdom today. Her fan mail is zooming up. Enthusiasts write that they like everything about her—her singing, dancing, clothes, beauty, voice.

David Bennett, dance director at Paramount's Hollywood studio, staged the dances in the Negro jubilee scene and in the Lillian Roth-Skeets Gallagher pantomime sequence.

"SING YOU SINNERS"—AND THEY DO!

LILLIAN ROTH AND CHORUS IN "SING YOU SINNERS" SCENE IN THE TALKING FILM "HONEY"

FIVE MELODIES IN HONEY

Each of the five songs featured in "Honey," the musical romance starring Nancy Carroll, which comes to the Penn Theater for one week, beginning tomorrow, was written by W. Franke Harling and Sam Coslow, members of Paramount's studio musical staff.

Harling is the composer of two American operas in jazz rhythm which caused a furore in musical circles in New York—"Deep River" and "The Light From St. Agnes." Sam Coslow is a member of the music publishing firm of Spier & Coslow. He has composed a great number of successful popular songs.

The leading song of the group in "Honey" is "In My Little Hope Chest." It is a love-theme classified as a "sweet" melody. Miss Carroll sings this song three times in the production.

The other numbers are sung and repeated several times—"Sing You Sinners," "I Don't Need Atmosphere to Fall in Love With You," "Let's Be Domestic," and "What Is This Power I Have?"

The comedy reprises of these songs are put over in uproarious fashion by Lillian Roth, Skeets Gallagher, Harry Green, ZaSu Pitts and Mitzi Green. Stanley Smith, who is Miss Carroll's leading man in the picture, sings "I Don't Need Atmosphere to Fall in Love With You," with Miss Carroll, and also sings "In My Little Hope Chest" with her.

"Honey" is based on the novel and play by Alice Duer Miller and A. E. Thomas. Known to theatergoers as "Come Out of the Kitchen," the stage production has been one of America's most popular comedies. With the addition of the Harling and Coslow music it makes a well-rounded all-talking film comedy-romance.

9-Year-Old Phenom To Feature Bill

Little Mitzi Green, 9-year-old film phenomenon, who made her debut in "The Marriage Playground" has an important supporting role in Nancy Carroll's exciting musical romance "Honey" which comes to the Penn tomorrow in conjunction with the stage presentation "Venetian Carnival" featuring Ted Claire and Zelaya.

Since his debut into the talking picture world, he has had important roles in "Fast Company" and "Pointed Heels."

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Head Up — Copperweld Steel Up

STOCK MARKET CLOSES WITH FIRM TONE

List in General Becomes More Stable in Last Hour; Earlier Losses Regained

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP.) — The stock market wavered for a time today under the influence of heavy selling inspired by the increase of nearly half a billion dollars in stock exchange member loans last month, but trading turned dull on the decline, and by early afternoon prices were headed upward again under the leadership of the amusement shares.

Scores of issues, including many of the recent leaders, sold down 2 to 10 points in the morning reaction, but many of these losses had been retrieved, at least in part, by early afternoon when gains of 1 to 8 points were scattered throughout the list.

Early selling received considerable impetus from the bearish advices of some of the large commission houses, one large firm urging the sale of all stocks acquired for trading purposes in the last six weeks. Others expressed the opinion that the technical reaction, which started late yesterday, might go much further. Meanwhile, pools struggled hard to maintain their advances, being aided in their operations by several favorable business developments.

STEELS WEAK

Despite the upturn in steel mill activity reported this week, weakness cropped out in several of the steel issues.

The Baldwin Locomotive Company reported that shipments in the first quarter of 1930 had trebled as compared with the same period of last year. Simmons Co. reported an increase of 12.3 per cent in March sales. S. W. Straus & Co. reported that building permits issued in March were 55 per cent above those of February.

Heavy buying of the amusement shares was based on reports of steadily expanding earnings of the leading producers and exhibitors of so-called talking pictures.

AUTO SALES GAIN

Recent spring weather is reported to have stimulated automobile sales.

Call money was in fair supply at the renewal rate of 4 per cent, with indications that the rate would be maintained. The Bank of England made no change in its 4½ per cent discount rate, but lower rates were announced by the central banks of Switzerland and India.

A rapid advance in various stocks late in the day seemed to indicate the presence of a distressed "short" interest. Radio rose to 60. The list in general was more stable in the last hour when some of the investment shares improved materially. American Telephone, which had been down to 256⅛, moved back to around 261. Fox film "A," Warner Bros. Pictures and Radio-Keith-Orpheum continued to surge upward. The closing tone was firm, sales approximated 4,100,000 shares.

Gas Consumption Takes Increase

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Government reports for the first two months of 1930 indicate a large increase in gasoline consumption compared with the early months of 1929. Volume entering into both domestic and export consumption has been considerably greater than had been expected in the trade.

Stock Exchange Loans Spurt In March

NEW YORK, April 3. — The New York Stock Exchange reports collateral loans to members at the close of business March 31 amounted to $4,656,302,339, an increase of $488,713,987 from February 28 when these loans amounted to $4,167,588,352. On March 31, 1929, loans to members totaled $6,804,457,408.

The high figure for exchange brokers loans to date is $8,549,383,979, established September 30, last, while the low of $2,767,400,514 was reported for May 31, 1926.

VULCAN DETINNING

In accordance with the amendment to the certificate of incorporation, filed in 1920 by the Vulcan Detinning Company, providing that both the preferred and preferred "A" stocks and the common and common "A" stocks constitute one class of preferred and common, respectively, and become interchangeable in 10 years, it was announced today that this change will become effective after June 15.

DEMAND FOR SILK

Despite the more or less unfavorable situations which faced the silk industry during the past year, a fairly stabilized condition was maintained as compared with other industries of similar magnitude, and it was favored with an increased demand for silk fabrics and knit goods, according to reports made at the annual meeting of the Silk Association of America.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 3.—The Curb market today worked irregularly lower in quieter trading today, as the bull crowd permitted the selling movement which swept the market late yesterday to spend itself. Losses were largely limited to a point or so, and several shares were inclined to rally at times.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Multi-Billionaire Country United States Is Now

By B. C. FORBES

THIS multi-billionaire country of ours is irrespressible. In the month just ended the market value of shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange increased 3 billion dollars. The gain since the first of the year has been 5¼ billions.

Think of that courageous comeback after a shrinkage in October-November of 15 billions.

IT is not so long ago that the United States was christened a "billion dollar country." It can now be called a multi-billionaire country.

An exaggeration you say? Well, let's see.

WE have one corporation, American Telephone & Telegraph, that has assets far exceeding 4 billions. Metropolitan Life has over 3 billions. U. S. Steel Corporation, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania System, Chase National Bank, National City Bank and the Guaranty Trust Company each has resources of 2 billions or more.

LAST year Metropolitan Life's sales topped 3½ billions; the Steel Corporation's totaled a billion-and-a-half. General Motors a billion-and-a-third. A. & P. Stores sold a billion dollars worth at retail last year, and Swift & Company have equaled that figure.

NEW securities issued here last year approximated 13 billions or more than a billion a month.

Dividends disbursed last year amounted to 4½ billions.

We paid incomes taxes totaling 2½ billions.

Our exports were 5¼ billions and our imports not far short of 4½ billions.

Stock sales on the New York Stock Exchange figured on a par value of $100, far outran 100 billion dollars. The net receipts of our farmers last year touched 10½ billions.

OUR national wealth is now estimated at 360 billions.

Our national income for last year is computed at 95 billions.

We have 110 billions of life insurance in force.

Our annual bank clearings reach astronomical figures.

Our investments abroad approximate 17 billions—we supplied others last year alone with more than 1 2-3 billions.

Our banking resources have reached 72 billions.

Our total savings have passed 28 billions.

WE have invested 25 billions in steam railroads — and pay not far from three billions in railway wages. Passengers using our railways travel over 30 billion miles annually.

Our electric plant and equipment is valued at 11 billions and gross revenue last year totaled two billions.

The United States uses about 100 billion kilowatt hours of electricity a year, more than a half-a-hundred billion cubic feet of manufactured gas and is producing nearly 2,000 billion cubic feet of natural gas a year.

CIGARET sales last year were close to 120 billions.

Experts figure 15 billion gallons of gasoline a year—our automobiles this year will travel in excess of 150 billion miles.

Raw sugar consumption is in the neighborhood of 13 billion pounds.

We produce three and one-half billion yards of cotton cloth, and the total value of our textile products approximates nine billion dollars.

We eat upwards of five billion pounds of meat and three billion pounds of pork.

PERHAPS most important of all at this moment, building construction planned this year reaches the inspiring sum of nine billion dollars.

Is it reasonable to suppose that this multi-billionaire country will long be kept down or keep itself down?

It may not rebound with the rapidity of mercurial Wall Street, but that it will keep on recovering at least at a moderate pace cannot be doubted.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 3.—The market for listless bonds idled today in one of the year's dullest sessions. Trading was quiet in all departments and price fluctuations for the most part were unimportant.

Better Industrial Gains Indicated by Steel Trade Reports.

USING the steel trade as a fair barometer of American industry generally, the second quarter of the year, upon which we have just entered, should witness better recovery than the first three months. The Iron Age reported a 3 per cent expansion in steel production this week, with the steel corporation at 83 per cent of capacity and the industry as a whole at 78 per cent. On Tuesday, Mr. Grace estimated the April operating rate of Bethlehem at 85 per cent of capacity. There has been a better demand for pipe from the oil and gas companies, large structures steel inquires, a more cheerful outlook in the automobile trade and a good inquiry for railroad steel. Seasonal expansion in industry should be reflected in the Agricultural Implements Industry, the Amusement, Chemical, Electrical Equipment, Machinery and Tools, Building and Utilities Activities, in most of which present conditions are good and the outlook favorable. Some improvement should also be noted.

The impressive earnings statement for 1929, which revealed record earnings equivalent to $6.65 per common share as compared with $5.58 in the previous year, brought an influx of buying of both investment and speculative character into International Harvester yesterday. Belief is general that commodity price situation has about struck bottom, and well-informed quarters are not hesitant in declaring the next swing of the bull advance will number this stock among the leaders.

SHIPMENTS by Baldwin Locomotive Works in the first quarter amounted to $6,733,000 compared with $2,234,000 in the like 1929 quarter, shipments in March totaled $2,066,000 against $978,000 in March 1929. Unfilled orders April 1 amounted to $22,137,000 against $16,689,000 on April 1, 1929. Number of men employed totaled 4,897 against 3,555. Baldwin is gradually expanding operations and April output will exceed March and, according to present schedule, May operations will be larger than this month's, reaching their peak some time during the summer.

In spite of the fact that March, 1929 included Easter trade, the business of Associated Dry Gods Corporation in March, 1930 showed a gain over last year in six out of eight stores of the system. This apparently foreshadows a year that should be more profitable than any the company has enjoyed for a long time, for it is the result of the nearly completed program of revamping both physical equipment and operating personel of the wholly-owned stores.

CURRENT operations of McKeesport Tin Plate Company are running well ahead of the first quarter of 1929 and present prospects point to continuation of the present rate of production. Net profit for the first two months of 1930 was $332,000 equal to $1.07 a share on 300,000 shares capital stock, against $22.00 in the same period of 1929. Shipments in the period were 200,000 boxes of tin plate in excess of the first two months of 1929. January shipments were 217,000 boxes of tin plate. February 321,000 boxes and the first two weeks of March 196,000 boxes or a total of 734,000 boxes for two and one-half months. Compared with 534,000 boxes in the same 1929 period.

Widespread reports that Underwood-Elliott-Fisher Company would show a recession in first quarter earnings as compared with the like period of the previous year, have made it one of the bear targets in recent sessions. Unbiased opinion, however, has pointed out on more than one occasion that the office equipment field will be among the industries least affected by subnormal business conditions. Earnings of more than $10 per share in 1929 places current quotations at an attractive price earnings ratio.

Standard Plate Glass Reports Loss

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

IN addition to reporting net loss of $443,802 after depreciation and interest in 1929, the Standard Plate Glass Company found it necessary to make further write-offs against plants and investments in affiliated companies. The loss shown from the year's operations compared with deficits of $490,374 in 1928 and $517,580 in 1927.

At the close of 1929 the company wrote off $1,237,809. This represented the loss on the liquidation of inventories, on the dismantling and sale of properties, on trade marks and trade names and on the sale of investments in affiliated companies.

In 1928 similar charges amounted to $2,200,844. As a result of these charges the profit and loss deficit of $462,977 at the end of 1927 was increased to $3,154,195 at the close of 1928 and to $4,835,807 at the end of 1929.

Low Prices Responsible

THE company has been suffering from low prices on plate glass prevailing since foreign competition became a serious menace to domestic producers in 1925. Changes in the market requirements for plate glass and new developments in manufacturing methods have given the company a series of difficult problems.

In an effort to meet changed competitive conditions, the Springdale plant was abandoned in 1928, necessitating a large share of the write offs. Last year changes were also made at the Butler plant which have resulted in operating economies and which have increased production at that point to an amount equal to the former output of the combined plants.

No Additional Sales Made

THE company is planning to dispose of some of its properties which are not essential to the production of plate glass. These include the site of the Springdale plant, natural gas properties at that point and some warehouse facilities.

Recently the company sold its paint business and its Youngstown warehouse. Other warehouses at Boston, Buffalo and Cincinnati were closed down and the inventories were liquidated. One of the reasons for the withdrawal from the operation of warehouses was the fact that losses were shown from these activities.

Note Extension

THE sale of properties not necessary for glass production is being carried out to meet the five-year 6 per cent notes which matured on March 1, 1930. The company was able to pay the interest due and 75 per cent of the principal of the $3,000,000 issue. An extension of six months was secured on the unpaid balance and officials hope to raise sufficient cash by the sale of additional assets to retire the balance of the obligation.

The balance sheet contained in the annual report for the year ended December 31, 1930, cannot be taken as an indication of the company's position at present since the sale of properties and the transactions relating to the payment of notes have taken place since that time.

ALUMINUM NET GAINS 25%

Aluminum Company of America reports consolidated net profit for the year ended December 31, 1929, of $24,128,509, after taxes, depreciation, depletion and adjustments. After deducting preferred dividends this was equivalent to $10.37 a share on the 1,472,625 shares of common stock of $5 par value.

In 1928 net profit was $19,279,464, or $7.06 a share on the common.

Arthur V. Davis, chairman of the board, in his remarks to stockholders, said:

"The net income increased 25 per cent over 1928, and the administrative charges, together with interest paid, were reduced 10 per cent as, compared with 1928.

"Although there was an increase in production in 1929 over 1928, your company shipped about 7 per cent more aluminum than it produced in its own reduction plants, it having purchased substantial quantities of scrap and ingot of other makes. The price of aluminum remained substantially unchanged during the year. Market conditions were steady throughout the first 10 months, after which a marked slackening of demand was experienced, which still continues."

A'S CATCHER 361 GAMES BELOW MARK

SOMEBODY is trying to take one of baseball's most remarkable records from Ray Schalk, former catching star, before he has come even close to losing it. That is the high mark for number of games caught in any major league. In 16 years of service with the White Sox, from 1912 to 1927, inclusive, the present Cub coach surpassed the achievements of all other backstops in history by appearing behind the bat in a total of 1,720 championship contests. In 11 consecutive years of that span he caught in more than 100 games per season, another performance without a parallel.

Wally Schang

Recently a story was sent out from the camp of the Athletics, and it has since been repeated in various newspapers, announcing the "discovery" that Schalk's record of 1,720 games caught had been broken last year by Wally Schang, now back with the Mackmen. A summing up of Schang's career, it was said, showed that Wally had worn the mask and pad in 1,765 big league games, and therefore had beaten Schalk's mark by the comfortable margin of 45 box scores.

SCHANG has done nothing of the sort, and is still miles from Schalk's record. Evidently the statisticians merely figured up the number of games played by Schang and took it for granted that he had caught in all of them. It is true that Wally has played in 1,765 major league tilts, but he has not caught that number by any means. In no fewer than 406 of those games he was used at third base, in the outfield or merely as a pinch-hitter.

When these 406 engagements are deducted, it will be found that Schang has caught in only 1,359 games. Instead of being 45 games ahead of Schalk's record, as claimed, therefore, he is still 361 games short of it, and would have to catch every game played by his club for the next two and one-third seasons to overtake the former star of the Pale Hose. As Schang will be 40 years old in August he isn't going to do much more catching, particularly on a club that has a backstop like Mickey Cochrane, so it is safe to surmise that Schalk's record will continue to stand for a long time to come.

AMONG all the heart-breaking pennant finishes that the big circuits have ever known, the real standout is the one of 1904 in the American League, in which Jack Chesbro, one-time Pirate flinger, then with the New York Highlanders, lost the flag by making a wild pitch on his final delivery in the ninth inning of the closing game of the season against the Boston Red Sox.

That finish was recalled to the Pirates a few days ago, when the Corsair players visited Lou Criger, former Cleveland, St. Louis and Boston catcher. In a fanning bee with Chic Fraser, Buccaneer scout, Criger related that he had scored the run that won the pennant for the Rex Sox on Chesbro's wild pitch.

Jack Chesbro

THE game that meant the championship to the winner, was played in Boston before a packed park on October 7, 1904, the closing day of the season. After a sensational pitching season, Chesbro had been saved for the all-important final contest, but the spitball that had made him the leading hurler of the year proved his undoing on this occasion. With the score tied, one out and Criger on third in the last half of the ninth inning, one of Chesbro's spitters went wild, shot past the catcher and enabled Criger to cross the plate with the winning run.

CHESBRO'S fatal fling that day marred an otherwise amazingly successful season for the first of the sport's great spitballers. He set a mark that still stands as the modern major league record by winning 41 games during the season. The highest modern mark reached in the National League was 37, by Christy Mathewson, of the Giants, in 1908.

Against his 41 victories, Chesbro lost only 12 games and turned in one tie, his percentage for the year being .774. He pitched one one-hit game, one of two hits, one of three hits, eight of four hits and six of five hits. Six of his wins were shutouts. He worked in a total of 54 games and was not once taken out.

CHARLEY HYATT, Pitt basketball star of the last three seasons and one of the greatest college players of all time, probably will make the professional jump and sign a contract with an American League club within the next day or two. In all likelihood, the Cleveland Rosenblums will be the club to get him.

Jimmy McLarnin

No other young college player has ever been so eagerly sought. Hyatt has received offers from the Ft. Wayne, Chicago and Rochester clubs as well as from Cleveland. It is expected that he will accept the Rosenblum proposal, as he must continue his studies at Pitt until next January and a Cleveland berth will enable him to play without breaking classes. J. J. Freund, Jr., who represents the Rosenblum in this section, and who sent Moon Kilnzing, Whitey Lytell and Pip Koehler to the American League, hopes to close the signing of Hyatt this week.

SOME fighters get full credit for a victory no matter how it is won, but it seems that Jimmy McLarnin has got to knock his man out or have his performance pronounced a disappointing one. McLarnin has been criticized because he failed to stop Young Jack Thompson in their New York bout the other night instead of merely winning the decision over him. That is unfair to both McLarnin and Thompson. In the first place, the thumb of McLarnin's right hand was broken in the opening round and he was forced to fight nine chapters with his chief weapon out of commission.

THAT fact alone would appear to entitle Jimmy to a world of credit for winning the decision under such a handicap, instead of being made the target of a lot of criticism. And on top of that, the caliber of McLarnin's opponent is being strangely overlooked. It is hard to understand where they get the idea that Thompson is anybody's push-over.

As a matter of fact, the Negro is one of the best fighters in the game and a man who ranks very close to the top of the welterweight division. He coasted and stalled part of the way in the McLarnin bout, but good judges say it was necessary for him to do that in order to make sure that he would not blow up. Who else has ever knocked Thompson out in his total of more than 250 fights? Nobody. So why should McLarnin be panned for failing to do it while fighting with one hand?

SPEAKING of Thompson, Harry Lenny, who helps to handle him, and who is a brother of Eddie Lenny, former Philadelphia boxer, insists that he is a dead ringer for the late Joe Gans. "Thompson is

BUCS FACE HOUSTON TODAY

NEW CASTLE, KANE ROLLERS OUT OF MONEY

CLEVELAND, April 3.—Youngstown entered the list of prize winners here last night when the Travis-Pemberton Sport Shop five hammered off a 2,845 total in the team event of the American Bowling Congress tournament. It was the only one of five Youngstown quintets to accomplish this.

The Sport Shops did not look good for anything in the way of cash in that first game as they shot only 839. They rose to 1008 and followed with a good 998.

Kane's team, the Arcade Cafe, likewise was off on the wrong foot in the opening game, as only 787 greeted the most strenuous efforts. It failed to rally and hit 890, then added a 910 for 2,587.

New Castle, represented by the Sol Recreation, hit a pair of 700 class games and wound up with an 890 to total 2,422, this figure being well outside the money.

LEADERS CHANGE

Second place in the singles and fourth and fifth places in the all-events represented the changes in standings.

The work of Harold Asplund, Denver youth, featured the activities, for, rolling in his first International tournament, he came through like a veteran with a 720 in the singles. This fine count brought his nine games total to 1,936 and placed him fourth.

He was ousted from this spot on the supper shift by Billy Mills, of Pontiac, Mich., as the result of a 1,942 total. Mills had 610 in his team event, 650 in his doubles and 682 in his singles.

Cleveland and Buffalo bowlers held the drives almost exclusively. Some 13 totals in the 1,200 class were rolled in the doubles dash, while in the singles there were 35 counts of 600 or better.

The Caruana brothers, of Buffalo, scored a 1219 in their doubles. In their singles Joe had a 621 and Frank a 645. Other top singles scores of the day were: W. Mills, Pontiac, 682; B. Wilson, Buffalo, 676, and C. Richard, of Buffalo, 653.

BUSH SUSPENDS CONNALLY

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 3.—(INS.)—Charging that he broke training, Manager Donie Bush today sent George (Sarge) Connally home.

In this, the first disciplinary action taken under Bush's new regime, Connally was told to stay away until he was willing to go to work. Scoring eight runs in the ninth, the Sox yesterday defeated the Fort Worth Cats, 9 to 3.

Glenna Collett Sets Team's Itinerary

PINEHURST, N. C., April 3.—(AP.)—Glenna Collett, National golf champion, who is leading a group of American women golfers abroad on April 22 for a series of matches with British women golfers, captained by Mollie Gourlay, yesterday announced the complete itinerary for the American invasion. The complete itinerary follows:

April 22.—Sail from New York on S. S. Berengaria.
May 1 to 4—Team matches at Sunningdale with English women.
May 5 to 12—To Liverpool for practice at Formby for British women's championship.
May 12 to 17—British women's championship at Formby.
May 18—At Glenn Eagles.
May 21 to 22—Invitation tournament at Glenn Eagles.
May 25—To Paris.
May 31—Sail for United States on S. S. Mauretania from Cherbourg.

Nick Altrock Says:

SOMEWHERE IN DIXIE, April 3.—Maybe you've noticed lots of my dispatches are dated "SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH" and I'll tell you why. Because we've been staying mostly in Chattanooga and it's too hard to spell, but hereafter I'll let you know the other town we play in unless we go to Schenectady.

Nick Altrock.

I see a scientist predicts you will soon be seeing ba'l games over the radio. From the gate receipts, that's the way they've been going to ball games in Boston and St. Louis for years. It may be a good idea, but I don't like the thought of calling a 0-to-0 game in the first half of the eleventh so the bedtime stories can go on.

TOMORROW—THE MAN WHO FEARED "FLU."

TRAYNOR HOME FOR AID

Facing a possible three to six weeks' absence from the diamond, but taking the sad news with a bit of optimism, Harold (Pie) Traynor, Corsair captain and star third baseman, arrived in Union Station last night after his transcontinental trip from the coast to consult with Dr. Stanley Smith, of the Physicians Building, local eye specialist, and to take treatments for his left eye, suffering from iritis.

Pie Traynor

Traynor said that specialists on the Pacific Coast had told him it would be from three to six weeks before his inflamed optic would be sufficiently improved for him to return to the diamond. While in Pittsburgh, he will be under the constant care of Dr. Smith, and he is confident that the local specialist will be able to erase the iritis. He hopes he will be recovered in time to join the Bucs in their opening game against Cincinnati.

Pie, showing a coat of California tan, hatless and wearing dark glasses, was generally optimistic over the prospects for the Pirates, but cast a bit of gloom with the information that Lloyd Waner, sensational hitter and fielder, recently reported he was feeling worse than he did before his operation here last winter for appendicitis. He said Lloyd's return to the game was doubtful.

Regarding his own trouble, Traynor is quoted with the following remarks:

"The doctor I consulted in 'Frisco and who recommended that I return home to go under the care of a specialist who can watch my case steadily, told me

Traynor Does Fadeout on Return

Lost, strayed or stolen—Pie Traynor!

The captain and third baseman of the Pirates, who arrived in Pittsburgh last night from California to undergo treatment for iritis, did a complete fadeout today.

Up to an early hour this afternoon, he had not yet visited or communicated with Pirate headquarters, nor had he appeared at the office of Dr. Stanley Smith, where he is slated for treatment. Scribes hot in pursuit of the missing star had plenty of time to cool their heels awaiting his appearance.

President Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pirates, seemed peeved as the minutes grew into hours and the great Pie still was among the missing.

ICE SERIES IS RESUMED

MONTREAL, April 3.—(AP.)—With high hopes of bringing the Stanley cup back to Canada after a two-year stay in the United States, Les Canadiens, Montreal's Flying Frenchmen, go into the second game of the series for the professional hockey championship trophy against the Boston Bruins at the Forum tonight.

The Canadiens gained a big margin in the three-game series by their 3-to-0 victory at Boston Tuesday and need to win only one more game to win the championship. If Boston should win tonight's game, the deciding contest will be played at Boston Saturday.

SEATTLE BARS PRIMO

SEATTLE, April 3.—Primo Carnera, the Italian heavyweight, will meet no set-ups here. The boxing commission has put up the bars on him.

CUBS TO LEAD BUCS—RUTH

By BABE RUTH

WACO, Tex., April 3.—Doping the teams in the two big leagues is getting to be a tougher proposition each year. Competition is so keen, and all the clubs are building up so rapidly that there's all the chances in the world to go wrong.

Babe Ruth

Personally, I think the National League is easier to figure this year than the American. Probably that's because I figure the Cubs to repeat rather handily this year. The way I size the thing up there isn't any club in the National League, with the possible exception of Pittsburgh, that is capable of making the Cubs battle for the honors. The Chicagoans still are a coming ball club. They started to develop two years ago and they're still on the upgrade. They look to be stronger and better this year than they were last season and, barring accidents, I look for them to run away with the pennant.

Pittsburgh should finish second. The Pirates have plenty of punch, they have speed and fielding finesse and they have pitching that stands up pretty well in a season of what looks like mediocre pitching. Jewel Ens, of course, is new at the managing business, and it's hard to tell just what he will do, but from all I can learn he's very popular with the players and he certainly knows his club from past experience. And those are the two most important things in managing a ball club.

REDS MOST IMPROVED

A lot of fans probably will laugh at my third-place selection,

Goose Goslin Signs Nat Contract

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 3.—(AP.)—After two months of long distance debate over terms, Goose Goslin, outfielder, yesterday signed his 1930 contract with Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Nationals.

The terms offered Goslin were a $10,000 straight salary and a bonus scale which would make it possible for him to draw all of the $16,000 which he received last year. The bonus plan was incorporated at Goslin's request.

HOUSTON, Tex., April 3.—The first-string Pirates—that is the able-bodied members of the regular squad—will challenge Joe Schultz's Buffs this afternoon at the pretty Houston ball park. The contest billed for today will be the first of four scraps here, with a side trip scheduled for Harlingen, Tex., tomorrow. At that distant town, a mixed Buccos squad will take on the Wichita club of the Western League, for the edification of the South Texas folks.

The big Pirate squad ran into hot weather yesterday as their first day's fortune in Texas. It was one of those humid days that makes one's clothes sticky, but the humidity did not prevent some beneficial sprouts on the part of the players.

Down at Beaumont the Pirates waged a victorious battle against the Beaumont club of this Class A circuit. The score was 8 to 6. Meantime, most of the regular pitchers and a few others indulged in an intensive workout at the Houston Park.

Skipper Ens today expressed himself as being pleased over the FLUNKS.

All the returns are in and at our school I find that we lost about eight football men of varsity caliber through flunks in the mid-year exams. It might have been a lot worse.

Knute Rockne.

These semester exams are more or less the bane of an athlete's life and countless football teams have been hurt by their results. Of course, an athlete who will not study is worthless, not only to the school and to the football team, but to himself. But I sometimes wonder how many of these mid-year flunks are a reflection on the teacher.

I remember away back when I was assistant in football to Jess Harper and an instructor in organic chemistry. I noticed that the professors with the most awe-inspiring reputations were those who flunked the greatest number. So at the semester examinations that year I marked the papers, and, meeting Harper in the athletic office, said: "Well, I have just flunked everyone in my chemistry classes except two." I stood there waiting for a compliment regarding the terrifically difficult course I must be putting on and what a great professor I must be to flunk so many. I received the shock of my life when Harper replied:

"Well, I am not surprised. How can the pupils learn anything when the teacher himself doesn't know much."

SPEARS HEADED FOR CALIFORNIA GRID JOB

PRICE LOSING FAVOR WITH ALUMNI

By JESS CARVER

Dr. Clarence Spears, the portly gridiron mentor who is slowly but surely working his way from one coast to another, having already made stops at Dartmouth, West Virginia and Minnesota, is a full house bet to become the next head coach at the University of California. The portly medico will run things at Oregon next year and the year after. He signed with the Pacific Coast Conference school shortly after the first of the year, putting his John Hancock on a two-year paper.

Doc. Spears

Here is the low down. Nibs Price is not overly popular at California. He stepped into a hot spot when he took over the coaching job there when the popular Andy Smith died, and no matter what he has accomplished since, he's still working under the shadow of Andy. Price is a good coach, but so strong was Smith intrenched, and so loved that the boys are still prone to set him above all others.

As a result, Price's row has been a hard one. Certain of the alumni, and a powerful group, too, would like to remove Price. When Doc Spears was on the Coast last year, for the Army-Stanford and Pitt-U. S. C. games he was sounded out on the proposition, and then, in a star chamber session a movement was begun to install Spears at Berkeley when Price's present contract runs out.

Spears' move to Oregon is taken by some to mean that Doc is all set to take the California job, and that he went to the Eugene school so as to be on the ground and familiar with the West Coast situation, set and ready to succeed Nibs and that within the next three years.

The Tipoff

The story credited to Josh Williams in this column Tuesday, you know, the one about Howard Jones and the Pitt players, was all wet, we are told. It was a good story, but Josh didn't figure in it. Must have been two other guys.

The New Kensington High School basket ball team, W. P. I. A. L. champion, will be honored tonight at a banquet. Dr. H. Carlson, Pitt's coach, will be one of the speakers.

Art Smith, Mountaineer track coach, is showing extra duty off on some of his varsity performers. He hasn't the wealth of material this year he has boasted in seasons past, and lacks specialists.

That benign, inclined-to-be portly gent you've seen stalking backstreets about the streets is none other than Jimmy Dunn, veteran fight manager of Cleveland.

Two members of Pitt's football squad, Regal and Collins, have acted as spectator partners at times for Tuffy Griffith and are close friends of the bouncy City heavyweight began, they say, can give Tuffy a fight merry go.

Benny Friedman, former Michigan all American quarterback star is to assist Hal Stevens with spring football at Yale next month.

the best Negro boxer since Gans," Lenny declares. "I thought I was looking at the Old Master again when I saw Jack fight McLarnin. I haven't seen such a display of ring science in years.

"What made it especially good was that both Thompson and McLarnin are counter fighters, yet each was clever enough to make the other lead. Thompson comes nearer to being a perfect boxer than any one else in the modern game."

Al Singer

MANY boxing fans wondered at the assurance with which New York promoters announced on Tuesday that Sammy Mandell, world lightweight champion, and Al Singer, Gotham challenger, would meet for the title in a 15-round bout at the Yankee Stadium on July 17. For Singer was matched to meet Ignacio Fernandez in New York tomorrow night. It was recalled that Fernandez had knocked Singer out in three rounds last May 17, the only time that trick ever was turned, and the possibility that the Filipino might do it again made it look like strange business to announce in advance the matching of Singer for a championship bout. The answer came yesterday in the announcement that one of Singer's hands had been injured and that he would be unable to meet Fernandez tomorrow, a bout between Jack Kid Berg and Joe Glick being substituted. It was a cinch that something was coming to protect that title match after it had been billed, and the only question was as to the form it would take. They happen very conveniently at times, these hand injuries.

progress shown by the various members of the hospital squad. Dick Bartell's bad ankle has responded to treatment in a satisfactory manner. It is felt that the shortfielder will be able to go to his post by Saturday.

SANKEY IN LINEUP

Ben Sankey was in Bartell's notch of the lineup yesterday. The clever Southerner acquitted himself creditably. He will continue to hold the role while Richard the Lionhearted is hors de combat.

Foy Frazier is another rookie who is making a good impression. The California kid came through with two hits in two times at bat in the Beaumont struggle. There surely is no dearth of capable outfielders on the club, with the Waner boys, Comorosky, Brickell, Flagstead, Mosolf, Cox and Frazier answering the daily roll call. As one of the veterans of the club remarked, "The Pirates won't need to worry about outfielders for many seasons to come."

Manager Ens today selected the players who will leave tonight for the Harlingen game. It seems that the Pittsburgh management promised the Harlingen people to send P. Waner, Pie Traynor and Dick Bartell to their town, but camp developments make it impossible for the two last named to appear. Brother Paul will be in the garden, assisted by Frazier and Flagstead.

O'CONNELL AT THIRD

In the emergency, John O'Connell, Verona catcher, has been drafted for thirdbase duty. Mosolf will be at first, Skube at second and Engle at short. Brame, Erickson, Lang and Sanders are the pitchers, with Bool and Stanage to bolster the receiving brigade.

The first contest with the Houston club will bring Larry French and Steve Swetonic to the center of the diamond as Pirate pitchers.

French was among those who worked out at the Houston park yesterday. The heat was so oppressive, several of the pitchers were almost overcome.

PHIL GOLDSTEIN AND ANDRUCCI OLD RIVALS

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

When Phil Goldstein and Andy Andrucci meet to toss leather at each other in the 10-round main bout in the Moose Temple tomorrow night, it will be their fourth ring battle. The first three were contests in the amateur ranks, all of which Phil won.

Phil Goldstein

The rivalry between the two local lightweights is a peculiar one. They were teammates on the Willow Club boxing squad and worked out with each other in the gymnasium. Both were featherweights and they outclassed the other competition in their division, generally winding up in the finals of any event in which they were entered. Only in the championship meets, however, did they fight it out for the laurels. This occurred twice in the Allegheny Mountain Association championships and once in a Greater Pittsburgh tourney.

Phil broke in as an amateur in December, 1922, two days before his sixteenth birthday, and Andrucci began boxing as a Simonpure about a year later. Phil became a professional four years ago, while Andy has made the leap only in the last year, but already has fought his way up to main bout estate. The rivalry between them has not burned itself out since their last meeting and both are anxious to cop the award in their first pro clash.

Goldstein, by the way, is having a hard time getting down to weight for tomorrow night's fuss. He returned recently from Miami, Fla., to resume training after a five months' layoff from ring activity and scaled 148 pounds. He has peeled off 10 pounds of excess weight, but is finding the going tough now. The last few pounds always are the hardest to get off. Yesterday, five rounds of boxing and two rounds of shadow-boxing, along with work on the bags, and plenty of perspiring, cut only one pound off his weight. He will have to make 136 pounds for Andrucci.

Between Rounds

Manny Seeman, of New York, former trainer of Benny Leonard, will come here with Archie Bell, Brooklyn bantamweight, for the latter's 10-round bout with Jackie Rodgers at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Luke Carney, local handler of boxers and a friend of Seeman, will help in the visitor's corner. Rodgers is working out daily in Flynn's gym with Manager Farfo and still is favoring his bad ankle.

Mickey Solomon and Young Sarber have been matched for the main bout at the Moose Temple Friday night of next week. Jackie Wilson, the middleweight, will appear in the semi-final.

The card was completed last night for the Moose show tomorrow night with the signing of Ray Ryan, of Detroit, and Al Payson, of the North Side, for the opening bout. Dominick Profio and Tommy Ward meet in a return bout in the semi-final and Jimmy Perry, of Allantic, O., hooks Mickey Hart, of New Kensington, in the second bout.

The benefit boxing show for the widow of Billy Hatch, who died following a bout at McKeesport last Thursday night, will be held in the Tube City ring on the night of April 17. Boxers will donate their services for a program of four-round bouts.

Matchmaker Jules Bach today completed the program for Motor Square Garden Monday night by signing Young Sequenza, of Bellevue, to take the place of Jackie Wilson, of the East End, against Jack Bentley, of Braddock, in the opening bout, and Harold Powers, of Youngstown, to box Georgie Bratsch, of the North Side, in the second bout. Mally Marin, of New York, and Young Rudy, of Charleroi, are the semi-finalists.

Johnny Roberts, of Huntington, W. Va., welterweight, boxes Nick Bastiano, of Baltimore, at the Chester (Pa.) Armory tonight. Benny Miller and Red Grange are in the semi-final and Al Tendler and Ray Godsby in one of the preliminaries.

Primo Carnera hooks Neil Cliby, Negro, at Los Angeles tonight. He will be after his fourteenth straight knockout victory in this battle. Eddie Mack boxes Gaston Charles, Jimmy Goodrich meets Eddie Murdock and Mickey Cohen engages Buster Brandon in 10-rounders in Denver. Frankie Parks boxes George Kren, Eddie Cerda opposes Al (Rube) Goldberg and is matched with Charley Belanger at Toronto, April 15.

Johnny Grosso and Phil Mercurio, New York heavyweights, box at Yonkers, N. Y., next Thursday night.

The Jim Maloney-Armand Emanuel return bout in Los Angeles has been set for April 29.

The next start of Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, following his battle with Tommy Freeman in Cleveland next Tuesday night, will be with Billy Light at Omaha, April 21.

Joe Dundee, former welterweight champion, and Bucky Lawless answer the gong against each other at Rochester, N. Y., April 14.

Petey Mack and Dominick Petrone box at the Olympia arena in New York next Saturday night.

Although injured, Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, hopes to be able to go through with a match with Tiger Joey Chine at Omaha, Friday night of next week.

Maurice Holtzer, who defeated Tommy Crawley, local lightweight, at Holyoke, Mass., last Monday night, who over-came Fuller, of Boston, there next Monday night with Earl Doppelte and Lew Farber providing the semi-final.

Benny Goldstein, Baltimore's new featherweight hope, boxes Charley Frost, the French lad, in Baltimore, April 14.

BAKER TO BOX HAMBRIGHT

Sergt. Sammy Baker, of New York, and Vincent Hambright, of Cincinnati, two hard-hitting welterweights, will box the main bout of 10 rounds at Motor Square Garden one week from next Monday night. It was announced today by Jules Beck.

Both Baker and Hambright have won their spurs in local bouts and are favorites with the fans. Hambright has fought a draw with Tom Malco here and beaten Jimmy Belmont, while Baker in recent months has defeated Joe Trippe, of Rochester, N. Y., twice in bouts at Motor Square Garden, two of the best battles staged here in years.

The Season Round for ROADMASTERS

Those who purchased Roadmasters last Fall have enjoyed the safety and protection of these wall-treaded tires through the long winter months. And still the tread of Roadmasters stands them in good stead. They are assured of many, many miles of carefree vacation motoring during the summer months. And still, they may look forward to safe driving next winter on these same Roadmasters. It's the tough carcass of the Custom Built Roadmaster that hides the secret of its success and longevity. SOHO REAL CENTRAL LEAGUE CONTENDER

PILOT HORNYAK HAS STRONG AGGREGATION

By TOM BIRKS.

Another keen contender looms for the Pittsburgh Central League title in the Soho Board of Trade aggregation, led by Johnny Hornyak. Manager Hornyak has announced his roster for this season, and much high class material will be wearing Soho suits this season.

Soho started great last season, and won six in a row until it was defeated by W. O. W. by a single run. The backers of the Moultrie Park aggregation felt that had the breaks gone to Hornyak and his team that evening the first half championship would have landed in Forbes street.

The Soho infield will flash some new faces this season. Jimmy O'Toole will start at first base, with Lawrence Boyle playing the keystone sack. Adam Quido will roam the shortfield, and Mike Moore again will cover the hot corner.

TEAM IS SET

Lefty Cannare, Mervin Kenny and Hornyak will start in the outfield, and a number of promising newcomers are out for these positions as well. Dyer and Kudraw will handle the catchers' duties in the league games. Bailey, Pat Griffen, Eddie King and Dick Ridge will bear the brunt of the pitching, while Callahan, former City League star, also may be on hand.

This should make a crackerjack combination for the Central League, and many boys playing around the sandlots in Oakland, Soho and the Hill district are asking Hornyak for a chance to show their stuff in the loop. In addition to league games, Soho will book an extensive independent schedule, and as soon as the league card is announced Hornyak will complete his slate. Three games a week are to be played at home.

The City League held its meeting last night, and it was a stormy session. An arbitration board, including Harry Yerx, Dan Dougherty, Ralph Davis, Julius Levine and Henry Blum, was named. West Penn umpires were selected to work the games. Ray Kennedy, of St. John's club, was deposed of voting power; a new manager is expected to take his place.

DOBER TO GO OUT

Vic Dober, of Homestead, will report to the Chambersburg Club, of the Blue Ridge League, for a tryout by Manager Leo Mackey. Dober was a star center in the County Basketball League during the season just closed, while Mackey is a leading local basketball referee as well as a baseball catcher. The Chambersburg club is a farm of the New York Yankees. Dober pitches and plays first base, and is a good hitter.

BURKE LAUDS NEW LINKS

By VERN SWARTSFACER

John Jay Burke, city office manager of the Allegheny County Parks, and former U. S. G. A. public links executive committeeman, in his address before the Pittsburgh Typothetae yesterday, lauded the recreational facilities being provided for in the new North and South Parks, and declared the golf courses, particularly, would be of exceptional consequence.

Regarding the two courses, Burke said, in part:

"I am not authorized to speak for the Commissioners of Allegheny County, who will establish rules and regulations as well as the fees that will govern players on the new county golf courses, but my theory is that the fee will be around $10 with an additional charge for the use of locker.

CHAMPIONSHIP TESTS

"There is one thing, that I can assure you of, and that is that two of the finest public golf courses in the United States will be placed at the disposal of the people of this county not later than 1931. These courses, of championship length and caliber, have been constructed in accordance with the most up-to-date requirements.

"Visibility from tee to green I regard as the most important feature of modern public golf course construction. This has been met in both the North and South County parks in a manner that will not only insure visibility, but in bringing about this result the Director of Parks, Paul B. Riis, has at the same time insured a panoramic landscape effect that is refreshing to the eye. Aside from this feature the two courses will be characterized by fairway traps and by a double set of trees, grass 40 by 40 feet and clay 10 by 20 feet.

SPLENDID GREENS

"In addition to this you will be approaching greens of approximately 10,000 square feet of varied design as to outline, undulations on the surface, trapped and bunkered. When it is realized that the average green at Oakmont is about 6,000 or 7,000 square feet of surface, you can best appreciate the beautiful greens in North and South parks.

"Both courses have been underlaid with a water system that will insure proper care not only of the greens, but the grass tees as well, and drinking fountains at every third tee.

"With the opening of the county courses a new emphasis, so sadly needed in this district will be given to golf activities, and it is my hope and prediction that the Western Pennsylvania district will once more resume its important position in the golfing world."

P. & L. E. FIVE OUT TO CLINCH C.-I. TITLE

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad basketball team will be out to clinch the championship of the Commercial-Industrial League tonight when it meets the Real Estate Savings and Trust quintet in the second game of the playoff series at the South Side Market House. The Railroaders copped the decision in the first game, played Tuesday night, and another victory tonight will settle the issue.

The Bankers will be forced to take the floor tonight with a crippled lineup owing to the loss of two of their star performers, Chipley, star forward of the team, and Richards, who jumps center, will be unable to take part in the second fray tonight owing to injuries and illness.

The main contest will be preceded by a high-class preliminary game between the Trinity Tritans and the Trinity Trimmers, two Trinity Cathedral quintets under the coaching of Vern Swartsfager. These youngsters made a decided hit with the fans Tuesday night. Leo Mackey will handle the main attraction, slated to get under way at 9:30.

The championship of the South Side Cahtolic Lyceum League will be up for decision at Duquesne University tomorrow night when St. John's and St. Joseph's clash in the third and final battle of their post-season series. These two teams have been keen rivals all season and they usually display their best basketball when opposed to each other. The game tomorrow night should prove a thriller from start to finish. St. John's won the first game and St. Joseph's evened the count by winning the second. Pheparations have been made to handle a large crowd.

PENN FIVE COPS

The Penn Five, of Sharpsburg, captured the West Penn League championship by winning the third and deciding game last night from the Ray Schneider Club, 22 to 13, in the Duke gym.

Mayor Charles H. Kline, Supt. of Police Peter Walsh and many of North Side political colleagues of the Mayor and the North Side aldermen were in attendance. The Mayor tossed out the first ball amid a great round of cheers.

Immediately after last night's game plans were laid to have the Penn Five meet Charley Hyatt's five on the same floor Saturday night. The lineup:

AL McBRIDE,
Schenley Park.

One of the few real Pittsburgh home-bred golf professionals is Al McBride, popular instructor at the Schenley Park municipal links. When Al was 6 years old — just 26 years ago—he hit his first ball on the links of the Pittsburgh Golf Club, the same course that was changed into the city-owned public links in 1909. Al worked first in the shop of his late brother, Bill McBride, who was Schenley's professional before he became too ill to work. Al was continued in his place, and he's been there since. During his earlier days in golf, Al received instructions from Jock Hutchison and Davey Robertson, national lights, who were professionals at the Pittsburgh Golf Club. The city has found his work so satisfactory that recently it gave him a substantial increase in salary. Among district golfers Al has a myriad of friends.

RUTH PREDICTS PIRATES WILL TRAIL CUBS

but I think I'm pretty close. I pick the Cincinnati Reds to finish third—and at the same time I want to say that I consider them the most improved club in the league. Added punch, plus the managerial genius of Dan Howley, are the two things I count on to put the Reds up there in the pennant fight. When you come to analyze the teams, Cincinnati has a mighty good infield, a good hitting outfield and pitching that rates about as well as any club in the league except the Cubs.

But the big thing is Dan Howley. I've known Dan a long time and I consider him a genius at managing players. I don't know any other man in baseball who can get more out of his players. You'll see the Reds in there battling for every game this year, and you'll see some of those fellows under Howley's inspiration, playing better ball than they ever played.

Finishing up the first division should be the Giants—not as strong this year as last in one way, but stronger in spirit and in punch. I don't think Mac has a great team—but he has one that can battle to a first-division berth, just ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals, who ought to finish fifth.

In sixth place we should see the Phils—and there's a chance that they might even make it fifth or fourth. Bert Shotten has a good club—and given some real pitching he would be a contender. But he hasn't got the pitching, and in this modern game of baseball you've got to have pitching to win.

I pick Brooklyn for seventh place—not because they are weak, but because the other clubs are stronger. A lot of fans will disagree with me on this one, and let me say here and now I hope I'm wrong. There's no one I'd rather see finish up there well than Uncle Robbie. But this year he hasn't the pitching he had last year even, and the club has weak spots afield and at bat. The return of Glenn Wright to shortstop will help them a lot. When he's right Glenn is one of the best in the business, and Robbie tells me that this year he has been going great guns. But even so I can't see how Robbie can do much better than seventh, for he has too much competition from the other clubs. His best hope is that the Giants or Cardinals break. The others are too strong.

And in last place the Boston Braves. Try as he will, Bill McKechnie can't seem to find players who can fill the bill. He has improved this year over last. His infield is better and Berger and Moore and Billy Rhiel have given him a punch that the club didn't have last season.

Bowie is where they race horses, not where they make knives for Indian fighters .... Editor, who had to retract an editorial stating that half the members of his City Council were crooks, countered with good grace in this fashion: "Half the City Council are not crooks" .... Clever .... Oh, for a return to the good old days of five-cent shaves and 10-cent haircuts .... And who was it that said what they need in Scotland is a good five-cent BOX of cigars? .... Billy Shaw, the Detroit featherweight, who recently spent more than a week here and plans to return for a bout with Johnny Dunn after his meeting with Bushy Graham at Cincinnati next Tuesday night, boasts quite a record .... Among those he has boxed are Fidel LaBarba, Bud Taylor, Earl Mastro, Cecil Payne, Corp. Izzy Schwarz, Pete Zivic, Eddie Shea, Al Brown, Benny Gershe, California Joe Lynch, Harry Forbes, Soldier Dombrowski and Ray Rychell .... He's a Canuck, his native heath being Hamilton, Ont., but he has been making his home in Detroit for a few years .... He holds the Michigan featherweight title belt, which entitles him to a third of the house every time he defends it .... Confidential advices are that Battling Battalino, the featherweight champion, will make his bow in these parts within the next few months against an opponent to be selected in a bout over the class limit of 126 pounds .... Many Pittsburghers will take in the Jackie Fields-Tommy Freeman bout in Cleveland next Tuesday night, already having made their reservations, in view of the fact that it looks like a sellout .... Cecil Payne and Tracey Cox, two of the second-stringers, are reputed to be among the hardest hitters in the featherweight ranks .... Twain Mark, the Fresno (Cal.) welterweight, who lost to Eddie Dempsey in New York Tuesday night, is said to be a replica of Ad Wolgast, the old lightweight champion, in looks and action .... He comes from French-Dutch parents and is 21 years old .... Ralph Ficucello (what a name to wrap your tongue around), now fighting professionally around New York, is the former national amateur heavyweight champion, having been so named when Buddy Howard defaulted after a dispute with the A. A. U. officials last year .... Two real title bouts have just been closed within as many days, the Jack Sharkey-Max Schmeling heavyweight affair under the auspices of Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's Milk Fund, on June 12, and Sammy Mandell's defense of his lightweight crown against Al Singer, July 17 .... Both will be staged at the Yankee Stadium, New York, and each is a "natural" that will draw plenty of kopecs.—HARRY KECK.

LINSLEY QUINT REACHES THIRD ROUND

CONSOLATION

Minneapolis ... 39—Waterloo, N. Y. ... 34

CHICAGO, April 3.—(AP.)—Braselton, Ga., wedged into the quarter-final round of the National prep basketball championship today by defeating Kavanaugh, of Lawrenceburg, Ky., 26 to 26, in an overtime battle. The Georgians were behind 10 points at the half, but made a stirring rally.

St. John's Military Academy, of Delafield, Wis., delivered a stunning upset in the second game of the third round, eliminating the favored Denton, Texas, team, 23 to 21, and earning the right to meet Braselton, Ga., in the quarter-finals. The Broncos, champions of Texas, were heavy favorites in the tournament.

St. John's Military Academy Delafield, Wis., 22; Denton, Tex., 21.

Linsley Institute, of Wheeling, W. Va., yesterday grabbed a place in the third round after a bitterly fought battle with Spartanburg, S. C., High, winning, 23 to 22.

The Linsley five led by 9-to-6 at the close of the first period, but the Spartans finished the half with a 13-to-11 margin. Spartanburg held its two-point lead until near the close of the third quarter, when the Cadets pulled away to a 20-to-18 lead. Spartanburg moved to within one point of the Cadets with one minute to go, but Capt. Moore dribbled the length of the floor for a field goal and the winning margin. The lineup:

Linsley—23.		Spartanburg—22.
Moore	F	Ehe
Lathe	F	Nast
Bauman	G	Ferguson
Combs	G	Baker
Hayhurst	G	Ferry

Field goals—Moore, Lathe 4, Bauman 4, Allen 1, Nash, Ferguson 3, Baker 2. Foul goals—Linsley 3, Spartanburg 2.

BULLETIN.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 3.—(AP.)—Continued rain caused tournament officials at one o'clock this afternoon to make a second postponement of semi-final play in the North and South women's golf tournament. Officials said play would begin late this afternoon.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 3.—(AP.)—Playing a steady and exact game, Edith Quier youthful Reading, Pa., entry, stroked her way to the semi-finals of the North and South golf tournament for women yesterday by downing Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago. The margin was 4 and 2.

Other favorites in the quarter-finals came through. Glenna Collett, National champion, beating Mrs. Leo Federman, New York; Maureen Orcutt, New York, downing Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, and Helen Hicks, of Hewlett, L. I., defeating Louise Fordyce, of Youngstown, O.

Miss Orcutt is paired with her rival of many tournaments, Miss Collett, while in the other bracket, Miss Hicks and Miss Quier battle in today's matches.

that it would take from three to six weeks before my eye would be O. K. again. I am hoping, however, that I will be ready for opening day. My general condition is fine and as soon as the eye trouble clears up I'll be ready to go.

"The first intimation I had that there was something wrong came during the winter when occasionally I felt a twitching and slight pain. I paid no attention to it, however, figuring it would pass off. Then after a time in Paso Robles I took the salt water baths and I don't think they did it any good. At least after I had taken a couple of salt baths my eye became inflamed. I can't see much out of it now, at all. I'm not worried, though, because I know it will come around under treatment."

HARVARD BOOKS PENN STATE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 3.—(AP.)—Harvard will resume football relations with Brown and Penn State in 1932, William J. Bingham, director of athletics, said, when he announced the almost completed Crimson gridiron schedule for that year.

The Bruins, who have had a place on the Harvard schedule 31 times since 1893, last played against a Crimson eleven in 1927 and Penn State has not visited the stadium since 1921, when the Nittany Lions and Harvard battled through to a sensational 21-21 tie.

The scheduling of Penn State appeared to mean the end of Harvard's football relations with Mid-Western elevens.

CHICKIE

Chickie Is Brokenhearted When Barry Leaves

CHAPTER L.

IN a stillness that murmured sadly, like a faint wind blowing from the heart of pain, she listened. His words were balm on the raw anguish of her thoughts. Because of a hunger to hear them again she whispered softly, "Do you, Barry? Oh, really? More than ever?"

"Can you doubt it? How can you? Chickie, you're the only thing in the world."

Tears ached at her throat: she kept her head down. It seemed so strange that they two should stand here in the sun—a part of the glad, shining morning. The light fell in a bright shower through the pines, touching with gay polish the tender green of the leaves. A bluejay, with feathers spread, poised arrogantly on one leg, its wings bluer than jewel.

And all this seemed so bonny, so like a tune flung out in joy. It was so far away from her, as though she stood on that gray waste that she had seen in a dream—as though she stood there and listened to the vast, forlorn voice of rising waters. And she must stand there always—that or a hush more dismal in her ears.

He took her hand, but she wouldn't raise her head and meet his glance. "Barry—don't—oh, let me go."

"You can't go—why are you crying so? You're sorry, are you? You'd like to take it back?

She drew in her lips, fighting to keep them still.

He pleaded. "Won't you look at me, Chickie? Do you want me to go away now? Listen, why so sad?"

The ruddy color was floating now in his vital, impetuous face. He smiled, watching her. It was more than she could bear. She said faintly: "You're happy? Oh—you seem glad—"

"Don't you want that, Chickie? Why not? You love me—I know it. You will love me—"

Would Like to Die

"You think it's all right, then?" And seeing the smile deepen and a swift assent on his lips, a moan shook through her: "Oh, did you want this? I never dreamed—why, you don't seem sorry! And all night long I wanted to die. I don't know, but this morning when Jonathan came and stood at my bed—oh, I'd like to die now—"

The blood sank from her face; he dropped her hands, flung along the trail, leaned against a tree. His back was turned, but he had a sagged look as though his muscles snapped suddenly.

He said, "Oh, what's the use, then, Chickie? You've said it. I guess that's how you feel."

She didn't wish to cry, but tears came so easily. They poured down her cheeks. She hid the sight from him.

He drew her then: "Oh, Chickie, this is awful! I don't know what to do. I thought you loved me—"

She pressed her face against him. "Don't I? Why, more than my own life—how much more—oh—"

"But if you want to die—that's awful." He said this over clasping his hands on her shoulder, and then he began to comfort her. They loved each other—they couldn't help it—and what of it—when he'd get back it would be settled—not so long.

She wanted to smile—oh, just to please him. But her lips twisted and her chin—always like that—doubled so. She said: "Yes—yes—but, why—oh, I never dreamed. We could have waited—"

Chickie Unhappy

"Yes—we could have. We didn't!" He rubbed her fingers as though he were working a tight glove over them. His breath heaved. "It's done now. I never meant to—oh, honestly! When I got into that boat . . . Listen, but now you'll blame me—oh, you'll think I planned it—came back for that—"

Working at her fingers, biting his lips: "Will you? You think that?" Suddenly he flung his arm about her, pressed his head against her shoulder, sobbing like a boy.

She reached her hand to his face: "No—I don't think that—oh, I blame myself—It seems so strange—"

Sitting there like that reminded her of the Sundays when they had driven down the highway to their hill above the ocean and she had felt the first tremendous joy when he caught her in his arms and kissed her.

Her eyes blinked. She wiped them. He began to plead. "You think I've hurt you, Chickie? Do you?"

She wouldn't answer, but stole her hand in his. He went on with broken, impulsive fierceness, now beseeching, now defending. "It's my fault—if you want to call it that. But I went away to avoid this. You know—being with you so much—all day, and on the water here—oh, well—

"But even so, Chickie, I can't see why you should seem so broken? Why we should be going back and trying to undo it now. It swept us. That's all there's to it. And what's so wrong about it? That's all because the world says so. You let it crush you. In your heart you can't feel that it's that wrong—can you? Won't you say anything?"

"I don't know what it is. I only know it's so—"

"But you loved me then—didn't you?"

"Oh, don't—too much—"

"But you don't now—"

"Yes—always—I can't take that—"

"And still you're going to cry about it. When I'm gone you'll think hard things of me. Right now you'd give your life to undo it, would you?"

"Oh, yes!"

Hates to Leave Her

He leaned mute and worn against the bank. Then he said quietly: "I don't look at it so, Chickie, when I met you on the path last night, I had no thought of this. After we got into the boat and drifted down there in the dark I don't know what wildness drove me. But alone there and you so near and loving you all these months—oh, well—you know all that. But I wouldn't undo it—no—not a moment. Only that you feel so. I can't stand that—"

She said with a pitiful smile: "You want me to be glad, then? You think I should?"

"What do you mean by that, Chickie? Well, I do think it! That's what I think. Why should we let the blind thoughts of others put a stain on a thing that was strong and swept us so—well—me anyway— It's a kind of suicide to deny it. If we didn't love—but we do. I can't see why a few months should make such a difference."

"But are we sure, Barry? Once you said that feelings change. Suppose now—oh—"

He caught her elbows: "No, Chickie—don't say it. Don't think it. We only have an hour or so. Then I have to go. It's terrible to leave you like this!"

"Barry—just tell me—you're sure you love me? You won't change—"

"I love you—why should I be the one to change?"

Barry Leaves

She winked her eyes that were so gray, but all misted now. She twined her hand in his. "Do you, Barry? But only say it if it's so."

"It's so! Oh, come—I feel as though I killed you."

"It will be terrible alone, Barry. And Jonathan looking at me. I don't know how I'll stand that—"

"Well, Chickie, you won't stand it if you begin to think we did some crime—oh, you shame it all—"

"Oh, no—no—you'll write to me? Every day? You won't be long?"

Then he went over his plans; then he said how the time would drag; how he'd have her always in his thought; how he'd like to take her with him—

He took her face in his hands, smoothed back her hair, staring into her eyes. He said: "You're beautiful. I love you. More than ever, Chickie—do you want me to kiss you?"

"Barry!" Crying again—she wished she could lose herself in this love of his—oh, let it wrap about her—shut her from her thoughts. She held to him.

He put his cheek on hers as he had that first night when they drove to the beach. How its touch, so warm and firm, had flushed her heart with startled joy!

He kissed her lips and the gentleness pierced her so that she trembled. He murmured against them: "Then love me, Chickie. Don't blame me so. It won't be long. Oh, soon—"

Like that, again and again.

Then he was gone. Echoes of his steps crunching the leaves—echoes of his steps falling on her heart.

Fay King Sings the Praise of the 'Little Woman' in Background

By FAY KING

IF YOU were to see a snapshot of some of these well-dressed married men you admire, taken before they wed, you would appreciate what their wives have done for them.

In back of these married men who are so well groomed and mannered, is "the little woman" who cares for and trains them into all this trim charm.

It is her good taste in shirts and socks and monogramed handkerchiefs you admire.

She sees that his suits are sent out regularly to be cleaned and pressed. She suggests the smart shades and snappy overcoat.

She denies herself many things because she realizes how important it is that he make a good appearance in the business world.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Mother Graham's Theory Is Strengthened

MY MOTHER-IN-LAW'S figure was amusingly vibrant with importance and authority as she led the way down the hall to the room which had been Marion's when she was at the farm and which had been invaded the night before by the mysterious marauders.

"There!" she said dramatically as she threw open the door. "What do you think of this?"

I gasped with grieved astonishment for the room, with its pretty chintz furnishings, was a wreck.

"Don't tell me," my mother-in-law said grimly, "that those fellows weren't after some particular thing, some paper of Mr. Underwood's."

"This surely bears out that theory," I said, and indeed there seemed no other plausible conclusion.

"Of course it does." Mother Graham said, "and that's what I told your father."

"What does he think of it?" I asked in an effort to appear interested in our colloquy.

"Does anybody ever know what your father thinks?" my mother-in-law retorted. "What he did when I told him was to bow and say 'That's a most ingenious theory and one worthy of serious consideration.' But what he really thinks—well! Maybe you can find out, but there's nobody else who can. I don't think you'll be able to talk to him for awhile, though."

"Why?" I asked in quick alarm.

"Didn't Mrs. Bickett tell you? But no, I heard him make her promise she wouldn't say a word. He didn't see me though, so I was not bound and you really ought to know, I think."

"But if it's something he doesn't want me to know, perhaps—"

"Fiddlesticks!" she interrupted imperiously. "I fancy I'm as good a judge as your father and Mrs. Bickett as to what you ought to know. It's only that he didn't want to worry you."

I dug my fingers into my palms to keep from screaming out at her, then remembered that Katherine had greeted me with the words: "Nobody hurt, nobody sick." I was sure that my little kinswoman would not have given me that assurance had there been anything serious the matter with my father.

"It isn't anything very bad," my mother-in-law went on. "It's only that when that man fired at the pistol in your father's hand and knocked it to the floor, the jolt of it bruised your father's hand quite painfully. That and the excitement brought on one of his headaches, so this morning when he couldn't get to sleep any other way, Mrs. Bickett gave him an opiate. He'll wake up and be all right by lunch time, I'm sure. And that reminds me, I'd better go down and straighten out that ape of a Katie. She's been having hysterics off and on ever since last night. Of course, in a way, you cannot blame her. Those fools of policemen accused her and Jim of being in on the job. But though there is a lot of tricks I wouldn't put past her, she's loyal enough, and it's natural she should be wrought up over it. But enough's enough, and I'm going to go down and jerk some of the nonsense out of her. I don't suppose she's even thought of lunch."

My mental barometer fell rapidly. Full well I knew what effect one of my mother-in-law's disciplinary sessions would have upon my emotional little maid. Yet I knew that nothing would so offend my husband's mother as for me to suggest that she keep away from Katie.

Necessity sharpened my wits. There was one sure way of diverting my mother-in-law's attention, and I took it.

"Mother, dear," I said, "can't Katie wait a little? It's hours to lunch time, and I do so need your advice upon something that is troubling me. Couldn't you give me a little time before you tackle Katie?"

"Why, yes; I suppose so," she said with feigned reluctance but real eagerness, for never was woman more fond of giving advice than is my mother-in-law. "Come into my room," she added. "We can talk better there. Mrs. Bickett will come in to look after Richard Second."

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Domestic Comedy

ALWAYS give a man plenty of rope; but never let him forget that you have a firm grasp on the other end of it.

a woman the key to his heart, he always wants her to leave the door open.

A man may promise to share all his joys and sorrows with you, but that doesn't necessarily include the morning newspaper, the reading lamp, his golf and his pet razor blade.

Freezing discouragement never frightened a man so much as that "Yes-yes-go-on" look that lights up a girl's eyes when he begins babbling things that he doesn't half mean.

A woman may have the sweetest disposition in the world, and yet be unable to stifle the little glow of satisfaction she feels when she hears that an old flame has "married unhappily."

This is the time of year when a girl stops trying to look warm and radiant in a backless evening gown, and begins trying to look cool and sweet in a knitted wool sweater.

Some husbands are like some family jewels—we don't know what to do with them; but we'd hate to lose them; so we just hang onto them, not so much for their intrinsic value as because of the sentiment we once felt for them.

* * *

Every woman knows intuitively when she has passed that psychological moment in a love affair, when a man should have signed on the dotted line—and didn't.

It may be hard to make a success of marriage these days, but that's a sinecure, beside making a permanent joy of single blessedness.

There are dull gray mornings in every love-nest, when each of you bottles up your grouch and dares the other to come along with a corkscrew.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Helping the Sightless Child

THERE is something most appealing to the sympathies in thought of the blind child. There is a vast number of these children in the world. Such a child merits every loving thought and practical effort in its behalf that can be bestowed upon it.

DR. COPELAND

The New York Association for the Blind is an organization that has recently taken up education for the mothers of blind children who are in the kindergarten department of the association. Many of the suggestions given there may be of inestimable value to hundreds of other mothers of the blind.

It was found that unwise home treatment of such children results in undoing much of the good which the children had learned in the association kindergarten. Mothers who take instruction at the association are training their children at home along the lines outlined.

Many blind children are left in idleness at home a great part of the time. This is wrong. Such a child should be taught many of the helpful duties about the home. They should be made self-reliant.

There are endless things a child may learn to do. In the first place, he should be taught to walk at the normal walking age. Of course, a blind child has an instinctive fear to overcome, but this can be done through patience in the training.

Blindness is not accepted as a handicap at the New York Association of the Blind. They build on the theory than blind children should be treated the same as children who have their eyesight.

The children are encouraged to take part in the running and playing games used in all kindergartens. As early as possible a child should put body and mind into action.

Children should be discouraged about sitting alone and in idleness. They should be encouraged to play with other children who have their sight. In short, they should not be treated other than are normal children.

Children are adaptable. A child is easily shown how to take part in some home duties, and made to believe that he can do them as well as anyone else. The child can learn how to shell peas and beans, peel potatoes, crack nuts, wash dishes, help dust and clean the furniture.

A child loves to feed the pets, the dog, the cat or the canary. He can feed the animals on the farm.

There are out-of-door games for children which they would do well to learn, for every child should be outdoors as much as possible. Digging in the garden under mother's supervision would be an ideal pursuit for the small tot who can feel but not see.

In the New York Association for the Blind the children who have not sight even learn to use roller skates. Out on the open-air roof they learn both how to cultivate self-confidence and build for good health at the same time.

The sightless child who can have the benefit of such a practical training for helpfulness and the development of self-confidence will develop into a happier and better citizen. His mental and physical development will follow along normal lines. There is much to be said for such a program by the New York Association for the Blind. It is a very fine thing!

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

WHEN will some of our beauteous back numbers discover the fact that the faint hairline eyebrow is passe? It is as done for as the feather boas or the straight-front corset. Eyebrows are normal again, but they should be tweezed into graceful lines, the far ends finishing at a fairly sharp point, the arch being well forward, so that the eyebrow takes on the outline of the bird's wing in flight. Applications of brilliantine provide a glisten, and a nightly brushing trains the hairs to stay put.

SHE of the ample area, with full figure and plenty of back spread should know that frocks of light color add to bulk and that dark shades detract. Black, dark brown, navy blue and deep plum produce no definite silhouette; they shadow into the landscape or room-cape, while the white frock will cause every line of the figure to stand out as the cameo design displays itself clearly against its background. In the white frock especially every roll of flesh is noticeable.

WE fancy that we get our complexions at the cosmetic counter, but the fact is they come with the groceries. What one eats has everything to do with the condition of the skin—its color, its texture, its resistance to cold and heat, atmospheric dust and weather. In the daily diet should be fruits and vegetables, whole grain cereals, milk, meat and eggs. All these contain vitamines which build tissue cells and enrich the blood.

The White House Gang

dow monocles, one day, after the snow had gone, a sharp eye spotted a roadster, high off the ground and painted a flaming red, and with much polished brass, gleaming in the sun, speeding about the driveway between the south portico and the fountain.

The Gang found this car parked at the west gate, under the shadow of the trees, and had swarmed over it with the most intense interest. Cars were still something out of the ordinary; indeed, as late as January, 1909, the United States Senate hesitated to vote for an allowance to provide the President with an automobile, because such action appeared to be a reflection upon the faithful horse.

Exceptional Speed

Just as we began to explore the tool-box, the proud owner appeared, a man who, under Col. Bromwell, had something to do with the supervision of the gardens. Knowing him well, Q demanded a ride—for all of us. The car-owner exhibited some reluctance, but Quentin argued and cajoled until we were permitted to pile in.

Ordinary driving and riding, however, was not enough. Q urged more speed at the top of his voice; the rest of the Gang yelled in support, as the wind rushed by. We had never ridden in anything which traveled half so fast, and most have been going at the (then) phenomenal speed, of 25 miles an hour. It was glorious—simply intoxicating!

"We're speed demons!" cried Q exultingly. "This must be exactly like flying!"

Round we went, and round. The car took the straight road east—towards the Treasury. Finding himself approaching the iron gates faster than he intended, the driver clapped on the brakes, which worked with surprising effectiveness. The red roadster stopped—but some of the Gang kept on traveling through space, in the general direction of the Treasury.

Startling Affair

Those members who were perched on the front seat, fell forward on their stomachs, and then somersaulted, clutching wildly at the brass lamps, en passant. Fortunately no one was seriously hurt, and the Gang picked itself out of the gravel and shrubbery, carrying minor cuts and bruises, but no broken bones or other serious damage.

And, as I have already intimated, one of the monocled eyes in the face of the east wall of the State-War-Navy Building had seen the whole affair. As a consequence, there was much excitement and telephoning to the White House. But our friend of the red car had driven most of the evidence away with him, by the time messengers had issued from the White House to discover what it was all about. The Gang saw them coming, and proceeded to drape itself as nonchalantly as possible, about the base of the south portico, looking as cool and collected as though it were grouped for a photograph, against that historic background.

Not long after, a startling chapter in White House history nearly came to be written, at this same spot. So shocking, indeed, was the whole affair, that its chief actor must remain nameless.

In the beginning, it is highly probable that this boy was influenced, in the questionable action he took, by tales of fireman-heroism, such as make the blood of all boys to tingle in their veins, and their hearts to beat faster than heretofore. To be of such heroic stuff—all of us knew we were—and to be able to furnish evidence of the fact, was several times made the subject of discussion, in the deliberative sessions of the Gang. On one boy, this had made a deep impression. He talked of it so assiduously, as to become tiresome, and to incur the penalty of being bawled out, until he was ashamed to mention it again.

Fire Started

Then the awful thing happened. We had been dodging about a number of metal receptacles, containing paper, which had been moved across the driveway from the garden. On the previous afternoon, there had been a Marine Band concert, to which the public had been admitted, and enough litter had resulted to fill several of the waste barrels. Some hitch had occurred in the usual prompt policing of the garden, and for an hour or so, the waste rubbish had been allowed to remain near the south portico.

Suddenly the contents of one of these receptacles blazed up, in a most mysterious way. The unnamed member of the Gang quickly vanished, to reappear, almost instantly, with several small fire extinguishers, and proceeded to put out the blaze, all by himself. So he became a hero, and basked in the admiration of the Gang, although it had to be admitted, that the flames had been too far away even to scorch the base of the portico.

Presently, we began to wonder at our comrade's celerity and his knowledge of the whereabouts of the extinguishers. Then a careless, boastful remark betrayed him; the Gang immediately tackled him and pressed him to the point where he admitted he had touched a match to the rubbish himself so that he could have the personal honor and glory of putting out the flame.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, April 4

WHILE the general trend of the affairs of the day may be toward progress and fulfilled ambitions, yet the most promising course of events may be negatived by a personal predisposition to quarrels, strife and litigation. With temperate behavior there is opportunity for success and advancement, especially for those in employment.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a successful and prosperous year if they will but curb a tendency to contention, strife and litigation. Those in employment should push for favors or promotion.

A child born on this day should be well equipped for success and high station in life, but it should be given early discipline in good nature and self-government.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The President's Welcome

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Could you give me some ideas of what I might say in a short informal welcome address to the club of which I am president? We are having guest day and the speech is to be a welcome to our friends.

READER.

IT is almost impossible for an outsider to tell you what to say when she doesn't know the purpose of the club or anything else about it. If there is a definite purpose of the club then it would be quite natural. I should think, to state that purpose after you have welcomed your guests and to interpret, briefly and clearly, that purpose. The fact that they are guests means probably that they are interested in the idea of the organization.

The first part of the speech would be the welcome, of course, in language as simple and unstilted as possible. It is difficult to say this welcome in original language, for it has been done so many times, but you can make your manner so convincingly gracious and friendly that your words will carry charming weight. Like a hostess at a party, thank your guests for coming to the "guest day"—emphasize their friendliness, your wish to show them your hospitality.

Spontaneous Applause

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it correct for a woman to applaud at a concert or theater?

MARY.

YES, and why shouldn't she? How can anyone else do your applauding for you? Applauding is a personal matter, a very personal matter, the way we have of expressing our approval and delight at a performance. And I want to do my own!

In fact, I never could see the sense of the custom of women not applauding after a dance—if they wish to. The spontaneous expression of delight in the dance seems to me very natural and appropriate and reasonable. But I rarely see a girl or woman brave enough to do it!

The Motor Guest

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

If a friend of mine calls and leaves a friend of hers outside in the car, should I ask her to ask her friend in, or should I go out and ask the friend in?

C. N.

I THINK that it would be hospitable for you to do both. That is, ask your friend if her friend will come in, and suggest that you and she go out together to invite her to come in.

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

NEW YORK, April 3.

THE INQUEST

THESE views the press will never quote
Of one who died; a man of note

"To me, he was a laughing lad,
And tender," said a girl called bad . . .

And when she heard that he had died,
An often-married woman cried . . .

"Ye gods!—that guy knew how to kiss,"
Remarked a slangy little miss.

His widow wrung her handkerchief
A time or two of tears of grief . . .

And sought a discreet other honey
To help spend the insurance money.

THE RETORT TERRIBLE

THE return of Percy Hammond from the Orient reminds us of the famous dramatic critic's great feud with an actor which started over a Hammond thrust. The player never forgave Hammond for it either and whenever they met the actor heckled the critic or tried to start a "scene." After a long absence the ham returned in a new play and the firstnighters who were familiar with the feud wondered how Hammond would report on the fellow.

Walter Winchell

True to his public the critic prepared a hearty notice on the play and didn't mention his enemy until the very last paragraph, which ran: "Mr. ——, who plays the part of the hero on this occasion, fortunately gets no opportunity to do the things he does so badly."

ANYTHING FOR A LAUGH

Bless Broadway's little cold heart. Two of its indifferent citizens having nothing to occupy their alleged minds the other night were passing a Times Square theater where a new play was opening.

"Gee, but I'm bored," said the first. "What is there to do?"

"Let's go in here," suggested the other, "and watch the actors get nervous."

KIDDING A KIDDER

THE Friars, the theatrical club which keeps poking fun at its opposition organization, The Lambs, hurled another dinner in honor of Bugs Baer the other midnight and of course belittled him. Someone revealed that when Bugs first came to New York he became a gigolo "but had to give it up as the hours were too long!"

He was better described by another belittler in this manner: "Bugs isn't a good Friar at all. He's a Lamb in cheap clothing."

WISEYS

From Kerry Williams: After viewing the latest crop of talkies one is convinced more than ever that Hollywood must be full of guess-men . . . Henry Ford's antique collection is soon to have an addition in the form of a two-a-day vaudeville theater . . . Aimee MacPherson left Hollywood for Palestine and passed a lot of film executives going there . . . There's a fellow working in a certain Hollywood movie studio who isn't related to anybody!

THE REVENGE SWELL

ONE of the local men about town was "clipped" in a speakeasy the other night, but his revenge was grand. He has plenty of coin and spends it, but the gyp joint carried matters too far. After having two rounds of bad likker he was given a bill for $36. He put up a fuss, of course, but decided to pay and not get a licking from the tough management. He gave the waiter a $50 note and the waiter said: "Thanks for the tip." When the victim demanded protection from the owner he was told: "Get it from the waiter or else!"

The spender and his chum took their departure. The next day he met a pal, a detective who pounds the Broadway beat and told him of the outrageous deal he experienced. The pal advised him to check the gypping up to profit and loss and that he would even matters for him in a sweeter manner.

The place was visited by the police who ripped the joint and bar to splinters, busting every ornament and wrecking the dive beyond recognition. A swell revenge if ever there was one and for stealing $36 the management will probably have to spend $3,600 to start in business again.

THE MORNING MAIL

"DEAR WINCHELL," affectionately writes G. G.: "I thought you would be interested to know that your recent line, 'Lieut Paddy Fitzgibbons of the Broadway Strong Arm Squad is the only mannerly detective, because he removes his hat when he enters a night club,' was seen by his 93-year-old mother, who was very pleased. But she proudly recalled that when her son was a youngster he tipped his hat to a man on the street he thought was a Catholic priest. 'That was a rabbi minister,' said Mrs. Fitzgibbons, 'but you made no mistake, my son. Always remove your hat whenever you meet any holy man!'

NIFTY

And Wayne G. Hailsley's flippest crack is: "Love your enemies' enemies."

MR. CAPONE COMPLAINS

MEMBERS of the Chicago underworld just returned to Broadway would have you believe that when Capone got back to the Loop he sent for all the reporters and told them:

"When are you fellows going to get wise and lay off me? You know well enough that you only play me up because I'm supposed to be good copy, but no matter what you write you can't hurt me. I'm all set. But every time you exaggerate my activities you only hurt Chicago, because a story mentioning me goes on almost every front page all over the world, hurting nobody but Chicago, which is why, maybe, it is broke, while I've got over a million dollars."

THE TRAGEDY OF IT

AMONG other dramas that seldom make the news columns is the one concerning the gorgeous gal who was wooed and loved by a very rich man. Her mother wasn't impressed by the fact that the suitor was wealthy. She wanted the girl to marry a lad of the neighborhood, and, without letting her daughter know, she called at the rich lad's office and said: "My daughte isn't of age and I will oppose her marriage to you unless you take care of me for the rest of my life and give me $100,000 before you marry her."

The man was stunned. He decided that it was a gold-digger's plot between the girl and her mother and broke the engagement. The lass never got over the shock and the pain of it, eventually losing her mind.

When they found her dead the papers said it was because dieting never reduced her once divine form.

How to reduce coarse pores —overnight

Nurses tell secret of fine-textured skin

NO COMPLEXION—no matter how fresh and clear—can be truly attractive if the pores are enlarged.

Nurses first discovered the way to solve this vexing problem. A way that the 4,000,000 users say is the easiest, quickest, most successful! A mildly astringent, corrective cream that refines the texture of the skin—makes pores invisible—Noxzema Skin Cream.

Noxzema is a double action cream, nurses explain. Its healing medication clears away the poisons and wastes that stop up and enlarge the pores. Its gentle astringents carefully close the pores—without leaving that tight, "drawn" look. That's why Noxzema is such a complete, corrective cream.

Noxzema acts quickly, too. The minute you smooth it on, you'll actually feel it start shrinking your pores—refreshing and stimulating your skin. Eight hours later, you'll see the big improvement it has made. Your skin will be noticeably finer-textured—and clearer as well.

Start getting this radiant new beauty today. Get a small, trial jar of Noxzema Skin Cream. On sale at all leading drug and department stores.

DAILY TRUE STORY

"Out Smart 'Em"

"OUT-SMART 'em son."

Multi-millionaire Stanley Rexford was talking to his son, Courtney.

"'Do' them, eh?"

"I said to out-smart 'em."

"I got you—cheat 'em."

Rexford pounded the glass top to his desk until it was on the verge of cracking.

"Demmit, Courtney — that's dumb talk. We never use the word 'cheat'—we never cheat anyone. Look here, every man is on the make, from the old clothes man to the captain of industry. All of us are on the make. Brains win. Each man tries to be smarter than the man or men he deals with. If he is dumb enough to lose he's a flop—you know, the underdog gets a lot of sympathy but no praise. But if he outsmarts 'em, and makes his pile, he's a great man."

"Like you."

"Well, plenty look up to me—money is power, you can't deny that."

"No, sir."

"So just keep that in mind. Now run down to Philly and get that XG stock—some dumb little old man owns the block I want. He'll sell it for a song."

"All right. I'll take the noon train tomorrow—"

"Take the noon train today—you've got an hour. Don't put it off. The old man might die—it might be tied up—it's the key block I need for that Tivington deal."

"Heck, Dad, the old man won't die over night and I've got a heavy date on."

"Mae Nelson, I suppose? In that case, I'll say go down to-tomorrow—"

"Not with the fair widow, Dad—widows have no particular charms for me."

"Don't be stubborn. You go ahead and marry Mae Nelson, she's crazy about you—can't say she's fortune hunting as she's got plenty and I'd like to get the Utilities interests she holds into our family—be doubly clever, get one swell little wife—"

Widow Out

"The widow is out—O-U-T. She's all right for them as likes 'em. I happen to have fallen hard for the sweetest and prettiest little lady——"

"Miss Johnson, I suppose?"

"Bulls-eye, Dad, you rung the bell first time."

"Don't be so dumb, Courtney—marry my secretary? Hot stuff for the tabloids, but it won't do. Go jump your train."

"Tomorrow noon," said the young man. He hurled out and pretended not to have heard the commands his father bellowed at him.

On the way out he stopped at Miss Carrie Johnson's desk outside.

Carrie was staring at her typewriter keys. She was staring hard, with rather wet eyes and her face was white.

"What, ho—little Princess, all set for the party tonight?" Courtney said as he stopped to run his hand down over Carrie's taffy-colored curls. The taffy color and the curls both being natural.

Carrie choked a little.

"Sorry," she said throatily, "but I can't go."

"Ah, now, sweetness, don't be like that. Don't let them pile too much work on you — quit early and doll up, it's quite a drive out to Forrester's——"

"It can't be done, Courtney. Your—your father objects."

The young man's jaw set hard and he frowned.

"Did he have the nerve to butt into my affairs and say anything to you?"

"No—not at all. He's spoken now and then of the foolishness of girls marrying out of their class—"

"I know I'm not good enough for your class, for you, but—"

"I knew what he meant, Courtney. And just now I couldn't help hearing what he said—about the rich widow."

"Yes? And did you hear what I said about you. I said you were the sweetest and prettiest little lady, and I could have added, one of the best."

"I can't make trouble, Courtney."

"We'll talk it over tonight. I'll be there for you. I'll get your mother to help me drag you out——"

"Don't say anything to mother—I'll go tonight and we'll talk it over."

Takes Secretary Out

So Courtney Rexford took his father's secretary out to the Forresters' country place and had a rather difficult time of it making her agree not to throw him down because of his father's wishes. However, she promised to let things go on for the present and see how everything came out.

Courtney Rexford went to Philadelphia and out to the suburbs the next day, and found little, old Mr. Carter.

"They told me to hold on to XG until it was up to 40, sir," said old Mr. Carter. "I need money, but I guess I can hang on—it's all I've got in the world and if I sell now I won't get what I paid for it."

Courtney chatted with him and sized up the little cottage, the threadbare clothes the old man wore, the remains of a pitifully meager meal.

"Well, I'll tell you," Courtney blurted, "I'll give you what you paid for half of your stock, that will give you ready money. You hang on to the other until it goes to 65. It will go there within a month. I'll see that you sell at the right time."

"Why—why should you do this for me?"

"Why not?"

The old man shook his head.

"I thought the generation of live-and-let-live was past," he muttered as Courtney paid him for half of the stock and put the stuff in his pocket.

Courtney felt rather good about it.

His father was furious.

"But you've got enough, you control it now," his son agreed.

"But you should have got it all—made twice as much money, and you paid him eight points above what it is now. Of all the idiotic, Don Quixotic fools——"

"Listen, Dad, you've got control, the old man was starving, this will give him enough for the rest of his days—the other half. What is that piffling amount to you?" He remembered the old man's words, so he said, "And it's just a case of live and let live."

"Fiddlesticks—you're dumb!" bellowed the old man.

"Fiddlesticks yourself. I'm no crook," the son retorted, showing that he, also, had some of the Rexford temper.

Playing Suckers

"Don't use that silly word. Can't you understand that a thug, yegg, hold-up man is a crook, but a business deal is different. Out-smart 'em. Listen again, the suckers are made for the smart ones—and the suckers will bleat if they aren't relieved of whatever they have. Play a sucker for all he's got and he'll like it. He'll earn another pile and come back for more. Now let's get down to brass tacks—you marry Mae Nelson and take a run around the world, then come into business with me and—"

"I will not."

The old man quieted down, with an ominous quiet.

"You are too dumb for me. I can't see my own suffer. I can't see you go hungry or cold or in rags. I'll pay all your tailor bills. There's your room and meals at home, but not a damn penny for you to spend. Go do what you like; you're sure of a home and clothes—try that for a few months and you'll come dancing back to me, willing to listen to sense."

"Thanks, for nothing — and you'll be older than the Hudson River when I do come dancing back ready to marry a woman and you pick out because you like her financial holdings. Cheerio!"

Courtney went out. Carrie had overhead, again. She was crying. He kissed her.

"From night clubs to movies—but we'll be together just the same," he told her.

"Make good—for my sake," she whispered.

Courtney turned two of his three cars into money, also a power launch, two polo ponies and sundry other things. He proceeded to chase around and buy up XG. He sent a bank check to his father for what he got from old Carter and collected a great deal more.

His father put the Tivington deal through. Courtney ran down and had old Carter sell at 71. Courtney held his.

Booze for Party

Old man Rexford was to pull a big party at his home celebrating the new deal. He needed an extra lot of a special brand of liquor. Courtney happened to be going out.

"Know where I can get any of that So-and-So brand?" he asked.

"Sure, Dad. But it's up to 120 a case."

"All right, I'd better stock up, it's getting scarcer. I'll take all your bootlegger can give me of it."

Courtney hustled out. He got very busy.

A bootlegger brought around 56 cases. He got cash. Later Rexford tried it out.

It was all colored water!

If people at the Battery heard a yelp, that was old man Rexford. He got hold of Courtney and yelled some more.

"You didn't buy from my bootlegger, my bootlegger won't be here until seven, he has 75 cases, you can try it out, sir." Courtney was seemingly very sorry someone had fooled his father.

Courtney's bootlegger arrived with the 75 cases. Courtney showed his father. He picked a bottle here, another there, seemingly at haphazard. It was the real thing. This was paid for.

Courtney disappeared.

Those three bottles were the only good ones. The rest was colored water. Rexford had to serve something else.

Miss Johnson didn't show up next day until noon. Courtney was with her.

"Meet the wife, Dad," he said.

The old man started to yell.

"Listen," Courtney said, "I cleaned up 120 grand in that Tivington deal for myself, and 15,000 more on that fake liquor deal I put through on you—"

"What? You did it? Get out before I—"

"Keep cool. You are always right. I took your advice, dad. You said to always outsmart 'em. You said the suckers wanted to be skinned and that they'd come back for more. You were right. I skinned you on a fake booze deal and you came back to get skinned again. I'm going on a honeymoon trip; so long, wish us luck, Dad!"

The old man was purple. Then he laughed, then he hugged his son and his son's wife.

"Come back and come in with me as junior partner, son," he said.

BIG IDEA DEPARTMENT

With the Law Enforcement Commission trying to figure out something to do about the crime situation it sure gives me a laugh to think none of them ever thought of such a perfectly obvious scheme as impounding all cars left parked on the street after twelve o'clock so burglars and safe crackers would have to walk to work. Hope you will do something about this. Yours.

Alas for the motorcar salesman,
So bouyant, so eager and blithe—

Voters Should Be Wary About Filling Offices

Political leaders have been and continue to be extremely busy. They have been holding conferences and deciding among themselves whom THEY desire to have occupy offices which are to be filled through ballots to be cast by YOU and your neighbors.

There is nothing improper about this. There are leaders in all lines of endeavor, men who are at the forefront by reason of intelligent, constant and aggressive attention to the business they are engaged in, whether it be industry, commerce or profession. We must have government, and, naturally, men who devote time to it and train themselves for it will be—and should be—providing they are honest—accepted for service in it.

Politics is something we should be interested in. Many are not because they have become disgusted with gang political methods. Many are interested merely in the mob complex sense—going with the crowd regardless of what the civic result of such participation may be. The indifference of these two classes usually helps the leaders in control of the "payroll" to achieve what THEY desire.

It is time for the earnest and sincere citizen who has the welfare of the community and his own home at heart to wake up. The leaders awakened long ago. Men who desire to seek party nomination awakened long ago. There is no lack of candidates, some of them, especially those seeking return to the Legislature, hoping that the voters will continue to remain asleep.

Some of these candidates will hope that the voters forget about the betrayal of the public by the last legislature in the matter of the Coal and Iron Police law, the Metropolitan Charter and the Gas Tax bill. Those whose records are stainless may, by reason of the indifference cited, be fated to lose renomination, while those who were subservient to the bosses and became part of the steam roller in the closing days of the last Legislature, may be returned to Harrisburg to shame Pennsylvania again as it was shamed in 1929.

If the political leaders are active, it is high time that you, too, became active—mentally. Men who seek legislative office, if they are to receive your vote, should be those you can rely upon to do the square thing. Now is the time to find out if they will.

As a fair-minded person, you will not wish to have such a notorious organization as the Coal and Iron Police continued in Pennsylvania. As a fair-minded citizen, you will desire that the Metropolitan plan, which you and your neighbors demanded by an impressive majority, be made fruit in the form of a charter that the people, themselves, want. As a fair-minded citizen, you certainly will wish that our law makers have sufficient courage to give a hearing at least to those opposed to the silly Sunday observance law of 1794.

Men of courage will be needed in the next Legislature, which is the branch of government that should interest you particularly. Men of courage and honor. Now is the time to find out about those whom you will be importuned to vote for in the May primary.

Old Two Toes

He Refused to Be Civilized.

Old Two Toes, timber wolf who ranged for 10 years in the wilds of Cross County, Arkansas, is a prisoner at last. It took a sheriff, a prosecuting attorney and several of the best bloodhounds in the South to get him. Now he will spend the rest of his days in inglorious captivity in the Memphis (Tenn.) zoo.

A sad comedown for this last great survivor of the long line of savage "varmints" that once roamed free as air through primeval forest and plain.

Two Toes, oddly enough, was so named because he had but two toes. He left the others, at various times, in traps. But thus crippled, he killed hundreds of sheep, cattle and even fullgrown bulls.

He was, in the words of the Cross County yeomanry, "consid'able of a wolf."

Recently Two Toes slaughtered 14 goats, and the sovereign State of Arkansas rose in its wrath. A warrant was sworn out for him, dead or alive. After a gruelling pursuit, the forces of the law finally ran him into a hollow log and spread a net around the end. Then, and only then, did he surrender.

Like a minor Napoleon at a modern St. Helena, Two Toes will now look through the bars of his cage at a peanut-eating, finger-pointing public. One can imagine that he will survey the scene with irony. Civilization conquered him, it is true, but he led it a dance for 10 long years. He could justly claim to have fought gallantly against a standardized, mechanized age, whose watchwords are safety and efficiency—and the dullness and stupidity also, compared with the spacious frontier days when men were men and wolves were wolves.

The Airplane Beggar

He's Next.

The old theme of the beggar on horseback got a new twist in Elizabeth, N. J., recently, when police picked up a pair of blind beggars—and their own limousine—and their own chauffeur.

This pathetic old couple, man and wife, were found trudging along a street singing ballads and soliciting alms. All might have gone well if their chauffeur had not parked the limousine too long in one place.

So they left, chauffeur, limousine and all, at the suggestion of the officers of the law. But it sounds like a good racket.

The airplane beggar has not appeared yet, but it is only a question of time. Perhaps he will carry shoe laces on the instrument board and a big sign on the fuselage: "Help the Blind." And you may be sure that some good-natured joy-rider of the skies will breeze past him and drop a nickel in the tin cup on his wing tip.

Dawn of a New Day

A Release from Drudgery.

There seems to be no end of latent genius in this broad land of ours. Now comes a master mind with an invention which will release millions of housewives from drudgery and permit them to return to the simple lost arts—such as sock darning.

The invention is a doorbell which does not ring until a coin is deposited in a slot. Consider the possibilities! The landlord, the bill collector, the brush salesman and the bootlegger (with their pennies or dimes) contribute to the overhead of the average man, thus giving all of us unearned income to pay rent, buy brushes and so on.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Smocking the Chauffeur

NEW YORK'S 30,000 taxi pilots have defeated Grover Whalen's attempt to make 'em dress like standardized orphans.

"Bugs" Baer

The police commissioner's plans and specifications called for a uniform smock, spats and a polo hat.

The smock was to be blue in color, with pinch-back effect, crown fender lapels and non-refillable hip pockets.

In case a smocked chauffeur smacked a passenger with a monkey wrench, the chauffeur would be unsmocked.

Everybody knows that a taxi jockey has peculiar and manly ideas about dress. He attends so many dances that he keeps an emergency tuxedo in his tool chest.

When the smocking idea bloomed forth in all its brilliant statistics, the chauffeurs held an indignation meeting on the driver's seat. The spokesman made a speech in which he said, "Grover has power but he cannot smock us around like that."

Driving a taxi in New York or any other city is not a lavaliere of Christmas tree ornaments. When you are tip-toeing through the tulips of traffic you are running a war blockade that is never lifted.

We admit that the Turf Association has never set down a gasoline jockey for rough riding. But there is plenty of crowding on the turns.

Instead of improving the chauffeurs, the Traffic Board could improve all big city touring by putting in a Liverpool jump.

The chauffeurs did not object to the price of the smock, which was only about two bills. But they knew that if fashion got a start on them they would soon be wearing boutonnieres.

The defeat of the smockola as a uniform is due to the fact that chauffeurs have always associated uniforms with summonses.

We would like to see the boys look gnat and neaty, with Lord Fauntleroy bobs and eyelashes fluttering like angel wings. But we fear that most of the vulcanized veterans are not the type.

The Western Union has uniformed its midget marathoners and theater ushers are the arbiters of sartorial efficiency.

But it looks as if the chauffeurs will continue to be the good old rough-finished product who doesn't have to consult the dictionary for his emergency conversation.

Isn't It So?

If ignorance is bliss, most of us have no kick coming.

A small size in shoes often means larger sighs from the wearer.

The only period in a woman's life when she gives any thought to dress is between the cradle and the grave.

THE MISCHIEF MAKER

By Herbert Kaufman

RUSSIA isn't interested in naval reduction. Except in the limited Black Sea district, all her vital areas are safe from maritime attack.

Her population, her factories, her mines and her larders huddle behind the most effective defenses, impenetrable mileage and repellent winters.

Like the late Dr. Munyon, who cared not who made the songs of the nation, as long as he might manufacture its PILLS, the Soviet dont give a whoop HOW many battle-keels the other powers lay, as long as they can construct all the AIRSHIPS that conquest requires.

Moscow is forging thunderbolts instead of long toms, confiding her fortunes to wing-spread—preparing to swoop upon the political systems that challenge her existence, with such cohorts of Falcons that no objective will soon be safe from their horde fury.

WHILE Democracy hems, haws, fiddles, fusses and chases chimeras at London, The Hague and Geneva, Staling programs the vastest technical educational plans in history within five years. The country will be filled with experts in engineering, metallurgy and aero-dynamics.

Completely self-resourced in every munition requirement but rubber, Russia can draw upon her own mines and forests for all the structural materials for armament and transportation. Her exhaustless wealths THUMB NOSE at blockade. She does not need the FREEDOM OF THE SEAS to obtain bread, oil, meat, fibers or fuels.

The war cloud that we should most dread is forming YONDER.

Militaristic Prussia simply schemed to captain civilization. Russia aims to RECAST the universe in her EXPERIMENTAL image.

MILITARISTIC Prussia would have destroyed Democracy in order to seize and operate its incredibly valuable and competent machinery. Bolshevism plots to vandalize Democracy and colonize the ruins with anarchy.

Soviet purpose menaces all personal ambition, all independent enterprise, all individual right.

It aims at the abolition of property laws, the overthrow of church and the abandonment of magna charta; the substitution of DICTATION FOR FREE WILL of censorship for UNBRIDLED expression of opinion and the elevation of the lazy and hazy to equality with intellectuality and thrift.

In the foreboding picture of triumphant Bolshevism with its merciless intents and mob lusts let loose upon reverence, prosperity and tolerance, there is a sharper challenge than was ever evoked by the specter of unchecked Kaiserism.

THE prodigious sums and sacrifices dabbling the fields of France, WILL finally become reckless gestures, if we yield to the pressure of commercial expediency the council of fatuous politicians, or the penetration of radicals, and lift diplomatic bans against the Soviets.

Any treaty concluded with the Russian government, as presently constituted, would invite anarchy further to propagandize here—permit untrammeled intercourse between Moscow's secret agents and the sympathetic extremists now furtively spreading hydrophobic venum through the United States.

Russia is NOT in the throes of evolution, but in the THRALL of MEGALOMANIA.

There can be no hope of BIDDING peace on earth—no assured futures for any generation—while Moscow spins webs of intrigue and smuggles the virus of mischief across every frontier.

WHAT'S the smartest way to get results?

I know two salesmen—both intelligent, hard-working, ambitious—as evenly matched as a couple of go-getters could be. Yet, during the year, Ed White makes twice as much as Drexel Gray. Here's the story—what do you make of it?

When Gray tackles a new prospect he does what every smart salesman is supposed to do. Size things up. Makes a careful survey of every possible difficulty and potential danger. It's interesting to watch him. He mentally goes over the field with a microscope, looking for pitfalls. Tabulates every conceivable handicap. Amazing the amount of trouble he can foresee. Then he prepares an elaborate program for meeting all these theoretical problems.

"Nobody's going to catch me napping," says Gray grimly—and nobody does. It's impossible to spring a trick on Gray that he hasn't already anticipated. He's certainly smart. Yet, somehow, in spite of this smartness, he doesn't get remarkable results.

Gray would answer this by saying: "Well, what would I have gotten if I hadn't doped out all the difficulties beforehand? They'd have wiped me out entirely."

Ed White, on the other hand, uses an entirely different method. Instead of making preliminary surveys and grave preparations, Ed just breezes into a situation. He must realize the possible difficulties, for he's plenty shrewd, but he doesn't spend time or energy getting ready for grief. Old Mr. Bitters may have a reputation in three states for cussedness—Mrs. Tattle may be a notorious shrew and tightwad—but you'd never guess it by watching Ed White. He greets everyone with the same merry June smile, the same air of confidential, long-established friendship. Confidence—that's Ed's long suit. He expects people to be nice to him. He expects people to work with him. And his expectations succeed. Of course they sometimes take advantage of his seeming carelessness, but, in the main, they seem to want to prove that his faith in their friendliness is justified.

Gray suspects. White expects. Gray uses his energy in getting ready for grief—White prepares himself for pleasure and profit.

They both work hard. They both find what they're looking for. So does everyone else, for we're all either Grays or Whites. Which is your method?

Magic Ways

"O I could be content," Love said,
"With just an attic bare,
A feeble fire, a crust of bread,
If but my Love was there!"

Ambiton heard with doubting ear,
It seemed so strange a thing.
Pride shrugged, Greed listened with a sneer,
Forgetting youth and Spring.

For it is easy to forget
That Love has magic ways,
And where its happy feet are set
Joy touches all the days.

Love makes a feast of poorest fare,
And through its attic's gloom
A thousand shining candles flare,
A thousand roses bloom!

Text for Today The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me besides the still waters. He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.—Psalm xxiii:1-3.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE Titanotheres, strange, horned, extinct mammals, rival the horses in fullness of record. So do the camels. The tapir and rhinoceros branches are not far behind. An extraordinary parallel to the later development of the horse-stock is afforded by the evolution of the Litopterna, a group of South American animals, all now extinct. Although many characters prove they were not horses, and not even closely related to horses, they responded to the world-wide change of vegetation in the same way as the horses did.

Evolving from a different fine-toed ancestor, they gradually increased in size, lengthened their legs, reduced their outer digits, and from three-toed became one-toed. They grew regular hoofs and their teeth became progressively longer and longer and of more complicated pattern. It is interesting that while their side toes were finally reduced further than in any horse, to mere stubs of bone, their teeth remained less efficient and never formed cement.

H. G. Wells

Grassy plains developed in South as in North America, and since for long before the Pliocene (V D) the southern continent was wholly cut off from North America, no true horses could then invade it; but the Litopterna developed along a parallel line to fill the same niche in Nature.

The elephants, too, provide us with a fine evolutionary series, which is peculiar in that its trend was first toward the development of a four-tusked creature, with long lower jaw.

Later, however, with increasing bulk, the further elongation needed, if the animals were to continue rooting in the ground with their lower jaw, became mechanically impossible; and at the same time the head, with its great tusks, was too heavy to be borne on any but a stout and short neck.

Accordingly, evolution changed its direction and pushed forward toward a short, tuskless lower jaw, while the development of a trunk kept the animal in touch with the ground. And other series almost equally perfect can be found among various groups of carnivores.

In reptiles the fossil crocodiles gradually shift the internal openings of their air-passages farther and farther back along the palate, making it easier for the animal to breathe while holding prey under water in wide-open jaws.

Moreover, series of smaller scope but greater continuity, like that of Micraster, are now available for certain starfishes, lampshells, ammonites, pond snails and other invertebrate forms.

Sometimes the fossil record is not so complete, but yet discoveries, though isolated, may be of startling interest as supplying the "missing links," as our grandfathers called them, between hitherto isolated groups. Typical of such linking types is the primeval bird, Archaeopteryx.

Two almost perfect skeletons of this creature are known, both from the Jurassic period (IV B) in the middle of the Age of Reptiles. The rock in which their form is preserved, at Solenhofen, in Bavaria, is so fine-grained that it is used for lithographic stone and has retained the smallest details, down to those of the delicate feathers.

Birds, as was suspected even before the discovery of this missing link, are descended from reptiles; they are reptiles which are specialized for an aerial life.

In Archaeopteryx we see the specialization in progress, incomplete. In a modern flying bird, for example, the repitilian forelegs are turned sideways to serve as wings, and this has necessitated profound changes in their structure.

Several originally distinct bones are welded together for rigidity, and the claws are lost (except in the young South American Hoatzin, which uses its wings to clamber about in the bushes).

But in Archaeopteryx, although the fore-limb is very certainly a wing, the welding of bones has not yet been brought about and there are still three well-developed and movable clawed fingers protruding from the wing, used presumably in climbing.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 3.—Harlem's Black Belt continues to be a hiving place for metropolitan decadence, supplanting the old Tenderloin as a setting for swoops of debauchery. When Broadway begins to yawn, it scurries to the curbs to taxi to Lenox avenue beyond One Hundred Twenty-fifth street.

Night didoes in Harlem do not begin until after 1 o'clock and is at its frothiest from 3 a. m. until dawn. Many cellars are filled with down-town stay-outs in full evening dress as late as 9 o'clock in the morning. Raw gin is the tipple at from 30c to 60c a shot.

While the black and tan cabarets with crooning jazzists and dusky maidens, clad only in scant beaded choli and ankle bells, are plentiful, there are hidden haunts for the initiates that strike a booming note in the pagan carnival.

Whispering guides, similar to those capped cicerones who accost strangers under the portico of the rue de Rivoli, are now a part of Harlem night life. They tell of sinister dens where high brows disport and where little is left to imagination. Midnight session boys!

In such havens, barkers murmur pianissimo of the Sultan's favorites who "shiver like jelly." There are also hide-aways where wheels of fortune whirr and where shots of cocaine are peddled as openly as pink lemonade on the circus lots.

Not all the girls are colored. Some are the Spanish and Mexican cast-offs from the cooch shows of old Tia Juana. They end their gyrations in a "flash"—posing for a moment in the nude. The admission to such exhibitions are from $1 to $10.

Down-town night clubs have been utterly unable to compete with Harlem's nocturnal naughtiness and most of the clubs are groggy and holding to the ropes. Out of 58 brand new clubs that opened for the season only 16 are still running.

Striver's Row is Harlem's Mayfair, so named because "those who strive" live there. It is a two-block long stretch on West 139th street and the fortunate dwellers, all successful colored people, live in a fashionable row of houses designed by the late Stanford White. Limousines are at the curb. At many doors uniformed butlers answer the ring. Florence Mills lived there as did Bert Williams, Paul Robeson and others of the elect.

I am told that Mrs. James Donahue, the former Jessie Woolworth, daughter of the 5 and 10 cent store magnate, has the second largest wardrobe in New York.

Peggy Joyce is reported to own more fur wraps than any person in town. Her collection includes some 80 and her summer storage and insurance bill is more than $5,000 a year. And for no particular reason—Miss Joyce's name will not be mentioned in this column for awhile.

The dollar a word rate paid for the magazine offerings of former President Coolidge and former Governor Al Smith is supposed to set a record, but a historian finds that James Whitcomb Riley's poem, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," earned for its author more than $500 a word.

Comparisons of literary pay are often made with Edgar Allen Poe as "the horrible example." Poe sold short stories for $10, but it was an exception and not the rule, even in those days.

A sheaf of hoots arrive over a statement by this writer that the legitimate stage is wobbling about on its last legs and point to the excellence of a new crop of plays. I have seen most of them. With one exception, they strike me as sometimes hearty but never significant like—well, say an occasional column by O. O. McIntyre.

A traffic cop was bawling out one of the tight-wasted boys who was jay walking across Fifth avenue at Thirty-eighth street. The jay walker, angered, replied: "I'm going to report you to the commissioner. What is your number?"

"Here is my number, [illegible]larence, and do you want my n[illegible] also?"

"No," he falsettoed, [illegible]t your number. I have a na[illegible] you."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

WITHOUT lifting a finger you are permitting your ambition to languish.

Easier to slip than to keep up to former standards.

Less and less energetic you grow and as time goes on what of your job?

It is much easier to hold the job you have by giving the required service, but you started out to advance and find a permanent place for yourself in a field that requires a lot more than you are giving.

You have slouched so much in your thoughts and initiative that it is doubtful whether you could hold a better job if you got it soon.

Get hold of yourself before it is too late.

It will not be easy to school yourself to a higher form of self-discipline, but you must if you would bring out the latent talents you have.

Education won't do it, but application of principles you learned in the school period must be applied to your daily work and your future prospects.

You can be kept in schools or colleges all your life and not amount to anything as a factor in the world today.

You must use your knowledge and use your mind and keep your motor oiled, as it were, to operate properly, to keep you jumping forward to accomplish something.

What is ambition for if it isn't heeded and kept in sight all the time.
